Mayor Childs Delivers Address To 1929 Board of Aldermen

Urge Covering of Brook at Boyd Park, Draining Cold Spring Swamp, Praises Newton's Schools and Denounces Graft in Public Service

Gentlemen of the Board of Aldermen: According to law we have assembled today to organize our city government; and, according to long established custom it is my privilege to address you at this time.

I speak to you not only as the chief executive of this city but also as a citizen proud of her progress and her commanding position.

As we take up our duties, let me wish for each one of you and for all of our fellow citizens a very happy New Year. This I am aware is the old time honored conventional phrase used at this holiday season, and yet I do not use it conventionally. I shall do all in my power to make the wish effective.

As servants of all the people and as their representatives it will be our duty to conduct the business of the city, discharging all the duties pertaining to our several offices faithfully and impartially as we have sworn to do.

It is always a privilege to serve one's fellows anytime and anywhere, but to have been selected by the people to conduct the government of their home city and ours is a distinct honor. The only way to repay them and show our gratitude for the confidence reposed in us is by bringing to our task the best of our abilities by treating everyone decently and by being fair. The needs of the people must be met. To meet them is our duty and a big undertaking. The health, the safety and the comfort of our citizens is the great aim we have in view.

In order to function money must be taken from them by taxation. One of the duties of citizenship is the duty to pay taxes willingly and intelligently, and by intelligently I mean that the good citizen will both know why he pays taxes and be critical enough to question the way public funds are used.

Money thus taken should be wisely spent. We should be ready at all times to give an account of our stewardship. Waste, favoritism, extravagance or even careless expenditure should be avoided and money raised for special purposes should be actually and honestly applied.

The man who finds fault with his tax bill (and comparatively few in Newton do after it has been explained to them) is usually he who considers himself to have been dealt with unfairly either in the raising or the spending of public money.

In these days when the cry of waste and dishonesty are heard all over the land in connection with municipal government, when writers both here and abroad say that it is a failure in the United States, let us see to it that the good name always borne by our city, established through the years by the absolute integrity of a long line of honorable public servants, is maintained.

The unjust steward, better known as the grafter in politics is he who directly or indirectly profits personally.

Dr. Tehyi Hsieh To Speak At Auburndale

"The Roosevelt of China" Coming on Jan. 11th

Dr. Tehyi Hsieh (pronounced Tee-yee Shee-ah) a speaker of exceptional vigor and charm will lecture in the Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church in Auburndale next Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Williams' Men's Class. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. and it is anticipated that a large audience will greet the distinguished orator.

If we do this, we shall earn the respect of those who have placed us where we are; we shall be able to look one another squarely in the eye; we shall rest peacefully when alone with our consciences, and we shall be extremely happy in our work.

Credit for that condition belongs to no one man or group of men. It must be shared by all who in season and out of season have contributed to her well being. To them I express my thanks. I desire to express my thanks also to the members of last year's Board of Aldermen, the members of all city boards and commissions, to the City Solicitor whose services have been invaluable, the City Physician, City Messenger, Heads of Departments, the clerks in City Hall, to the teachers in our schools, to police officers, firemen and to all who have worked for the city in any capacity, for their loyalty and willing services well performed.

We remember at this time with gratitude the work of our representatives in the General Court and also that of the business, military, philanthropic, fraternal and religious organization of our city which are continually making their contributions to a finer civic life.

Those who have heard Dr. Hsieh tell us that he is a delightfully human and entertaining speaker. He comes readily by the title the "Roosevelt of China." His subject at Auburndale next Tuesday night will be "Inside Light on Present-Day China." He represents the new China and his coming to our city gives us an opportunity to know at first hand about the astounding events in the celestial empire.

THE ROISIN DHU CLUB DANCE

The Roisin Dhu Club will conduct a Benefit Dance on next Tuesday evening, January 8th in Bay State Hall, Centre street, Newton. The well known Irish Ramblers will provide music for both the Gaelic and Modern dancing. These dances of the Roisin Dhu Club have always been characterized by that friendly Irish spirit which greets one and all with a Caed Mile Failte.

Three hundred years is a long time. Those years have been years of steady growth and progress; the past ten years recording the greatest growth of any decade. For the entire period, Newton has had good government. For that reason she is respected, especially by the bankers. Her credit is good. Her bonds are considered one of the best investments. They are always in demand and hard to find. They sell readily and at the best prices, comparable with prices paid for those of the Commonwealth. Temporary loans bring handsome bids. All this because for 300 years her record has been clean.

From a financial standpoint our condition is both safe and sound. The tax rate is $27.60. In 1918 it was $18.40. The average tax rate for all the cities and towns of Massachusetts is $29.07. Few cities have a tax rate as low or lower than ours.

During the past ten years, there has been a great increase in the number of those owning homes and properties. In 1928 there were 74% more property owners than in 1918.

In terms of value buildings show an increase of 117%, determined largely by new buildings. Land, unlike buildings, cannot show an increase in quantity but through revaluation shows an increase of 60%.

Winners Announced In Lighting Contest

First Prize Goes To Richard Feakes of Newton

The Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston announces the local winner of the contest, which started December 24 and continued through January 1, to determine the best decorated home during the holiday season. Points considered in making the award were originality, artistic effect and expression of the Christmas Spirit.

The first prize in the Newton district goes to Richard Feakes, 75 Park Avenue. Those receiving honorable mention were A. M. Hafferty, 676 Centre street; L. K. Reilly, 19 Channing street; E. J. Mulcahy, 271 Church street; A. H. Waitt, 30 Ellison road; W. C. Sills, 139 Franklin street; Mr. Liberato Prola, 11 Middle street; A. L. Howlett, 40 Newtonville avenue; and Dame Parks, 165 Newtonville avenue.

First prizes in other districts were awarded as follows:

Waban: J. J. Donovan, 12 Albany road.

West Newton: Mrs. U. S. Tufts, 265 Highland street.

Newtonville: Mrs. G. F. Duffy, 276 Mill street.

Newton Centre: G. L. Stocks, 83 Commonwealth Park West.

The following received honorable mention:

West Newton: W. H. Fowler, 77 Davis avenue.

Newtonville: Mrs. F. A. Mahan, Jr., 357 California street; W. S. Adams, 141 Crafts street; E. Rallebach, 34 Foster street; Mrs. M. L. Mahoney, 200 Harvard circle; Mrs. G. H. Wilson, 132 Harvard street; L. A. Webster, 225 Mill street; Mr. F. C. Midlam, 20 Turner street.

Newton Centre: F. A. Schirmer, 322 Commonwealth avenue; Mrs. J. B. Mills, 155 Eastbourne road; Mr. F. K. Brown, 112 Monadnock road; J. L. Vaas, 159 Ward street.

There were 51 communities entered in this holiday lighting contest and the response was very large, hundreds of homes in each community lighting up for Christmas.

The prizes in the local contest give the winner a choice of the following electrical appliances: Electrical Percolator Set; General Electric Cleaner, Junior (with attachments); Electric Bridge or Table Lamp; Telechron Clock; Johnson Electric Publisher; Electric Urn Set; a combination of small appliances to the value of $39.00 or this amount may be applied by the winner toward the purchase of any electrical appliance.

Within the next few days the judges in the contest will meet and decide upon the winner of the Grand Prize of a $200 Electrical Appliance for the best lighting exhibit in the whole Edison territory.

Returns show that thousands of additional homes were lighted this year over those of a year ago, particularly in the suburban districts. The safety from fire which electric lighting gives, together with the wide variety which combinations of colored bulbs provide, probably in large part account for the increasing popularity of holiday lighting. It is a custom which it is believed will not only increase here in New England during the Christmas and New Year's season but it is quite likely also to spread in its use for other holidays.

New Aldermanic Board Holds First Meeting Following Inaugural

Vote to Hold Public Hearing on Building of Cold Spring Swamp Drain on Jan. 21st on Committee's Recommendation

The only matter of considerable import discussed at the first meeting of the 1929 Board of Aldermen held Tuesday afternoon following the delivery of the inaugural address by Mayor Childs was that of building a drain and sewer in part of the territory known as Cold Spring Swamp. This swampy land is located partly at the rear of Newton Cemetery in the district lying between Homer street, Cemetery avenue, Chestnut street and Beacon street. South of Beacon the swampy territory covers several hundred acres roughly bounded by Beacon street, Chestnut street and the Cochituate aqueduct. Most of this land is so low and wet that it is useless for building purposes. It has been assessed for very little, much of it being valued according to assessments at 14 cent per square foot. For many years there have been occasional demands for the draining of this swamp area because of the contention that it breeds mosquitoes but because of the cost involved this improvement was never accomplished.

At the meeting of the new 1929 Board of Aldermen on Tuesday the members of the Board were asked by the Public Works Committee to confer on the Cold Spring drain project as a committee of the whole. When the members re-assembled in the aldermanic chamber the Public Works Committee recommended that a public hearing be ordered for January 21st on the matter of building the proposed drain and sewer under the General Law. Any public improvement constructed under the General Law is paid for by the city. Public improvements made under the Betterment Law are paid for in whole or in part by persons whose properties are benefited by the improvements.

When the question of ordering the hearing on the so called Cold Spring drain and sewer was about to be voted upon, Alderman Powers of Ward 1 spoke against the measure. He contended that the drain and sewer will cause appreciable and special detriment to large areas of land which at present are of little or no value. This land after the drain and sewer have been built will at once become quite valuable for building purposes. The owners of it who will enjoy large increments because of the improvements should pay part of the cost rather than have the cost saddled upon all the tax payers of the city.

The Ward 1 alderman called attention to the many petitions for sewers and drains in streets throughout the city which have not been granted the past few years because funds have not been available. He referred to Mayor Childs' inaugural address delivered a couple of hours before in which the Mayor stated that from now on the city cannot borrow outside its debt limit for drain and sewer construction work. He stated that when the swampy areas around Cold Spring brook will have been made available for building purposes by the construction of the proposed drain, many more new streets will be laid out and thus many more petitions for street sewers will be received. He argued that if the city builds the proposed drain and sewer under the General Law, thus assuming all the cost of this work, most of the available money for drains and sewers will be used on this one big project. It will follow, therefore, that petitions for drains and sewers on existing streets will have to be denied, because of the diversion of the large amount of money to the Cold Spring swamp project. He called attention to the assertions which have been made that Newton has been growing so fast in recent years that the city has not been able to construct streets, drains and sewers petitioned for. He contended that the proposed drain and sewer form but the first half of such improvements which must be continued through the

NEWTON SUBS BEAT ARLINGTON HIGH 2-0

Newton high opened the Greater Boston Inter-scholastic league 1929 preliminary series with a 2 to 0 victory over the Arlington high sextet yesterday afternoon at Bullock's Pond, Newtonville. The game was originally scheduled for the Arlington sink but on account of poor ice was shifted to Newtonville. Newton was expected to have an easy time with the inexperienced Arlington outfit which has but one veteran in its lineup, Captain Sherman Forbes, but the Arlington team played a fine defensive game. Newton was the aggressor throughout but the visitors were by no means outclassed and had it not been for some exceptionally fine goal-tending by Capt. Dan Harrington of the Newton team the game might have gone into overtime.

It was learned before the game that James Brown, Newton star veteran, will be lost to the team after Monday when the report cards come out but that he may be able to get back in time for the final series at the Arena. His loss may mean considerable to the orange and black six although there is some sterling second string material available.

In fact it was a second string man that was the outstanding performer for Newton yesterday. In the first period Fred Schipper, sub wing, laid a beautiful pass right onto Allie Fletcher's stick in the first period and the latter sent it into the cage. In the final period Schipper beat Simmonds, Arlington net guardian, for the final point.

SPORT NOTES

Yale Beats Dartmouth

Dick Rogers, Harold Andrus, and Henry L. Johnson, Jr., tried their utmost along with the other members of the Dartmouth hockey team to beat Yale Wednesday night at New Haven but the Green was no match for the Blue, which triumphed by a 5 to 1 score. Yale took a comfortable lead in the opening period, tallying four of its points, and was never in danger of losing from then on. Dartmouth scored its only tally in the second period. The third period was scoreless with the Green displaying its best hockey. Rogers played the entire game at left wing while Andrus and Johnson were used as spares on the defence.

Rice Reaches Semi-finals

William Rice, star squash player of the Newton Centre Squash Racquet Club, was the first man in the field to reach the semi-final round of the Middlesex Bowl tournament being conducted by the Newton Centre Club. Rice advanced on New Year's Day by defeating a teammate, Richard Cooke, in a thrilling match in which many rallies were staged. The scores were 13-15, 15-12, 15-9, 15-6. Cooke had previously eliminated Paul Watson of the Harvard Club, winner of the trophy for the last two years.

Newton League Bowling

Prior to Wednesday night's matches in the Newton Bowling League, Waban was third, Hunnewell fifth and Newton Club sixth in the Bottle Pin tournament standing. Dexter of Hunnewell was tied for third highest average with 189. In the Boston pin tourney Newton club is second place to Middlesex, Hunnewell third and Waban sixth and last. Greene of Hunnewell held third high average with 111 and Loring of Hunnewell tied for fourth with 107. Greene also holds the highest three string total with 417.

Cooke And Holt Named

Dick Cooke and Arthur Holt have been added to the lineup of the Boston team in the intercity Lockett cup squash racquets matches at New York tomorrow and Sunday, giving Newton Centre the distinction of placing four of the seven men on the team. Rice and Stuart were named earlier in the week. Cooke defeated Capt. Paul Watson of the Harvard club yesterday to win the right to play ahead of the Harvard man. Holt is named to fill the vacancy caused by the inability of Myles Baker, Union Boat Club star, to make the trip. All the players have been moved up one in the order of play with Holt taking seventh position.

TRACK TEAM OPENS SEASON WITH MEDFORD

Newton high opens the indoor track season tomorrow on the Newton high track opposing the strong Medford high aggregation. Newton has prospects of a good team this winter with a nucleus of Captain Dick Reynolds in the 600, Robert Ewing in the dash and 300, Arthur Chamberlain in the 1000, Mike Fine in the broad jump, Carl Pescosolido in the dash and shot put; Nathan Pearson and the Bell brothers as possible members of the relay team. There are numerous other athletes who give promise of holding their own with the runners and field men on opposing teams.

A few weeks ago Coach Donald Enoch staged an informal meet between two teams composed of members of the squad. As a result he has more or less of a line on his material.

Medford high has some veteran material which gave the alumni a battle in the annual meet on New Year's Day. The alumni were the victors, 36 to 32. The meet was not decided until the final event, the relay race, which the record breaking quartet of a few years ago won from the present relay team by a great finish on the part of Henry Hormel, schoolboy star now at New York University.

Newton is considered the favorite, largely because of the fact that they will be running on their own track. A comparison of the times made by the Newton runners and the distances made by the field men with those made by the Medford athletes in the alumni meet also seem to give Newton the edge.

The dash should be close with Robert Ewing of Newton and Fred Babitt of Medford the fastest men on each team. Carl Pescosolido of Newton and Paul Shea of Medford will be fighting for a place in the finals with the other pair.

Ewing, Pearson and the Bell brothers have done better than or close to 36 seconds in the 300-yard run which was won by an alumni runner in the Medford meet the other day in that time. Robert Andrews, Medford's best in this event, was one-fifth of a second behind the winner.

The 600-yard run should go to Captain Dick Reynolds of Newton who has a time trial a few days before the informal meet and is said to have broken the school record for the distance. In the meet he had no competition and was several seconds shy of the mark. James Bowdren of Medford, winner of the 600 for the school against the alumni, was clocked in 1 min. 25 4/5 seconds. It would seem that Bowdren was just about fast enough to push Reynolds along although not fast enough to be considered too dangerous an opponent.

Kenneth Cuneo of Medford and Arthur Chamberlain will renew their battles in the 1000-yard run. Cuneo has bested Chamberlain before and seems likely to accomplish the same feat tomorrow. In the outdoor state meet last fall Cuneo and the Newton runner staged a thrilling finish. It was a case of a good little man beating a good bigger man. Newton has other distance runners who may turn in surprising performances.

Little can be figured on the high jump as the Medford alumnus jumpers have not yet been tested. Newton has lost Edward Ebelhard who was good for around five feet ten inches and has little material of note this year. In the informal meet Ewing was the victor with a leap of 5 ft. 5 in. which, if he competes in the event tomorrow, should place him well up. Fine is capable of doing the same height but was an inch behind Ewing in the meet a few weeks ago.

Mahoney Named Manager

Miss Virginia Rice, the 17-year-old junior tennis star who formerly lived in Newton Centre, left Thursday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Rice for New York on the first part of a trip to London, Paris, and the French Riviera to compete in the international tennis tournaments at Cannes, Nice and Monte Carlo. Miss Rice, who earned a ranking position as No. 3 in her division to Sarah and Mianne Palfrey, has been called the Suzanne Lenglen of tennis in many ways, although of course she has lacked the competition to develop the exceptional game of the French star. She began her tennis career about four years ago at the Tedesco Country Club in Swampscoot and won her first title in the State girls' doubles with Barbara Frost against the Palfrey sisters. In 1926 with Louise McFarland she was runner up in the national junior tournament and in the same year won the women's events at Tedesco. The next year she added the Connecticut junior singles title and the state junior doubles with Charlotte Miller and the mixed doubles with Arthur Noble of Newton Centre. In major competition she teamed with Evelyn Parsons to vanquish the veteran team of Mrs. Wm. Endicott and Mrs. J. D. Corbiere, only to be eliminated by Helen Wills and Mrs. Wightman. In junior competition last year she was beaten by Sarah Palfrey at Philadelphia in the national singles and by Mianne Palfrey in the semi-finals of the indoor tournament last March.

Patrick Cages Winning Goal

The Williams college hockey team was the victor over Amherst college in the three game series at Lake Placid over the holiday weekend, two games to one. The lone Amherst victory came on Monday when Henry Clark, a West Newton youth and left wing on the Amherst six, caged a long shot in the second period to break a 1 to 1 tie.

A Thrilling Finish

Dartmouth and Toronto played a thrilling 2 to 2 ice hockey game at the Boston Garden last Saturday night. The Hanover team took the lead in the first period with a goal by Jeremiah. Toronto tied it up in the second session and the third period was scoreless. In a ten minute overtime period Dick Rogers put the Green ahead again by caging the puck on a pass from Jeremiah. This was midway of the extra session. With only eight seconds left to play Whitehead, Toronto star defence player, drove a long shot that whistled past the Dartmouth goalies' pads to end the game on even terms.

NEW YEAR'S RECEPTION

NEWTON HIGH SIX TOPS ALUMNI, 5 TO 2

In spite of inclement weather a large and enthusiastic crowd of members and their friends were present at the Open House and New Year's Reception at the Y. M. C. A. on January 1st.

By seven o'clock there was a large number in the lobby waiting for the opening number of the concert by the Newton Constabulary Band. The numbers on the program were well chosen and received much deserved applause during the evening.

A great deal of interest was shown in the series of games and drills put on in the gymnasium by the Jr. A's, Jr. B's and employes boys' classes under the direction of Mr. Vadel Anderson. An interesting program was arranged and carried out in the swimming pool from 8 to 8:30 by senior members of the Association under the direction of Ray Millard. From 8:30 to 9:00 the Juniors and the Employed Boys' groups put on a very fine swimming exhibition.

A new and most attractive feature of this year's program was the opening for inspection of the new addition containing the handball and squash racquets courts. Two very fine exhibition matches of squash racquets were played, the first between Richard Cook and Ralph Stuart, and the second between W. H. Rice, Jr., and Louis Volpe, Jr.

In the first match the first game was won by Mr. Cook 15 to 12, the second by Mr. Stuart 15 to 9, the third by Mr. Cook 15 to 13, the fourth by Mr. Stuart 15 to 12, and the fifth game which was necessary to decide the match was won by Mr. Cook by the score of 15 to 14. In the second match the first game went to Mr. Rice by a score of 15 to 9, the second also went to Mr. Rice 15 to 13. The third game was won by Mr. Volpe by a score of 15 to 14, and the 4th game and the deciding one went to Mr. Rice by a score of 15 to 13. The matches were refereed by Mr. Louis Volpe, professional at the Newton Center Squash Tennis Club.

In handball court No. 2 there were double matches played between teams composed of E. Graham Bates, Watson Baker, Hugo B. Seitel, and Leo Frazier. There was an interesting match in Court I between Roy V. Wilkins, Dr. Benjamin Loring, George W. Wright, and John L. Sullivan. These matches were arranged by Mr. Richard S. Simmons, Physical Director. The entertainment in the Assembly Hall by the Melody Four drew a capacity crowd and was much enjoyed. The lobby was very attractively decorated by Mr. Walter S. Bruton.

The House Committee of the Ladies Auxiliary of which Mrs. Frank P. Scofield is Chairman, have purchased and made new draperies for the windows in the lobby, in the dining hall where the Hi-Y Clubs meet, and in the Ladies Parlor. Mrs. Edwin S. Drowne, President of the Women's Auxiliary, and Mrs. Scofield are to be congratulated on the attractive appearance that these improvements have made.

The General Program was in charge of the Social Committee of the Association of which Mr. D. Webster Anderson was Chairman.

President F. D. Fuller and many of the Directors were present to welcome the guests.

BOYS' DEPARTMENT Y. M. C. A.

On Monday, December 31st, about 12 Junior A boys enjoyed a fine hike to Robert's Cliffs in Waltham. Leaving the "Y" at 9:30 they went as far as the Bicycle Park by auto and then hiked over Boston Rock to Roberts.

Arriving there at about 11:30 fires were started and dinner was cooked. Odors of hot dogs, tenderloin steaks, and cocoa soon wafted through the air and it wasn't long before everything was quickly all up.

After the fires were dead and the camping place cleaned up, games were played until 3:30 at which time knapsacks were put on and all started for home.

Arriving at the "Y" the boys clamored for a swim, and how they needed it. After the swim all were ready to go out and did it all over again.

Mr. Albert Hoffman, Associate Boys' Work Secretary was in charge of the hike.

John P. Minard of 507 Waltham street, West Newton, was fined $10 in the Newton court Monday by Judge Weston for driving an unregistered car and $100 for driving an uninsured car.

In court Monday James Barisano of 89 Hawthorn street, Nonantum, was given a suspended sentence of 6 months in jail for neglect of his wife and child. The condition on which sentence was suspended is that he pay $12 a week to support his dependents.

Sunday afternoon a "generous" customer did business with John Brady, an employee at Boughan's gasoline station located at Adam sand Water town streets, Nonantum. An automobile bearing a New York number plate drove into the station and the operator of the car, swankly clad in a fur coat, alighted and ordered some gasoline placed in the tank of his car. While Brady was putting the gasoline in the car the fur clad customer entered the office of the station explaining that he wanted to warm his hands. As Brady entered the office he was met by the customer who came out and handed him $1, telling him to keep the change between that amount and the cost of the gasoline.

The big-hearted person then drove off and Brady upon going to the cash register in the office discovered that it had been robbed of $20.

Shephey Brigandini of 74 Beechwood avenue, Watertown, was arrested last Friday by Serg. Veduccio charged with larceny. Louis Borges of 10 Clinton street, Newton, complained to the police that in September he gave Brigandini $50 on the promise of the latter that he would get Borges' license to drive an automobile re-issued. The failure of Brigandini to keep his promise resulted in the complaint. He will be tried January 4.

William J. Mackey of Stockbridge was fined $100 by Judge Weston on Monday for driving while under the influence of liquor.

The campaign of the Newton police against violators of the liquor laws bore more fruit, or more wine which is the juice of fruit, this week. On Wednesday night Joseph Blanchi of 65 Border street, West Newton, was arrested after he had made a sale, according to the police, of wine. A squad of police under Serg. Moan then raided Blanchi's house and seized two barrels containing about 75 gallons of wine. Blanchi will be tried January 10.

John J. Mahoney of 30 Ripley street, Newton Centre, was fined $100 in the Newton Court yesterday for driving while under the influence of liquor. He was arrested on December 22 by Patrolman Hammill after his car had collided with another automobile on Commonwealth avenue.

James Eustis of 191 Pearl street, Newton, was fined $50 in the Newton court yesterday for driving a car with defective brakes. In court the same day William K. Swift of Holliston was fined $5 for misuse of number plates.

WOMEN'S CLUB ACTIVITIES

Edited by EMMA D. COOLIDGE

COMING EVENTS

Waban Woman's Club

Dr. Henry Hitt Crane will be the speaker at the meeting of the Waban Woman's Club, on Monday, January 7th, at the Neighborhood Club at 2:30 p. m. The Club is most fortunate in securing Dr. Crane as he has recently moved out of the State and has cancelled many of his engagements in this vicinity. His subject is "The Time to Laugh." The usual social hour with tea will follow the lecture.

The Legislative Committee has arranged for a series of four lectures in Massachusetts Legislator this month for Thursday mornings at 10:30 o'clock. Tickets for the Course are 50 cents. The chairman of the Committee, Mrs. Harold E. Fernand, opens her home 677 Chestnut street on Thursday, the 10th, for the first lecture, which will be given by Mr. Leverett Saltonstall, speaker of the House of Representatives.

Newton Mothers' Club

The meetings are being held at Technical High School (Elm road entrance), in room 211. Tickets for the Course at $2.50, or single tickets at 50 cents, may be obtained from the respective chairmen: Mrs. J. Mace Andress, Newtonville; Mrs. Ralph C. Henry, Newton, and Mrs. LeRoy P. Gunion, Newton, or from their committee, Mrs. Raymond Green, Newton; Mrs. Everett L. Upham, Newtonville; Mrs. Hubert L. Carter, Newtonville; Mrs. Edmund I. Wilson, Auburndale; Mrs. Alexander S. MacMillan, Waban; Mrs. Thomas E. Lee, Newton Upper Falls; Mrs. Albion H. Brown, Newton Highlands, and Mrs. Ralph G. Hudson, Newton Centre.

Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club

The next meeting of the Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club on Monday evening, the 7th of January, Mrs. William H. Warren is chairman of entertainment. She will present an illustrated lecture on "Our National Parks," through the courtesy of the Great Northern Railroad. The Club meets in Emerson School Hall.

Auburndale Review Club

The first meeting of the new year for the Auburndale Review Club will be on Tuesday morning, January 8th, at 10 o'clock. Miss Margaret Haskell of 5 Vista avenue will be hostess, and will also have the first paper of the morning; one on "The Administrations of Taylor and Fillmore." The second paper to be given takes up James Buchanan and "The Rise and Growth of the Republican Party." There will be a business hour during which several important steps will be discussed, and which will be conducted by the president, Mrs. Charles Valentine.

Twelfth District

The Auburndale Woman's Club, Mrs. George F. Nudd, president is hostess for the Legislative Conference for the Twelfth District on Thursday, January 10th, in their Club House, at 2:30 p. m., so bringing to Newton the honor of entertaining the District in its Midwinter meeting. Mrs. Carl L. Schrader, first vice-president of the State Federation, is guest of honor, representing the president, Mrs. A. A. Packard. Music will be furnished by the hostess Club, and tea will be served in the social hour. The program will consist of discussion of various measures in which the State Federation is especially interested for this session of Legislature. MHR Legislation, the Present Status of the Bill-board Situation, and the Bill Concerning Raising the School Age will be discussed by men identified with these measures. Mrs. Fred L. Pigeon, State Legislative chairman, will preside at the Conference.

Newtonville Woman's Club

Robert Lincoln O'Brien, editor-in-chief of the Boston Herald, will speak before the Newtonville Woman's Club at its next regular meeting, on January 8th, at the Central Congregational Church. Mr. O'Brien has recently returned from a trip around the world and this trip will be the basis of his talk.

There will be several selections rendered by Mrs. Bradley H. Patterson and tea will be served by the Hospitality Committee, Mrs. Robert C. Kelley, chairman.

Newton Federation

The second in the unusual and interesting series of lectures on Child Psychology, planned by three chairmen of the Newton Federation, comes on Wednesday, January 9th, at 4 o'clock, when the Education Committee, the Public Health Committee, and the American Home Committee, present Dr. Douglas A. Thom, who will speak on the topic "Understanding the Pre-School Child."

Dr. Thom is director of the Habit Clinic of Boston, and director of the Division of Mental Hygiene in the Department of Mental Diseases for the State of Massachusetts. He is the author of "Every Day Problems of the Every Day Child," on which subject he is giving a course at Boston University. He has gained a national reputation for his pioneer work in establishing habit clinics, and his insight into problems of the pre-school child has enabled him to help thousands of parents. Dr. Thom has positive suggestions for training the pre-school child that should be very helpful. Psychologists believe that the pre-school period is the most important in the life of the individual.

This series is to be given by speakers pre-eminent in this line of thought and endeavor, and is an effort on the part of these chairmen to present the very best on the subject in a far more enterprising scope than has ever been before undertaken in the city. The lectures should appeal to all Club-women and especially to those who are interested in children and young people.

Community Service Club of West Newton

A gala afternoon is planned by the West Newton Women's Educational Club for their meeting of Friday, the 11th. Past presidents of the Club will be special guests and treated with a most entertaining program by Nan Lagerstadt, reader. The hostesses are the members of the Literature Committee, Mrs. Alvah Jordan, chairman, and Mrs. Frederick E. Warling and Mrs. Starr A. Burdick. A social hour, with tea served, will conclude the festivities.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

By L. D. G. BENTLEY

In the riot of greetings cards, magazine covers and newspaper cartoons the New Year is variously pictured. For the most part he is a knowing-looking cherub. Sometimes he is a she and becomes a beautiful girl—alas not too dumb in expression. Whatever the symbol, it is a human being if "it" goes for he and she in the matter of an artist's drawing.

In any event we are supposed to look at the New Year as something that possess brains and understanding. We ask that it may bring us happiness and prosperity! How we do dwell on that word prosperity! Assuming that the New Year is discerning, as we like to think, what notion must it have of those who strive to spend as much money as they can to properly (?) usher it in?

Upon my word it does seem as if some people simply go batty squandering coin. Eating places, with cabaret attachments, jack-up their prices 200 and 300 per cent and places of amusement do the same thing on New Year's eve. If they didn't know that the public was crazy enough to stand for it they would never attempt such a thing. But welcoming the New Year becomes an orgy of money-spending. And for what? Food of a commonplace type and third rate vaudeville made to appear palatable under the name of cabaret entertainment.

To all this I offer no objection. For those who like it I wish for them their fill and more. But how inconsistent! We find a gin-wise group of young people, with paper caps on their heads and toy horns in their mouths proclaiming the arrival of the New Year and demanding of it—what?—prosperity! If I was a New Year and walked in on such a crowd I would say something like this:

"You ask me for prosperity? Whaddern't you? Aren't you prosperous enough? You've paid at least $6 a plate for this dinner, you've tipped the waiter $3 and maybe $5. Your bootleg liquor must have cost you $12 and you must have paid a lot for theatre tickets, taxi fares and tips to drivers, coatcheckers and heavens knows who. And after you've danced you must chip-in for a little present orchestra. And then you must ride home and on your way stop for another bite at one of these all-night joints."

"Prosperity? You've got too much of it now. What you want is a little common sense. I'll be glad to see what I can do for you in that line!"

Then I would shake hands and wish them luck.

I wonder if the clamor against doughnut and hot dog stands on boulevards has anything behind it. On the face of things it appears merely as a protest of the esthetic. The eye is offended by the presence of these unsightly places. But is there anything in the charge that the dyspeptic may have had a hand in the rumpus? If one is "off one's feed," as the rustic but apt saying puts it, one can find fault with most anything. On the other hand if one is blessed with a perfectly working digestive system one is less critical of scenery or anything else.

Now I am probably all wet in even suggesting that it may be partly dyspeptic and partly asthetic. I am not strong for roadside eating places myself but as I do not represent the great eating public I cannot offer an expert opinion. I happen to be long, tall automobile ride to get me into that state where I can stand up and grab a hot dog garnished with mustard or piccalilli, from a stranger without wondering about the intimate details of his kitchen. That probably shows I have an unclean mind, otherwise I would not be suspicious of dirt.

But the fact that other people—many of them in fact—rush up to the counter and seize the food offered thereon, pay for it and eat it as though they were never to get another bite—that condition I recognize. Therefore, I should not expect these people to stop eating because I did not join them or failed to share their yearning. Too many people have an idea that because they don't like something the rest of the world should show the same distaste. They don't eat doughnuts fried by the side of the road and therefore decree that all other mortals should be deprived of such opportunity.

I know of a neighborhood where a man opened a small store. One family in a house opposite almost undertook to tell the man what he should sell and to whom he should sell it so offended were they by the presence of the establishment. That is probably the motive that impels some of these who want to banish doughnuts and hot dogs from the landscape. If it is, then I am lined up with the roadside stand as a champion, if not a patron.

Not long ago I undertook an investigation. It was not conducted so much as a matter of great public concern and indeed it was to satisfy my curiosity. After observing for a number of years the Newton-Brighton-Watertown trolley bunches together instead of running at regular intervals I sought to learn the cause. I wanted to know why a resident of the lower end of Tremont street, Newton, should find himself obliged to wait anywhere from 10 to 20 minutes for a car to take him to Nonantum square. And I wondered why, when finally a car appeared, it was followed by several others. I had heard the joke about the "banana line—the cars go in bunches" but I never had understood clearly the reason.

One day I put it up to a motorman with whom I have a bowing acquaintance and have had for a decade or more. "It's this way," said he. "The car ahead of me will leave Watertown barn on time. At Nonantum square it will pick up only a few passengers and then leave there on time. Suppose I follow him. That means I get to Nonantum square three minutes later. There is a big 'freight' waiting for me and in loading the car with passengers I lose two minutes. The car ahead is then five minutes in advance. He gets to Oak square on time, I lose a minute there and then he is six minutes ahead of me. I keep picking up passengers, losing a minute here and there and he goes right along on time. By the time he gets to Park street subway he is 10 to 15 minutes ahead of me. There is no one to blame. My car has simply picked up the passengers while the one ahead of me is only lightly filled. Then the fact that I am late delays the cars that follow me and so when we make the loop at Park street subway and turn around to come back we are way behind the car ahead and are all bunched."

I asked if that were the only cause and he replied, "Well, it may be that the passengers are slow in getting on and off. If they are young and lively they hop, but if they are old and stiff they crawl. Nobody is really to blame. It's just the way those things work."

I should like to write a set of verses dedicated to a class of people who annoy me very much. If I did I should make the title, "Save a Seat for Me." It would not be a complimentary effusion but something far different and would tell in rhyme what goes on before our eyes and bids fair to continue as long as the well known human race is constituted as it is.

We who live in the suburbs can understand better than all others. Every now and then we attend a public meeting or entertainment where the seats are not reserved and where the first come are the first served—that is, of course, self-service. You yourself know of these affairs where the single ticket gives one the privilege of going in and picking out a seat. In fact, it has become a sort of community custom to place all seats on sale for the one price.

This is a good idea, providing the patrons are satisfied and usually they are or they wouldn't attend. Those who can get there early have the privilege of selecting such seats as they believe will be the most satisfactory while those who come late must expect to put up with whatever is left.

Here is what I am getting at and that is the third class—the people who expect some member of the family or friend to go early and "save" one or more seats. It is done every day or rather every evening, and is manifestly unfair. A woman or man, in the ten year period. This increase in land values is on a reduced area of taxable land due to new exemptions and city takings.

In the important matter of revaluations the assessors have carefully studied the properties in question, and their values are most conservative. Property in Newton is not over assessed. With very few exceptions it sells far above the assessed value. This probably accounts for the fact that with approximately 18,000 parcels or lots of real estate in the city the number of complaints in regard to assessments is almost negligible. This would seem to indicate a general acceptance of the work of the Board of Assessors.

In 1918 the valuation of taxable real estate and personal property was $75,071,840.00. In 1928 it was $147,500.00, an increase of practically 100%.

The valuation of exempted property in 1918 was $9,535,766.08. In 1928 it was $25,252,233.00.

In 1918 there were 2074 motor vehicles with a valuation of $2,174,750.00; in 1928 there were 11,611 with a valuation of $7,297,500.00. These will no longer be assessable as personal property as the new law subjects the owner of any car registered after January 1, 1929 to an excise tax on it based on a valuation fixed by the Tax Commissioner of the Commonwealth.

Comparisons are always interesting.

Valuations

1908	$68,933,800.00

1908	3,902,162.48

The gross debt is the debt upon which we pay interest charges.

Comparing valuations of other periods with that of today, one finds that the city's debt has not kept pace with her growth and that during these later years large expenditures have been absorbed which might have been bonded.

Valuations have increased by leaps and bounds, and yet our gross debt is less than it was thirty years ago and our net debt only about one-third more.

A four million dollar budget ought not to be a cause of worry for a city like Newton.

After all, your Honorable Board is the appropriating body and only so much can be spent as you authorize. To cut the budget simply for appearances and then put it all back again and more too registers no net gain.

A brief summary of our financial situation is as follows:

and important widenings have been made in Washington and Elm streets. During the present year the remaining portion of the High School field should be graded and a retaining wall at Hill street built. This would serve as part of a future Stadium, and if built at the time of grading would doubtless save expense.

Sewer work must be done as necessary especially in the Oak Hill district. Laundry Brook at Boyd Park should be covered and the drain off Berkeley street improved.

Many streets are ready for acceptance under the Betterment Act, and as fast as possible they should be built and accepted. Construction work in several important thoroughfares must be undertaken, and Clark street should have a sidewalk.

The drainage of Cold Spring Swamp, so-called, was talked of in 1880 and again in 1902-3, but it is a big project and was postponed to a more convenient season. No argument is necessary to present the importance of the work. Acres of swamp land in the middle of the Garden City creates a condition which ought not to exist. It is a danger to public health, and when danger threatens in this direction we have no right to falter or procrastinate.

Because we have had a measure of immunity from its worst consequences hitherto is no valid reason for tempting Providence further. The drainage of this swamp will not only abate a public nuisance but will provide acres of new building land from which matters have been put upon the ballot, bond issues have been voted by the people throughout the country by large majorities.

The proposed work on Cold Spring Brook north of Beacon street should be commenced this year if satisfactory agreements can be reached. This will not drain Cold Spring Swamp but will provide a permanent outlet so that further work can be done another or other years which will eliminate the swamp entirely.

One of the newest and finest developments in the city is at Oak Hill. This section has rare possibilities. Proper school accommodations should be provided as time goes on. A place without children is a lonesome one, and people with children want a decent schoolhouse in their vicinity. I believe that the city should co-operate in every legitimate way with those who are trying to develop this largest and most beautiful undeveloped area in our city.

My judgment the time has arrived when the State should be urged to improve the Charles River, that beautiful stream which surrounds our city on three sides, and to gradually continue the boulevard along its banks (now ending at Watertown) through Newton to Waltham.

A sanitary station at Nonantum Square is greatly needed in the interests of health and comfort.

I recommend for your serious consideration the connecting of the two sections of Adams street so that there may be one continuous street from Washington to California streets.

The Planning Board acting as a Board of Survey has held 15 meetings and acted upon 32 petitions. This Board and the new Pension Board recently organized are functioning most satisfactorily.

Proposed zoning changes will demand your study and careful consideration, and I have no doubt but that you will arrive at the proper solution of a difficult problem.

The water mains cleaning program has been continued on smaller mains in different sections of the city with satisfactory results. The stripping in the two valleys of the water lands in Needham has been completed. Pump and motor have been installed, pipe laid to the river and a wood stave discharge line from the pump to the two natural bowls will enable us to obtain a large volume of soft water to augment the well supply.

In the original schedule of water rates adopted by Newton, the charge per hundred cubic feet was $0.26, with a minimum of $10.00 per annum, plus a meter rental of $2.50. Later two reductions were made. It has seemed wise in order to produce needed revenue to raise the rates to substantially the original figure. The new rates go into effect today.

The heavy building construction taking place in the city is reflected in the extension of main pipe lines and the number of house connections. There is today practically no leakage in our water mains.

It is planned to connect numerous dead ends and to install a large number of additional hydrants on existing mains during the coming season.

Late in the Fall a substance not dangerous to public health but most undesirable appeared in Newton water—something unnoticed before in all the years—and since early in November, the entire supply of the city has been taken from the Metropolitan system, thereby giving opportunity for a thorough examination under the supervision of the State Department of Public Health in order to remedy the present and forestall future troubles in the local source of supply.

I recommend for your serious consideration the acceptance of the water bill law. Power derived therefrom, coupled with that to shut off water, will tend to make water collections prompt and complete.

So far as parks and playgrounds are concerned, Newton is fortunate.

She stands among the leading cities in the matter of recreational facilities. Reservation for the purpose of study, is now being made for a playground at Chestnut Hill.

It is almost too late to think of a playground at Chestnut Hill, but it would be well to authorize the Playground Commission to consult with the authorities controlling Hammond Pond, reservation for the purpose of studying possibilities of a playground there.

The matter of a shelter building at Bullough's Pond and proper sanitary facilities at Crystal Lake should not be overlooked—the latter is most imperative.

Municipal golf links are being established throughout the country. They not only minister to the needs of many citizens, but they are also money makers. If the citizens of Newton desire a public golf course, opportunities for the same exist at Oak Hill.

Several tracts in that vicinity could be taken with a minimum cost of construction. One or two of these tracts are not very well adapted for development into house lots but could be admirably adapted for a golf course.

Thinking people realize that money thus expended is one of the best investments which a city can make. They also keep a city fit to live in and are among the greatest real estate assets which a city can have, provided they are properly situated, supervised and maintained.

Chambers of commerce the country over are recognizing them as an important phase in big business. What is true in private business is also true in city business. Park and playgrounds attract right-minded taxpayers who are willing to pay for sunlight, beauty, the opportunity to enjoy exercise, a sense of space and contact with nature and God's great out-of-doors.

Much has been done in this city; much remains to be done if the Newton of the future is to be what she ought to be. The acquisition of land for parks and playgrounds is becoming more difficult every year. What Newton will need in the future should be considered here and now before it is too late.

Each year that the acquisition of sufficient land for parks, playgrounds or other municipal purposes is postponed, we add at least from ten to twenty thousand dollars per year to the cost of what must ultimately be acquired. A casual study of the rises in land values will convince one that the value of land in some sections of our city quadruples in a very few years.

The fact that we had difficulty in procuring a suitable site for the new school at Newtonville convinces us on sober thought that foresight is imperative.

In 1921 the Planning Board made some splendid suggestions as to where playgrounds and parks should be placed. It is most interesting to figure out the difference in cost to the city if the land where they suggested playgrounds had been purchased at that time and the cost of the same land if purchased today.

The greatest asset of any city is her youth. Agencies which develop young people mentally, physically and spiritually are our most important institutions. Our public schools are matters of such vital public concern and so intimately connected with good citizenship that I recommend that all necessary measures be taken to promote their usefulness and efficiency.

"School spirit" is fine and high in Newton. That means a great deal, for "school spirit" is that spirit which one has when he knows that his school is good. Our schools are good. They always have been. Ask any graduate or undergraduate. They Newton is highly honored in the selection of one of its Representatives as Speaker of the House. At the same time, with some knowledge of the ability and capability of Mr. Saltonstall, we are sure that the Commonwealth is also honored by his acceptance of this responsible position.

CITY HALL NEWS

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen on Tuesday the resignation of William B. Baker of Ward 3 was received and accepted with regret. Mr. Baker has represented the West Newton ward in the Board for the past 6 years. He resigns because of his election as a member of the Legislature from this city. At a meeting of the Aldermen on January 21st a successor will be chosen to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Baker's resignation.

Newton City Employees Local will hold its annual installation of officers at Bay State Hall, Newton, tonight. Mayor Childs, the Aldermen, members of the Legislature from this city and department heads have been invited to attend.

Aldermen Temperly and Powers enjoy the distinction of having attended every meeting held by the Board of Aldermen during the past year. They were the only members of the 1928 Board to have a 100% attendance record.

The Board of Aldermen on Tuesday appropriated $500 from the Excess and Deficiency fund to complete the building of the toboggan slide at the Newton Centre playground. The Board also voted to accept $1879 donated by citizens of Newton Centre towards the payment of the new traffic tower at Centre and Beacon streets.

SALTONSTALL MADE SPEAKER

Chosen to Preside over Massachusetts House

The election of Representative Leverett Saltonstall of this city as Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives took place last Wednesday when the General Court of 1929-30 convened for this year's session. Scanning the list of Speakers of recent years shows none from Newton. It may be that there were many years ago but certainly not for a long period.

Details of Speaker Saltonstall's election show that he received 150 votes, practically the solid Republican vote. The unsuccessful attempt of a Boston member to persuade the House that Mr. Saltonstall was unfit for the office proved not only futile but ridiculous. There was never a moment that the Republican support was not united for the Newton Representative.

Mr. Saltonstall was born in this city, Sept. 1, 1892. He was educated at Noble & Greenough's School, Harvard College and Harvard Law School. He is a practicing lawyer.

It is well remembered that Mr. Saltonstall served as a member of the Newton Board of Alderman. In 1921 and 1922 he was Assistant District Attorney of Middlesex County. He was first elected to the Massachusetts House of Representative in 1923 and has been a member of that body ever since.

The tributes paid him were one of the features of the opening of the Legislature. He was congratulated and applauded which fact proved his great popularity as well as the esteem in which he is held.

MANY TRANSFERS IN POLICE FORCE

January 1st saw a number of shifts in the Newton police department. Patrolman Sartwell who has been on duty at headquarters was given the day route at Nonantum formerly covered by Patrolman Maurice Kiley, retired. Patrolman Michael Keating, who for the past couple of years has served with great efficiency at Newton Corner in the business district, was assigned to a new day route taken largely from territory formerly covered by Patrolman John McNeil. Patrolman Connely, who has been doing relief work days, is transferred to the post at Newton Corner formerly covered by Keating.

Patrolman Patrick Burke who for a number of years has been doing house duty nights at headquarters will now perform this duty daytime in conjunction with Clerk Tibbets. Motor cycle officer Dowling has been assigned to duty at headquarters succeeding Patrolman Kilmaine who has been transferred to the traffic post at Newton Centre for night duty. Patrolmen Edward Hanlon and Michael Carroll have been assigned to relief duty days. Patrolman Charles Feeley has been transferred from Newton Corner on night duty back to his old route at Nonantum. Patrolman Cleary goes from Nonantum to Newton Corner. Patrolman Davis is transferred from relief work nights to a route at Newton Highlands and Patrolman Carley is transferred from night relief work to a beat at Upper Falls.

Patrolman McCormick who has been desk officer on the last platoon nights is transferred to duty during the first half nights taking the place of Patrolman Burke. Patrolman Joseph Kelly is sent back to Nonantum nights from house duty at headquarters and Patrolman Halloran who had been doing house duty nights is on a route at West Newton. Motorcycle Officers Goddard and L. O'Donnell are assigned to house duty nights at headquarters. Motorcycle Officer J. N. Murphy is assigned to a route at Nonantum. Patrolman Reagan was transferred from Nonantum to West Newton. Patrolman Charlton was transferred from relief duty to a night route at Newton Corner. Patrolman James Jenkins from relief work to a night route at West Newton. Patrolman Charles Jenkins from West Newton to Auburndale.

Total 1686 $10,807,643

COMPLAINS OF MAIL SERVICE

Editor of the Graphic: Sir:

You are familiar with the fact that our postal service is now in process of experimentation. The results are presumably a matter of public interest.

Last night a special delivery letter addressed to a guest staying at my house was delivered at ten o'clock. The letter was postmarked as received at 1:30, eight and one-half hours before. Upon it depended the departure of this guest who waited for it until after eight o'clock and then telephoned her decision, a wrong decision as it proved. The query is what kind of service special delivery is supposed to secure?

This is merely one case among scores which have come to our notice this fall in connection with the postal service for a single family.

H. H. POWERS, Newton, January 2.

Ants' Odd Instinct

Perhaps the strangest of living weather prophets are certain small yellow ants common in Florida which build their nests in the sandy soil. Twenty-four hours at least before a heavy rain these creatures become busy carrying their grubs up from their underground tunnels into the upper stories of their mound. How these eyeless insects are aware of the coming change is beyond man's understanding, but their instinct is certain, and it is an instinct that never fails them.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

NEW CITY GOVERNMENT TAKES OFFICE

It is now Speaker Leverett Saltonstall. One of Newton's Representatives in the House is the presiding officer of that body which is indeed an honor for this city. All who have watched his career are gratified that this signal honor has been bestowed upon him. To think that he received 150 votes on the first ballot shows that the members did not take seriously the attack made upon his fitness for the office. That he will conduct the affairs of the House in a most efficient manner is conceded.

Committee assignments are, of course, matters of great interest.

Newton people like to know what their Representatives are to be called upon to do. Representative William B. Baker, although a "first year man," as new members are described on Beacon Hill, has been appointed to the Committee on Ways and Means. That is his only committee but it is by far the most important in legislative body.

Representative Clarence S. Luitwieler is made chairman of the Committee on State Administration and a member of the Committee on Labor and Industries.

Representative Rupert C. Thompson is made a member of the Committee on Cities and the Committee on Merchantile Affairs.

Senator Arthur W. Hollis of Newton, whose service as a member of the lower branch is apparently recognized by the presiding officer of the Senate, has been appointed chairman of the Committee on Election Laws and a member of the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs and of the Committee on Railroads.

Another honor that has come to Newton is the election of Henry L. Harriman as chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Boston Elevated. This means that the chairmanship of that important body remains in this city since Samuel L. Powers was Mr. Harriman's predecessor. It has already been told in the Graphic that Mr. Harriman and Mr. Edward E. Whiting of this city were two of the newly appointed board of five trustees, but Mr. Harriman's election as chairman did not take place until the trustees' first meeting. That he will be an important factor in shaping the future of the road goes without saying.

It is also a further tribute to Mr. Harriman to know that his services as a member of the Metropolitan Planning Division were of such value that he was persuaded to remain a member of the latter body. This will make him one of the busiest as well as one of the most important men in the Commonwealth engaged in matters affecting the welfare of the people.

LOCAL GIRL AT SYMPHONY HALL

Dorothy Speare, young novelist and magazine writer, who has recently flashed upon the musical horizon as an opera star and concert singer, will be presented here in concert on Wednesday evening, January ninth at Symphony Hall. She will be assisted by the Boston Symphonietta, a group of twenty-five active members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the leadership of Arthur Fiedler.

Miss Speare was born in Newton. After her graduation from Smith College, she studied under Professor Baker in the famous "47 Workshop" at Harvard University. At the same time she took vocal lessons, but in her spare moments wrote a novel called "Dancers in the Dark." It was accepted by the first publisher to whom it was sent and it turned out to be a best seller. She later abandoned her career as a writer and turned seriously to the study of music. With the royalties of her books as financial backing, she went abroad to study and make her debut. This took place in Italy in Lucia with one day's rehearsal.

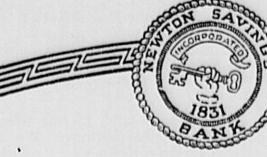

Last December she made her American debut with the Washington National Opera Company in Mignon. This night she sang the title role. The audience was greatly pleased. ### MARTIN L. CHIVERS

Martin L. Chivers of 5 Fairfield street, Newtonville, died at the Newton Hospital Tuesday morning, January 1st, as a result of injuries received Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock when a huge power shovel crushed upon him. Mr. Chivers was walking down Fairfield street towards his residence. As he was passing the big machine the operator of it, Henry Balbouf of Metropolitan Avenue, Roslindale, started to swing the arm of the shovel from the opposite side of the street. Mr. Chivers attempted to run out of the path of the shovel but before he could escape he was caught and crushed by the descending machine. He was rushed to the Newton Hospital in an automobile driven by Gesser Roscoe of East Bridgewater who is building a house near the scene of the accident. It was found that his right arm and right foot had been so badly mangled that amputation was necessary. Mr. Chivers died the following morning. The shovel is owned by Louis Balbouf of Roslindale, a contractor engaged in building a sewer on Fairfield street for the City of Newton.

The Mather Class

The Mather Class closed the year by meeting as usual last Sunday morning at the Newton Centre Woman's Club House.

Prof. Mather was away. Prof. James P. Berkeley, of the Newton Theological Institution, took his place and gave a lecture on the mental development of man from the early perceptions of childhood to the time of maturity, with special emphasis on the process of making up one's mind.

The child's first groping efforts to do anything are primarily an attempt to make up his mind, even before he himself becomes fully conscious that he has a mind to make up.

Very early in life the child imitates his elders. What amounts to is an attempt on his part to borrow some of your mind to make up his own mind. It is by no means a mere external action by him. He actually incorporates into that mind of his something of his surroundings and the people round about. One of the reasons why some children do not seem to have much mind is because they have such poor material to imitate.

A child may do something that seems cute at the age when he does it first, but five years later the same stunt by the same child does not seem so cute.

Soon the child acquires habits and has experiences of his own. He begins to feel himself. Then he wants to assert himself. He thinks he has something worth while and he is anxious to have people recognize it. His range of opportunity to get himself recognized may be sharply limited, but there are no limits to his efforts. Children do pretty nearly everything to get recognized.

The old notion, never popular with the youngsters, was that children should be seen and not heard. They should quietly and silently absorb wisdom from the grown-ups. That system did not seem to work.

Maturity comes when a human being defines his ends and then goes after those ends.

Adolescence is the stage of transition from childhood to maturity. There is a lot of talk about what ails our youth. There is nothing really the matter. We are simply paying more attention to them and examining them more closely.

Adolescence involves a mixture of two things:

1. The child.
2. The adult.

It takes time, a lot of time, to slough off childhood. A snake can shed its skin quickly and be done with it, but childhood is a hard thing to get rid of. The process sometimes begins at 12 years of age and ends at 25, but it frequently is not completed at 25. One day the childish mind is uppermost, and the next day the adult mind is dominant, all in the same person. When the adult mind shows up strong, parents are so glad that they often have to go and tell the neighbors all about it. During this period the child is trying to make up his mind. He is often crude and impractical, but if he has no opportunity or experience in making up his mind, he does not come to maturity, because maturity means the ability to make up one's mind.

Prof. Berkeley spoke of a man who was a genius on mathematics but who was simply not there when it came to making up his mind. He was not mature. There is a difference between being a genius and having a mind. You may have both, but not necessarily.

Jesus sought to help us in this very process. He looked to men to make up their minds. Out of the heart are the issues of life. The world did not take that view in His time. The idea was that you belonged in the religious body in which you were born into it. A woman who lived in the Back Bay once said that she could not take a long journey because she was already here. This self-satisfied idea of having arrived is neither old nor new, I fear, in our universal. Repentance does not mean sorrow for sin. To repeat means to change your mind on the issues of life. The Jews were not repenting, because they thought that they were already in the way where they ought to be because they had been born Jews. Jesus passed the externals and went to the heart of things.

The New Testament is the story of the most exhilarating experience that ever took place. When people were touched by Jesus, they thought for themselves. Jesus made vacillating Peter make up his mind and stand on his own feet.

Some people say the Pauline Epistles are too stiff reading because they are hard and difficult, but the early Church learned to think on just that material. They out-thought and out-loved paganism.

Calvinism is not very popular today. Some folks might feel bad to be called a Calvinist. Probably Van Loon and others, who poke fun at Calvinism, never read Calvin's Institutes, so they really don't know what they are talking about. Those Institutes force you to exercise your mind and compel you to think. Calvin made people think. He presented God and Jesus as a challenge. People had to make up their minds, and they did make them up. They had absolute convictions, and they stood out squarely against the whole system of their time and they won. Why was that? Because there were two kinds of people:

1. Those who were willing to think and come to conclusions.
2. Those who merely drifted.

The only way to have a mind is to make it up and come to a conviction.

Are New Year's resolutions worth while? If you cannot make up your mind because of insufficient data, there is an element of suspense. That means you are in doubt, and it is well to have some doubts. One woman once told Prof. Berkeley that she never had a doubt. He wanted to say that he believed her, because no one can have a doubt unless he has two ideas in mind at the same time. It is well to stop at a particular time and make an appraisal. Few of us have crises that make us think, so we should deliberately make an appraisal and try to find some one thing of sufficient importance to put ourselves into wholeheartedly. This should be something worth while, which we can make up our mind to do and which is likely to bring the world more into accord with the mind of Jesus.

The next Sunday Evening Round Table will occur at 6 p.m., January 6, at the home of Mr. E. Clifford Peter, 962 Centre street, Newton Centre. This is at the corner of Ballard and Centre streets, and faces on Ballard street. Each lady is asked to bring sandwiches enough for two.

GEORGE DEXTER FROST.

Miss R. Harding Peiton of Newton was the flower girl.

The gown worn by the bride was of white satin in period style and her veil of princess lace was fastened with orange blossoms and pearls. Her only ornament was a diamond and pearl pendant worn by her mother at her wedding. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a blue taffeta period dress with a blue and silver hat and carried a bouquet of butterfly roses. The bridesmaids wore taffeta period dresses in rainbow colors with silver hats and carried shepherd crooks tied with huge tulip bows.

A reception was held at the Hunnewell Club following the church ceremony. The decorations at the club were of palms, laurel wreath and baskets of pink carnations. Music was furnished by the Miss Mary Broughton Trio. The supper was returned after five years with a fund of knowledge, pictures and experiences which he uses in his lectures for the enlightenment of the people of this far different land.

He lived with the Eskimos the greater part of eleven years and acquired a more intimate knowledge of their language and their lives than has ever been possessed by any white man. More than that, he lived experiences that have been equalled by few men. His books include "My Life with the Eskimos," "The Friendly Arctic" and "The Northward Course of Empire."

He has made three Arctic Expeditions, the first in 1905-6, the second in 1908-12, and the last trip from 1913 to 1918, when he mapped over 100,000 square miles of hitherto unknown territory.

On two of his expeditions he made careful studies of the Eskimos and discovered the so-called Blond Eskimos who have figured so largely in the newspapers since. Because of his studies of this race, because of his discoveries of land and because of the application of new ideas and new methods of exploration, Stefansson is now considered a foremost polar explorer of the present day. He was born honored by Geographical societies of several nations and given honorary degrees from prominent universities of this country.

Stefansson is a brilliant and successful writer and is the author of a number of books and many magazine articles.

"The Northward Course of Empire" and "Blunders of the Great North" are his latest books and "The Friendly Arctic" an earlier publication.

In his lectures Stefansson does not tell only of his experiences in the Arctic, but of the ideas he has gained from these experiences. In the past few years his mind has turned from exploration to the broader channel of bringing to the attention of the world the vast potential possibilities of the North. In it he sees a land that will produce great wealth both in food and minerals, a land as full of promise as the West of the early days.

WHITWORTH—PERCY

A yuletide wedding of interest to their many friends was that of Miss Beatrice May Percy and Mr. Paul Roland Whitworth. The bride is the daughter of Professor Atlee Lane Percy of Boston University and Mrs. Percy, who reside in Newtonville, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Whitworth of Cambridge.

The nuptials took place at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of one hundred and fifty invited guests.

Miss Beulah Austin, an intimate friend of the bride, rendered several beautiful piano selections before the hour of the ceremony arrived and at the appointed time the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March were heard and the bride entered the living room, accompanied by her father, having been preceded by Miss Margaret Peterson of Natick, a Boston University classmate, as maid of honor, and by Little Miss Nancy Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Carpenter of Newtonville, as flower girl. The groom was a Harvard man, class of 1927. The date of the wedding has not been set.

Mrs. Hattie Elliott Olsen of Newton has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Inger Frances Olsen to Mr. Arthur Jenner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Jenner of Dedham. Miss Olsen is a teacher in the commercial courses at the Yarmouthport High School, and Mr. Jenner is teacher of French and English at the same school. The wedding will be in April.

The officiating clergyman was the Reverend Mr. Charles W. Jeffras, an intimate and longtime friend of the bride's family, who is pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Melrose. The bride was very charming in the conventional bridal gown with veil, worn in cap style and fastened with orange blossoms. She also wore a jeweled pin which was worn in 1823-1865 years ago—by her great great grandmother on her wedding day. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. The maid of honor was most attractive in a gown of orchid taffeta and she carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and orchid sweet peas. The flower girl was very lovely in her dress of nile green organdy and she carried a Marie Antoinette basket filled with roses.

The decorations were very attractive and white. The center of attraction was a white arbor which had been built in the corner of the living room over which was twined in an artistic manner ropes of princess pine and scattered here and there were beautiful white chrysanthemums. Within the arbor, overhead, hung a beautiful wedding bell which was filled with rose petals. These were showered upon the newly wedded couple at the close of the ceremony by the little flower girl who was assisted in releasing the shower. The lattice arbor was beautifully lighted with a series of tiny white electric bulbs, cleverly concealed in the greenery.

The reception immediately followed the ceremony. A buffet supper was served.

The couple have gone to a camp among the pines where they will enjoy the great outdoors of which they are both especially fond.

Many lovely gifts were received from their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitworth will be at home to their friends at 18 Bonwood street, Newtonville, after January fifteenth.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

quarters for inspection of interested Clubwomen.

Mrs. Albert Bradley Carter, State chairman of Social and Industrial Conditions, is planning a meeting in January to discuss the field with the police-woman and her relation to the community, led by Miss Jessie Blanford, of Chicago, who is at present helping on the survey being made by the Harvard Crime Commission; the need of raising the school age; new rules for Civil Service, etc.

RADIO. The time for the broadcast of the Women's Clubs over WNAC is changed to 11:30 to 12 o'clock for the future. On Wednesday, the 9th, Mrs. Ralph H. Reed, chairman of the State Department of the American Home, presents Mrs. Garfield Morgan who will speak on "Religion in the Home"; Amie M. Summer, Soprano, who is the talented vice-president of the Prelude Club of Boston, and Jessie Fleming Vose, Pianist, who will give a musical program, and Mrs. Fred B. Cross, chairman of Community Services, who will broadcast "Volunteer Service."

LEGISLATIVE INTERESTS. Mrs. Daniel M. Goodridge, State Conservation chairman, urges Conservation Committees to study the various bills that are to come up or are now before the State and Federal Legislatures.

She asks what the Clubwomen know about the Irving Johnson Boulder Canyon dam bill; what they know of Muscle Shoals; what they know of the new bill Senator McNary is offering in place of the much-vetoed McNary-Haugen bill; what they know of proposed legislation for flood control in Massachusetts, by a cut-back of the Connecticut River bank; what they know of a bill "Zoning the Highways"—in fact, she asks if they could explain these bills if asked at a Club meeting and if they know where these various locations affected are.

The Legislative chairman, Mrs. Fred L. Pigeon, announces that leaflets have been sent to local members of her Committee, from whom interested Legislative chairmen and other Clubwomen may obtain information as to the bill "To provide for zoning of the State highways," and as to the campaign of education on study of the Juvenile Court work. The Twelfth District is represented by Mrs. Solomon Townsend, 12 Orchard avenue, Waban, and Mrs. George C. Taplin, 286 Ward street, Newton Centre.

AMERICANIZATION. "Forty-seven varieties. Of what?" Mrs. C. H. Danforth cleverly catches attention and awakens curiosity that should reward her purpose in this characterization of the brilliantly-dressed dolls that represent the races and nationalities in Massachusetts. There are twelve such dolls, correctly dressed in national costume, domiciled at Headquarters, "keeping Miss Houghton from being lonesome." Mrs. Danforth says, and she wants 35 more such examples, and she wants the Clubs to furnish them, that the "spicy" family may be complete. A doll costs about $2.50, and the Club contributing has its name upon the doll. It is dressed by a woman of the nationality represented, so that the costume may be authentic. In order to avoid duplication, the Club who will respond to Mrs. Danforth's appeal is asked to communicate with her. She is anxious to have the Exhibit complete by next June, and the Boston Public Library is ready to display this Exhibit as soon as it is more nearly completed. Meanwhile Mrs. Danforth quaintly says that these representatives of the immigrants are very orderly and quiet; that they know their place and keep it. (They serve as a "raking" example.) That that place is temporarily a "detention station," sing boxes, tucked away in closet at Headquarters, until their numbers become large enough to allow them the freedom of the State. Mrs. Danforth should not have to wait long to see her dream realized, for her request in such humorous vein deserves immediate response from Clubs who have the necessary $2.50.

ANNUAL MEETING

The Annual Meeting of the Nonatum Co-operative Bank will be held on Tuesday, January 8, 1929, at the office of the Bank, 281 Washington Street, Newton, at 7:30 p.m., to elect a Clerk for one year, five Directors for three years, and to transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

Action will also be taken on proposed changes in the By-laws, as follows:

To strike out and cancel Article XIII of the By-laws and substitute thereto:

Attorneys.—The Board of Directors at its first meeting after the Annual Meeting for the election of officers shall appoint an Attorney or Attorneys, who shall examine all titles to property offered as security for loans, and shall prepare all papers of a legal nature required by the Corporation. In case of loans the member offering security therefor shall pay the Attorney's fees whether the security is accepted or rejected, subject to decision by the Board of Directors in case of dispute as to the amount thereof.

Article XVI.—Strike out ninety-five and insert ninety in the second line to read:

Loans may be made upon unpledged shares to an amount not exceeding ninety per cent. of their withdrawal value at the time of the loan, and shall be in sums of ten dollars or its multiple.

To further amend Article XVIII by adding the following:

and provided further that no profits shall be withheld on shares withdrawn in the forty-eighth series and all subsequent series.

RECENT EVENTS

West Newton Women's Educational Club

"The Juniors" of the West Newton Women's Educational Club had charge of the meeting held Saturday afternoon, December 22nd. The occasion was a Christmas party for fifteen needy Newton children. The program opened with a play, "Adopted by Santa Claus," in costume, the Juniors taking the different parts. The principal roles were played by the Misses Constance Dort, Doris Jones, Anna Haven, Marion Jackson, Priscilla Hartwell, and Susanne Elwell, and, much to the delight of the little guests, the books and toys in the play came to life. At the close of the play, Christmas Carols were sung, and Santa having arrived distributed the gifts to the children. Each child received a pair of mittens, which the Juniors purchased out of their own fund, a toy, a practical gift, as well as candy and pop corn. It was a merry and happy group of children who went to bed beautifully decorated in keeping with the holiday season. They were served sandwiches, cocoanut, ice cream and cake.

The Juniors were ably assisted by their leaders, Mrs. B. Howard Lester and Mrs. Edwin M. Wolley, and their committee.

Shakespeare Club

At the meeting of the Shakespeare Club of Newton Highlands on Saturday, the 29th, Mrs. H. W. Drew took charge of the Quiz, in place of her daughter Virginia McLean, on Act III of Part I of "Henry IV." Mrs. F. Keith entertained the Club at her home 20 Hartford street. The afternoon was a most interesting one in the study of the play, and an especially pleasing bit of business is worthy of notice, not so much because it was of this Club's, but because it applies to so many Clubs of Newton. Last Spring, it will be recalled, that individual Clubs throughout the State, as the State Federation, as well, were intensely interested in saving Francisco. Note the commercial development that would have destroyed not only the forest of the region but that historic landmark that somehow seems so vitally to represent New Hampshire, her history and her status in the world—the great stone face. Due to the interest of women, funds were contributed that spared this development of so-called progress. That this effort was worthwhile, and that it was appreciated by those who had the project in hand, is evidenced by the letter of acknowledgement sent to the Shakespeare Club, and read at last Saturday's meeting. No doubt similar letters were sent to all other contributing Clubs, but, even so, Clubwomen, who possibly do not know of it will find interest in reading herewith the text of the thanks that they may take to themselves, if their own Club, or they individually, had a share in the contributions.

The "letter," which is in poetic appreciation, is headed "Society For Protection of New Hampshire Forests," with the acknowledgment of Sue Collins, and reads: "O people of my country, here from my watchtower high, I give you benediction, Your ancient Guardian, I. Secured from new encroachments, Safe from the grasp of Greed, You, by your dauntless spirit, Rendered me aid in need. Loyal to fine tradition, Feeling true beauty's thrill, Faithful to state and country, You met my urgent call."

Long may your hearts be gladdened, Blessed by all your race, You, who have won your battle, And saved "The Old Stone Face!"

Woman's Club of Newton Highlands

Guest Night, the first meeting of 1929 of the Woman's Club of Newton Highlands, which was on New Year's evening, was opened by the president, Mrs. Ward L. Cornell, with cordial greetings for the New Year to the guests and members of the Club.

After the reading of reports and notices, the president, introduced Mr. Alton Hall Blackington, the entertainer of the evening, who is in a decidedly witty and original manner, remarked on the many interesting pictures, as shown on the screen, depicting a life-time of the thrilling and sometimes hair-raising experiences of a press photographer. In spite of the pathos and joking, one realizes the hardships and pleasures that accompany such an art as picture-taking.

Mr. Blackington kept his audience in a gale of laughter throughout the evening, leaving the people in a happy and jubilant frame of mind, as well as giving food for thought. He had a clever knack of changing from the sublime to the ridiculous, while showing his love for children and animals. Many were the sad and amusing anecdotes accompanying the pictures.

Through the generosity of the Club president, Mrs. Cornell, over seventy young folks of the village enjoyed New Year's afternoon at a Tea at the Workshop. Mrs. Cornell was chairman. Mrs. Earl G. Manning as chairman, Mrs. Donald D. McKay, Mrs. T. Monahan, Mrs. Emily F. Haberstroh, Mrs. C. W. Hawley, Mrs. Frank D. Warren, Mrs. E. J. Weaver, and Mrs. Albert G. Prescott.

The logs burning in the fireplace sent forth their warmth of welcome and cheer to the guests. Dancing and Bridge, the features of the party, were participated in, and the renewal of old friendships and acquaintances seemed a fitting way to start the New Year.

This being the first activity of the sort given by a president of the Club, it would seem most appropriate for the club herewith to extend the appreciation of that party to Mrs. Cornell and the assisting committee.

WOMAN'S ASSOCIATION OF CENTRAL CHURCH

The Annual meeting was held on Wednesday, January 2. After sewing and the making of surgical dressings under the direction of Mrs. G. E. Fisher and Mrs. A. E. Vose, luncheon was served with Mrs. N. C. Jordan as chairman.

The president, Mrs. George Auryan, was in the chair and called for the reports of the officers. Mrs. Charles Frail, recording secretary, and Miss Emma Miller, treasurer, gave their annual reports. The Association numbers 247 members and contributes to a number of objects; among them to the support of Miss Mary Kinney, who conducts a girl's school at Soutari, Turkey; the Eleazar Nagle and the Allen memorials in India; the Lincoln, Schaeffer and Northland institutions in this country. The revised constitution was read by Mrs. A. H. Descurtis and accepted by the association.

Mrs. Myron M. Davis spoke in behalf of the Pop Concert which the Central Guild will give on Friday evening, and Mrs. Irving O. Palmer told of the class to be conducted at the Welfare Bureau on "The Art of Helping." This can not fail to be of benefit to social workers and to those who desire to serve their community more wisely and efficiently.

The report of Mrs. F. M. Blanchard, who retires as chairman of the house-keeping committee, was received with the most lively interest as she described in detail the refurbishing of the kitchen, towards which the Association contributes $800. Referring to this report Dr. B. Brewer Eddy, speaker of the afternoon, said, "Nothing is so moving forward in modern reform more rapidly than any nation on earth." He noted the success of the work of Miss Mary Kinney at Soutari, Turkey. Miss Kinney gathers together a most strategic group, the high school girls. The woman you support is a head liner on the front page of Turkey's progress. "Dr. Eddy referred to the liquidation of the Hall estate foundation, which releases large sums for use in colleges in the near and far east. Mr. Hall, a large stockholder in the aluminum trust, had been convinced of the efficiency of the American Board and had entrusted these immense bequests to their institutions for disbursement. The movement to preserve the old sacred city of Pekin in which Harvard co-operates, will save rare old carvings and other works of art from the destruction which threatens during these troublous times in China.

Waban Young People's Forum Hears Of Japan

Kobe College Representative Tells of Oriental Country

Mrs. Isabelle MacCausland was the speaker last Sunday evening at the first meeting of the "Forum Institute," held annually by the Young People's Forum of Waban during four weeks of the year. The main subject is "Our Foreign Neighbors." Mrs. MacCausland, who is from Kobe College, Kobe, Japan, represented that country. Next Sunday Miss Louise Walworth will represent Mexico. The speaker for the next Sunday is not yet definitely engaged, but upon the following Sunday, Dr. John Miller will speak on India. Tickets for the course, priced at one dollar, entitles the bearer to a light supper, served by some of the mothers, under the direction of Mrs. Stephen, as well as to the lectures. As Mrs. MacCausland was to speak over the radio that evening, her talk began at six o'clock and preceded the supper. The other lectures, however, will start at six-thirty, preceded by supper at six-fifteen.

"We do not often realize," said Mrs. MacCausland, "what an effect our actions have upon our foreign neighbors. The newly developed rayon business, for instance, has hit Japan's silk industry an awful blow. This is especially interesting when we know that, except for Great Britain, Japan buys more goods from the United States than any other nation. Thus we are very inter-dependent, and, as such, we should know more about each other. It is unfortunate that the only glimpse of America that many of the Japanese get is through moving pictures that are not allowed to be shown here—moving pictures that have no vestige of truth in their scenery or characters."

"Japan is a good and loyal member of the 'League of Nations.' The school children especially are interested, and the boys' and girls' schools frequently oppose each other in debates, given in English, on questions of International affairs. English is becoming almost a secondary language for Japan's youth, although they have a harder time pronouncing it than do most foreigners, for they find it impossible to give our T-sound. Nevertheless, English is an extremely popular language in Japan today."

"The Japanese are extremely broad-minded in their religions. Besides their own Oriental faiths, Buddhism, Shintoism, etc., they embrace all of the Christian sects. There are many Japanese members of the Friends' Society. Their own Princess Mat-su-ki is a Quaker. They want their children to know something about every sect, and thus be competent to choose intelligently the church with which to become affiliated."

A change in their judiciary system was instituted this year, when the jury system was introduced instead of the old system, taken from the French, whereby the trial was by three judges. The government is patterned on that of Great Britain, as are the Industrial and Factory systems.

"Through much reading of American books, magazines and papers, and through motion pictures, the Japanese are coming to know much more about their American neighbors than we do about them. We must keep our wits about us, or they will soon be ahead of us."

Christmas Seal Sale Increasing Slowly

Five Weeks Total Nealy $1000 Less Than 1927 Total

Returns to date, from Christmas Seal Sale shows a total of almost a thousand dollars less than final total in 1927. It is customary to delay the Seal Sale letter until Thanksgiving Day out of consideration for the Red Cross drive for membership.

As Thanksgiving Day was very late in November, time for sale of Christmas Seals has been shorter than usual.

Doubtless many have overlooked the letters containing Christmas seals, which reached them as the Christmas rush began.

Be sure to look them up now and send your check.

As follow-up reminders reach you, meet them cordially, and respond to the call promptly. It is of vital importance to Newton children that the good work made possible by money received from the sale of Christmas Seals, be continued.

The results of the sale of Christmas Seals at the end of the fifth week of the campaign are as follows:

"The one great thorn in their flesh is the immigration restriction. If this restriction were removed, and Japan given her quota, as are other nations, it would mean that only 150 of them would come in each year. Employers have found that Japanese help was very satisfactory. These 150 immigrants each year would provide the employers with better help, would not hurt the country in any way, and would, above all, prove to Japan conclusively our brotherly interest in her, and thus amend the rather strained relations which now exist between the two countries."

The public is welcome at these lectures of the "Forum Institute." Tickets for single lectures or for the course may be purchased at the door.

Second Lecture On Banking Well Attended

Newton Women Given Advice on Banking Problems

The attendance at the second lecture presented by the Newton Trust Company to its women depositors showed an increase of about 50% over the first lecture.

Mrs. Irving O. Palmer called the meeting to order promptly at 10:30 last Monday morning in the Newton Centre Women's Clubhouse and announced that the next lecture would come on Tuesday, February 5, at the same place. The speaker will be Mr. J. K. Billingsley of the Old Colony Corporation through whom all the investment activities of the Trust Company are conducted. Mr. Billingsley will address the women depositors of the Newton Trust Company on "Investments."

Mrs. Palmer introduced, as the speaker of the morning, Mr. George W. Grant, for many years Vice President of the Old Colony Trust Company and in charge of its Banking Department. After fifty-one years of banking experience Mr. Grant was recently retired from active service in the Old Colony Trust Company and came from his home in Salem at some personal sacrifice to address the Newton women.

The speaker gave some very specific advice in banking problems. He advocated the use of joint accounts and of transit numbers in place of the name of the bank, when making out deposit tickets. He advised against attempting to draw cash immediately after depositing it, if the check is on a distant bank, and also against post-dating checks, since the bank cannot cash the check until the specified date has come.

Mr. Grant instructed his hearers to use the whole legal name of the payee, thus showing the sex, omitting all titles—unless it be agent or attorney. He also advised numbering checks and a monthly balancing of one's own check book statements with that of the bank. He explained in detail certified checks and the proper thing to do in the case of lost checks.

Mr. Grant was chairman of the Boston Clearing House Committee which in 1924 decided to impose a service charge of $1 a month (or as he professed to think of it, 25 cents a week) on monthly accounts not averaging $300. The Suburban Bankers' Association voted to make the limit of their depositors $200 a month.

During the 15-minute question period which followed his hour's talk, Mr. Grant showed the women how to draw an ideal check and answered many concrete questions put to him by his audience.

FIRE AT NEWTON CENTRE

Tuesday morning Box 7151 was pulled for a fire in the house at 905 Commonwealth Avenue, Newton Centre, occupied by Mrs. Mary Chmeli. The cause of the fire is unknown. It is supposed to have started in the kitchen and spread throughout the house causing damage amounting to several thousands of dollars. The blaze was discovered by Mrs. Simon Farmer who resides in the next house. She called the fire department and when the firemen arrived an entrance was forced into the burning building.

City Employees Hold Annual Installation

Mayor, Aldermen and Other Officials At Meeting

The installation of officers of Newton City Employees was held last Friday night in Bay State Hall, Newton. President Leslie Moriarty presided and introduced the numerous speakers. Among those present as guests were Mayor Childs, Senator Arthur Hollis, Representative Rupert Hollis, street Commissioner Stuart and eight members of the Board of Aldermen.

Alderman George Greenstein lauded the employees for their interest they take in the performance of their duties and asserted that Newton is singularly fortunate in having efficient employees. Alderman Murray promised his hearty co-operation in getting as much work as possible done on the streets the coming year. Alderman Powers advocated the construction of needed public improvements by city employees whenever practicable so that unemployment will be prevented.

Alderman Temperley stated that there are many streets and sewers needed in Ward 5 and the improvements wanted in that section of the city would furnish much employment to the employees. Alderman Floyd explained that because he is a new member in the Board he would rather wait until he becomes better acquainted with matters before he would venture opinions.

Alderman Gordon lauded the employees for the good spirit and harmony which prevails among them and expressed his appreciation for the hospitality shown him by the employees on many social occasions.

Street Commissioner Stuart, introduced by President Moriarty as a "real friend of the city employees," gave figures to show the great amount of work done during 1928 on drains and sewers. Mr. Stuart urged the men to co-operate fully with him in serving the city.

Mayor Childs said that he was very glad to be present as he always intended to keep in touch with the members and that all committees were always courteous and never asked for anything without having facts for asking for same. He spoke of the work and said that he was glad that there had not been any lay-off this year. Mayor Childs also said that every man that worked for the city should be members of the Local as they had done a lot of good work. Julius Ramon also spoke and said that he was new at the job but would try and give the people a good report of service rendered at the end of the year and that this was his second visit to the Local and that he would be glad to come again as he had enjoyed the meeting and the spirit of good will.

Representative Thompson then spoke and said that he was glad to have been invited and that he thought that an organization that had for its motto the following—No Strikes—Direct Legislation—Peaceful Arbitration—should meet with good results and that he would be glad to see the representatives of our organization at the State House.

Alderman William E. Earle was in

Loot Waban And Auburndale Homes

Thieves Force Rear Doors and Steal Jewels, Rugs and Fur Coat

Wednesday two houses in this city were broken into and looted. The houses entered were those of Herbert S. Kimball, 31 Pilgrim road, Waban, and Frederick Young, 140 Winchmere road, Auburndale. Mrs. Kimball left her residence at 11 a. m. Wednesday to go shopping. When she returned at 4 p. m. she discovered that her house had been entered by the forcing of a rear door and had been ransacked. Among the articles stolen from the house were four Oriental rugs, a large domestic rug, a fur coat and several dresses belonging to Mr. Kimball's daughter and a ring valued particularly because it was an heirloom. A peculiar circumstance is that the thief or thieves did not take a valuable diamond ring which was alongside the ring stolen. Some of the loot stolen apparently was wrapped up in a sheet which was taken from the house. The house is in a thinly settled locality and it is supposed that the thieves approached it from Quinebaug road where they would not be detected.

At the Young house in Auburndale a considerable amount of jewelry was found to have been stolen. This house was entered in the same manner as the Kimball home. At the Young house in Auburndale a considerable amount of jewelry was found to have been stolen. This house was entered in the same manner as the Kimball home. The driver told the police that the little boy ran in front of the automobile.

The great number of colds prevailing because of the unusual amount of frost humidity which has been in the atmosphere the past few weeks has caused hundreds of pupils to be absent from the Newton schools. Out of an enrollment of 2400 at the Newton High School nearly 300 pupils were absent yesterday. The School Department has advised children who have colds to remain at home because of the fact that colds are transmitted to others. It is more than probable that there are few, if any cases of "flu" among the school children. Because of the prevalence of "flu" in California and the publicity given this fact in the newspapers, a "flu" scare has spread throughout the nation and many persons suffering from ordinary colds believe they have had, or have influenza.

A rumor has been current that the Newton schools will close because of the alleged prevalence of "flu." This rumor is unfounded. It is not intended to close any of the schools. The Newton Health Department has informed the school authorities that even though a large percentage of the pupils may have colds, nothing will be gained by closing the schools.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

Albert Bertrand, Jr., 4, of 128 Charlesbank road, Newton, was injured about the head and body last Friday when he was struck opposite his home by a milk truck owned by Nelson Hardy of Pine street, Waltham, and driven by Lewis Harsy of that city. The driver told the police that the little boy ran in front of the automobile.

Automobiles driven by William Perry, 20 Clark road, West Newton, and Edna Hyde, Sylvan avenue, West Newton, collided Monday morning at Putnam and Margin streets, West Newton. Mrs. Hyde was driving along Margin street and the Perry automobile had come over the Putnam street bridge. William H. Perry, Jr., 16, who was riding with his father, was seriously injured and upon being taken to the Newton Hospital it was found that he had concussion of the brain.

GEORGE OWEN TURNS PRO—WITH BRUINS

The sport world was unexpectedly started Tuesday afternoon to learn that George Owen, former Newton high and Harvard three-sport star athlete, had signed to play professional hockey with the Boston Bruins. Since his graduation from Harvard in 1923 the former Newton youth, who now resides in Milton, had received many offers from various promoters of pro sport including football and hockey. But Owen had always turned a deaf ear to any invitation. Monday night he was practicing with the University Club hockey team of which he had been the leading player for several years. Tuesday noon he signed with the Bruins and that evening appeared in their line-up against the Toronto Maple Leafs without having had any practice with his new teammates.

The whole sporting world watched with interest his pro debut and there were few who were surprised at his ability to fit into the game in the manner he did. Naturally enough at the beginning of the game he was nervous but as the game wore on he got going in his old college and amateur way to spoil any attempted attack through his side of the defense. Near the close of the game he earned the first and final Bruin tally by seizing an opportunity created by the rebound of a teammate's shot at the net.

It must also be recalled that Owen has recently been confined to his bed with a severe cold and he was not in the best of condition Tuesday evening. With such a bang-up introduction to the pro game Owen will be one of the outstanding members of the Bruin outfit before many weeks are over. Certainly he will be one of the greatest drawing cards the team has ever had, not only in his home city where he is known so well, but in the other cities on the circuit where his name has long been familiar but where he has never appeared in person.

The sudden action of Owen in joining professional ranks was not prompted by the salary offered him but more through his love of the game and his desire to know how well he could do among other well-known hockey players, on the pro ranks, several of whom he used to play against while in college. His sudden jump was also partially brought about by the weakening of the Bruin defense through injuries to Captain Hitchman and the absence of Dil Clapper. His action will probably be the signal for other ex-college stars to try their luck at the pro game, there being but a few other American college grads in it.

SPORT NOTES

To Hold Scholastic Golf Turnney Restoration of a schoolboy golf tournament after a lapse of 16 years was one of the chief items of interest at the first meeting of the year of the Mass. Golf Association executive committee recently. The affair should mean much to the Newton high school golf team which has been the recognized state champion for the past several years through its long string of victories over other schoolboy teams. In deciding to feature a scholastic turnney the committee acknowledged receipt of a trophy, emblematic of schoolboy supremacy in New England, donated by George Wright which will be put in permanent competition. It was voted to stage the 1929 affair in the Greater Boston area and in future years to rotate the scene of conflict throughout New England. The style of play will consist of that followed in the amateur championships, namely, a 36-hole qualifying test, followed by five match rounds for the surviving combatants. Suitable medals will be awarded the medalist, runner-up and semi-finalists.

Squash Racquets Team Standing

Class A of the Mass. Squash team standing Newton Centre, the only local club in this class, is tied with Harvard for the position next to the cellar berth with seven wins and eight losses for a .467 percentage. In Class C the only local entry is also Newton Centre in fourth place. But three teams are tied for second position to Harvard only one point above the South side club so that next week may see a decided change in the order. Class C which has three local entries in Newton Centre, Newton Club and Country Day is led by Harvard Club and Harvard freshmen with but one defeat in twenty matches. Newton Centre is tied with Westin in sixth place, Newton Club is in ninth place and Country Day eleventh.

SECOND VICTORY IN ROW OVER MEDFORD

For the second successive year the Newton high track team triumphed over the Medford high team on the Newton track by scoring 46 1/3 points to Medford's 30 2/3 points. Robert Ewing, Newton high senior, who is a transfer from Chicago where he was Illinois State schoolboy 300-yard champion, was the high scorer of the meet with 14 1/4 points. He won the 30-yard dash, crashing up against the wall in the finals and sustaining a cut on the nose and above the eye which came near rendering him "hors de combat." But after the injured member had been taped up Ewing came back to place second in the 300-yard run. This event was run against time with a man from each school entered in each heat. Ewing won his heat as he pleased but his time was one-fifth of a second slower than that of the winner, Robert Andrews, the Medford star, who won the event in 36 4/5 seconds. Ewing also captured first place in the running high jump with a leap of 5 feet 4 inches, Clark of Medford having cleared 5 feet 3 inches but failing at the next height. Ewing started the relay team off but was beaten to the first bank by Andrews, who by the way was the Medford high scorer, winning the 600-yard run in addition to his previous victory in the 300. Andrews led Ewing all the way by a stride or two until the batons were handed over to the next runners.

Captain Dick Reynolds was also a potent factor in the orange and black victory. He won the hurdles over Shea of Medford in 4 2/5 seconds, placed second to Andrews in the 600, tied for third in the high jump and ran second on the winning relay, for a total of 9 7/12 points. Pescosolido added eight points to Newton's total by winning the shot put with a heave of 43 feet 10 1/2 inches and taking second in the dash with 10 1/2 feet.

In the dash tomorrow Robert Ewing and Carl Pescosolido should be in the final along with Capt. John Badaracco and Peter Racheotes. Ben Hootstein and Charles French are other Brookline hopes although both the Newton runners should score.

Edward Duane of Brookline will give Capt. Dick Reynolds of Newton a race in the hurdles although Reynolds should come through. Brookline has lost Eugene Record its star captain of last year, along with other stellar performers in Werner, Rogers, Prince, Redman, Hagenberger and Linsky. Lebowitch and Johnston are the other Red and Blue hurdlers while Newton will depend upon Mike Fine, in addition to Reynolds.

Studebaker announces a new World Champion President Eight ... of greater power, beauty and luxury

$1785 at the

115-horsepower motor; Double-drop frame; New, longer, lower lines; Dual carburetion; Non-shatterable windshield; Adjustable front seat; Automatic choke control; Safety steel-core steering wheel; Ball bearing spring shackles; Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers

AT THE moment when eager eyes turn to the newest offerings of American automotive genius, Studebaker announces a surpassing achievement—a new and finer world champion President Eight! A motor car priced in a range where such performance, such luxury, such beauty of coachcraft and color, have never sold before!

In traveling 30,000 miles in 26,326 minutes the great President Eight officially demonstrated more speed and endurance than any other regular factory production car the world has ever known. The President Eight today holds every official speed and endurance record for fully equipped stock cars.

Today's motor car is the eight! At the recent Paris Salon de l'Automobile—at the Olympia Motor Show in London—on the boulevards and highways of America during the past twelve months, the trend of motor car demand has been unmistakably to the straight eight.

The Eight is THE Car. This is THE Eight!

It has been Studebaker's privilege, through providing the first truly great eight of moderate cost, to be the standard-bearer of the industry in the swing toward this finer, more flexible, more suave and pliant transportation. Dramatically and sensational, Studebaker's President Eight led the way.

But the engineering genius which created such a car could not rest idly on its laurels. Hence today, Studebaker presents a still greater President Eight—the triumphantly successful product of Studebaker's research laboratories and million-dollar Proving Ground.

This new President Eight is as near to a perfect motor car mechanically as champion-builders can make it. It is a large car—but not bulky. It is a genuinely beautiful car—a smart car—with good taste in every line and in all its appointments. It is a fast car, and enduring. Its manners and its comforts await your appraisal in Studebaker showrooms today. Come, drive a champion!

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

By L. D. G. BENTLEY

Overcoat thieves are giving overcoat owners considerable anxiety and making a lot of extra work for the police. This is the time of the year when these professional snatches of other people's garments get in their best work. The police blotter—right here in Newton, too, I am told—shows that they are not daunted by surroundings but seem rather to prefer to steal from a church.

It isn't a joke this losing one's overcoat—although we have heard people laugh unrestrainedly at another's tale of having his overcoat swiped from a church parlor during the morning service. There is no humor in it but it does reveal that the thief relies on the fact that people are apt to say, "Surely, my things ought to be safe in church."

It is this very assumption upon which thieves base their operations. They know that people are more trusting in a place of worship than in a hall for social, fraternal, political or other gatherings. I recently talked with a veteran detective whose knowledge of all-round police work has given him a wide reputation. He said: "I wish you would say in your column something about the need of people watching their overcoats. The thieves don't care where they pick up a good coat. They have no hesitation walking into a church vestry or any place where there are good coats hanging on the wall. The amount of these cases is mounting every day and while the police are doing their utmost it is absolutely necessary that they have the co-operation of the citizens."

Coat rooms should either be locked or placed in charge of an attendant.

Leaving a nice fur overcoat to the mercy of a crook is a shame. The work of recovering these stolen garments is made extremely difficult and almost impossible because of the way in which the thief disposes of his loot. Remember, these coats are not pawned. They are taken directly to somebody who makes a business of buying stolen coats. Once on somebody else's back the police are powerless. They can't stop everybody with a fur coat on and ask, "Where did you get that coat?" The new wearer appears respectable—and maybe he is and has bought the stolen coat in ignorance of its history—so the police can't take it off his back on mere suspicion.

"There is one thing that people must do if they want to retain possession of their property and that is watch it or have somebody else do so or put it under lock and key where thieves cannot lay hands on it."

Personally I have never had an overcoat stolen. (Business of knocking on wood). Not that I have been alert or more careful than other people. I can toss my overcoat most any old place because it is that kind of an overcoat. And I am reasonably certain that no one will steal it for the very same reason. Therefore, I can't discourage at any length on my own experiences with thieves. It is not that I do not wish to place temptation in their way that I refrain from wearing a coon coat or a fur-lined coat with astrakhan collar. My failure to so adorn myself is that I—but let us not go into the tragic side of this subject.

Rather I would take up the perplexing side. Of that I can speak with full authority. We have all of us watched the magician with his mysterious tricks and his skill at making things appear or disappear. My success was demonstrated in carrying out the disappearance of certain articles. But I was not clever like the slight-of-hand man for I did not know where they had gone. He at least could locate them at will. I couldn't—and that was the difficulty.

I first purchased a small box of smoking tobacco and dropped it into the outside left-hand pocket. Together with it I deposited some matches. Later I invested in a toothbrush and a tube of tooth paste. As I recall there was a fifth article, but what it was I cannot remember for the life of me.

Not long afterwards I arrived home and placed my hand in my pocket to take out my purchases. None was there. What has become of them? They should have been there, I thought. Then I began to doubt myself. Had I really put them in my pocket? If I had, why wouldn't they be there? And if I hadn't put them there what had I done with them? All that day I puzzled over the mystery.

I concluded that I wouldn't buy any more tobacco for I felt that I would probably recover the missing package. So I decided to indulge in cigarettes. I made up my mind that I would watch myself carefully. When I bought the package I took great care to note that I had placed it in the same outside left-hand pocket of my overcoat. "There," said I, "this won't get away from me."

But it did. It wasn't long after that I felt a desire to smoke and plunged my hand in my overcoat pocket. No cigarettes! What? No cigarettes—precisely that! My impulse was to telephone the police. Here was I the victim of pickpockets twice in the same day and place. Instead of telephoning I turned to my assistant, related my experience and demanded that he solve the whole business.

"Have you looked to see if there is a hole in the pocket?" he asked.

"There can't be," I replied. "Had there been I would have heard them drop."

"Not necessarily," said he, "if they slipped down between the coat and the lining. You've probably got all these things on your back this very minute. Let's look and see."

He was right. I found all the missing property. All the articles slipped through hole in the pocket and were resting comfortably between the lining and the coat.

A letter from a reader of this column who prefers I should use only his name de plume, "B. Q.", says,

"Dear Lev—As long as you are trying to get all the information about running the Boston Elevated cars from Newton to Park Street or the other way, or both, I would like to make one or two suggestions. Your friend the motorman told you, you said, that a car was likely to be delayed because of the great number of passengers. As I understand it, he meant that if the people made up their minds to take his car instead of the car in front or the ones behind that car was sure to be delayed and to tie up all cars behind it. His explanation is all right as far as it goes, especially when he says some people are slow in getting on and off the cars. If you ask me the slowest people getting on and off the car are the conductors and motormen when they change crews. You must know what I mean. Take it when a Newton-bound car is 15 or 20 minutes late or even more and it gets out as far as Oak square or Tremont street, Newton, and the in-bound car stops and they shift crews in the street so the out-bound motorman and conductor may turn around and go back to Boston. Every time I have watched them they were the most deliberate people that ever happened. If the passengers took so much time in shifting from one car to another believe me they would be told to 'hurry, please' or maybe something more."

"These street railway fellows have their alibis like every other line of business. It makes interesting reading anyway. Print some more of it and I will try to answer it as representative of the much walked-on public."

I didn't attend the inauguration ceremonies at City Hall, West Newton, but I read the proceedings as reported in the Graphic and found them interesting, especially the Mayor's address. Several of the suggestions made by him appeared to me worthy of immediate action. That of further improvement of the Charles River's banks in this city seemed unusually important.

How differently are the banks of streams regarded nowadays. Formerly they were skirted by shops and mills and factories, stables and the like. Rubbish piles were to be found here and there and great piles of waste, ashes, tin cans and other things were dumped at the water's edge. Then somebody had a vision and communicated it to somebody else. The whole thing was changed. Public sentiment demanded attractive river banks instead of ugly dumps.

That idea of beautifying the banks of the rivers has not reached all parts of New England, or even Massachusetts. But here in this part of the State we know that it is pretty thoroughly established and is certain to be extended.

The Mayor is right. The extension of the river boulevard from Watertown through Newton to Waltham and Weston is sure to come at some time or other. It will be more than a local improvement—it will be one of the most attractive features of the Metropolitan park system. What a splendid way for automobiles to travel west. Instead of going through the streets of Watertown and Waltham to get to Concord they can pick up the Concord road where traffic is not congested. And if headed west by way of South Sudbury they can travel along the river bank from Longfellow bridge through Cambridge, Brighton, Watertown and Newton to Weston.

Here is a practical scheme which does not involve the expenditure of a vast amount of money for property damages. The land is for the most part owned by the State. Comparatively little privately-owned land would have to be taken. Let's put the Mayor's idea over! Why not?

Of course, like everybody else I knew, or believed I knew the significance of the phrase "Hobson's choice."

But when asked to explain its origin I was at loss to make even a guess.

I found comfort in the fact that several of the group were as ignorant as I. Therefore, we proceed to study the matter, and interviewed first Noah Webster and then a well known teacher of English.

The dictionary told us it was synonymous for "no choice at all." That was not enough. We weren't satisfied until we learned from the teacher that there was an old carrier and livery stable keeper in London in the 17th century by the name of Thomas Hobson and that he owned the road between Cambridge and London. He used to rent the use of his horses and when a man came to engage one he was obliged to take that nearest the stable door. No argument would change Mr. Hobson's system. He believed in that way he was serving each customer impartially and would not make any exceptions.

ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Newton Hospital Aid Association was held Tuesday, January 8th, at 11 a.m. in the Parish House of the New Church, Newtonville.

In the absence of the President on account of illness, Mrs. Joseph N. Lowell presided.

The annual reports were given by the Secretary, Mrs. Frank E. Anderson; and the Treasurer, Miss Florence E. Tower.

Mrs. A. S. Pratt, chairman of the Nominating Committee proposed the following nominations which were unanimously accepted: For President, Mrs. George H. Talbot; Vice-Presidents, Mrs. Joseph N. Lowell; Mrs. W. V. Taylor; Mrs. Chester Spring; Mrs. F. Ashley Day, Jr.; Treasurer, Miss Florence E. Tower; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Frank E. Anderson; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Francis H. Williams.

Also a Board of Directors comprising 48 women of Newton. One new director was added this year, Mrs. Charles T. Bartlett.

Honorary members, Mrs. William H. Gould, Mrs. E. B. Haskell, Mrs. H. H. Carter.

Hon. Alonso R. Weed, Auditor. Two honorary members of the Board both past Presidents have been removed by death this year, Mrs. George S. Harwood and Mrs. James P. Tolman.

At the Graduation Exercises of the Hospital in June, scholarships provided by the Association were awarded as follows: $125 to Miss Katherine Gorman of the graduating class, $75 to Miss Hazel Oaks of the second year class, $50 to Miss Francis Montana of the second year class.

Our donations have included $500 to Miss Allen for current needs, $500 for Laboratory Equipment, $200 for sheets, $100 for necessary furnishings for nurses' corner in the nurse's home with the $250 for scholarships makes a total of $1550.00.

Mrs. C. P. Clark, Treasurer, made a brief financial statement of the Budget.

Mrs. F. H. Williams, shop manager, gave many forceful incidents from her personal experience as she referred to the Shop as a panorama of human emotions. The need of clothes for men, women and children is as great as ever. She urged the audience to come themselves and see the shop in operation.

Since last January the shop has earned above all expenses for the Hospital Aid $5000.

Mrs. Lovell called on Miss Allen for a brief report, in which she said the last year was a prosperous one. In June a three-story house in the neighborhood had been rented in which 26 of the 34 students in training were accommodated and after alterations in the basement, storerooms and class rooms had been installed. X-ray department had doubled its work. The Out-patient department showed no increase. Many of our graduates were holding fine positions of great responsibility in other institutions.

Miss Allen described at some length the arrangements of the New Hospital which it is expected will be in operation in the early summer.

Mrs. Lovell then introduced Dr. John X. Miller of South India, who spoke on "The Progress of Public Health in India."

India, half the size of the United States is a great empire, more than 200 different languages were spoken, not one unit divided by its different religions into more than 2000 castes.

There were 60,000,000 outcasts classified as Hindus—ninetynine per cent of the population live in villages in which agriculture and beggary are the principal occupations. In every village is a local god or goddess whose anger causes disease and who is held responsible for every kind of misfortune or disease.

Real progress in sanitation is very slow as every village has its Common, well, or pond where animals as well as humans drink, where clothes are washed and people bathe it is no small wonder that disease is rife.

Ignorance and superstition, social and religious conditions combine to make the work very difficult.

Eighty-five per cent of the population afflicted by hook-worm—half the deaths in India due to infant mortality. On most occasions the bather's wife is the mid-wife.

As there is no segregating of disease, lepers wander about as they please. A diet of onions, buttermilk and banana is prescribed for cholera which is spread abroad by diseased pilgrims who in their filthy clothes infest the churches. No wonder that there are 7,000,000 (million) deaths

POLICE NEWS

In the Newton court Friday last Stephen Brigandi, 74, Beechwood avenue, Watertown, was sentenced to three months in jail. Brigandi was found guilty of taking $50 from Louis Borges, 10 Clinton street, Newton, the pretext that he would get back for the latter his automobile license which was revoked when Borges was found guilty of driving while under the influence of liquor. Borges paid Brigandi $50 sometime ago and was to have given him another $50 when the license was re-issued. When Brigandi failed to make good Borges complained to the police. Brigandi appealed the sentence.

Domenic Bianchi who conducts a store at 201 Adams street and has a company virtually received was fined $100 in the Newton court last Friday for conducting a lottery at his place of business, said lottery being a punch-board. He was also charged with having made an illegal sale of liquor and for this offense was given a suspended fine of $50. In court the same day Carmine Pasico of Cook street, Nonantum, was also given a suspended fine of $50 for making an illegal sale of liquor. Judge Brown of East Boston was on the bench. The fact that Bianchi was severely punished for having a simple little punch-board, which the law designates as a lottery, served to bring him a suspension of the fine for making a sale of wine. Former District Attorney O'Brien of Suffolk County represented Pasico and asked for leniency for his client. Pasico had suffered a loss of 700 gallons of good wine which was seized after he made the sale and the confiscation of this large amount of fermented grape juice occasioned the loss of hundreds of dollars to Pasico.

Offenders against the automobile laws fined in the Newton court last Friday included Victor Bianchi, 19 River street, West Newton, $10 for driving without registration, $5 for driving without proper lights; John Gallagher, 8 Porter street, Watertown, driving without a license, $25; for speeding, John Hartwell of Norwood was fined $25, George Benoit, Boston, $15; George Meeker, 78 Central avenue, Newtonville, $10; Sidney Kurlan, Milford; Herman Clarke, Needham; Joseph Kerrigan, 418 Homer street, Newton Centre, each $10. Theodore Brodie, 31 Wilde road, Waban, was fined $50 for shooting. It was his third conviction within a year for this kind of an offence.

Patrolman William Walsh who fractured an ankle lately when he suffered a fall, has so improved that he will soon return to duty.

January 1st most of the members of the Newton police force discarded the old type overcoats which have heretofore been worn and changed to the so-called New York style overcoats which they had been ordered to obtain in place of the old style overcoats. No leather belt is worn outside the new overcoat which is of the loose ulster type. As a result, many of the policemen are discovering that the new overcoats do not protect them against the cold. There is so much open space, caused by the box design of the new ulsters, that frigid air circulates inside these outer garments and causes their wearers to get colds, lumbago and other ailments.

every year from plague. This is a bit on the dark side of the picture.

On the constructive side we find the British Government trying to cope with disease, ignorance and superstition. Medical colleges are being established. There is an organized system trying to enforce rules for compulsory vaccination, and common education. With the establishing of good hospitals, strong force of doctors and men and women going into efforts of social service, already some progress has been made but the very nature of Indian mentality is such that the work is slow.

Dr. Miller spoke of his own small hospital or dispensary in Mandura with only one ward where last year 8000 were treated at an expense of $500 with a living wage in India ten cents per day, the people themselves cannot pay much for medical care. They ask no luxuries but are grateful for necessities. There are many cases of malarial fever, and more from abdominal and intestinal diseases to be treated. In the cities where there is manufacturing, lung troubles are much on the increase. Their lack of sanitation is responsible for much illness.

The thing fundamentally wrong in India is its religion. Western thought has greatly influenced India. The best things are those which have come from the West. School teaching about life, health and cleanliness will count for much. The solution of Indian difficulties is the establishment of Christian education. The lecture aroused much interest.

A delicious luncheon in charge of Mrs. C. P. Hall and Mrs. F. S. Webster followed.

EPIPHANY-TIDE SERVICE OF LIGHTS

For the seventh consecutive Epiphany-tide, the beautiful Service of Lights will be held at St. Mary's Church, Newton Lower Falls next Sunday evening, January the 13th, at 7:45 o'clock.

The Service will begin with a great Processional of Crucifer, Choristers, Apostles, Martyrs, Deacon, Priest and Bishop entering the church and marching entirely around it singing the ancient hymn, that tradition says was first sung by 5000 martyrs, men, women, boys and girls and little children, as on one Christmas morning in the days of the early persecutions they marched to their deaths in the Roman Colosseum. Then the story of The Star is briefly told by the Interlocutor. The Prophecies of the Birth of Christ are read. The Nativity Hymns are sung. The Epiphany Star is lighted, and The Three Kings enter bearing their gifts of Gold, Frankincense and Myrrh. These they bear to the Altar symbol of The Manger. Then the Twelve Apostles and Matthias, successor of Judas, the Traitor, and St. Stephen, the First Christian Martyr, step forward one by one and light their candles from the Great Christ Candle on the Altar. Afterward from St. Peter as he represents the twelve, the candles are lighted by Bishop, Priest and Deacon, Choristers, and Congregation until all are lighted, illuminating the darkened church with the beautiful candle glow.

All are then dismissed with several ways to their homes bearing their flickering lights, type of The Holy Spirit, whom each one prays may dwell in his home, consecrating it for the year that is to come.

IMPORTANT CHANGE IN OLD ESTABLISHED NEWTON FURNITURE STORE

The Fox Furniture Store at Newton Corner, the largest furniture store in Suburban Boston, after 31 years of service to the people of Newton and vicinity became amalgamated this week with the Kane Furniture Company, the largest furniture retailers in New England. The Kane Furniture Company operates 10 large stores in Boston, Cambridge, Fitchburg, Hartford, Providence, Worcester, Taunton, Gardner, Woonsocket and Newton. Its gigantic purchasing power enables it to offer unusual values to its customers and the amalgamation of the Fox Furniture Company into this great chain will provide residents of Newton with opportunities to enjoy the savings in furniture and household articles which the Kane Stores afford.

A gigantic Neon sign, measuring 22 feet in height and 8 feet in width, one of the largest in this part of the country, will be installed next week in front of the Newton store on Centre street. Under this huge lighted sign will be an illuminated clock similar to those in front of the other Kane furniture stores. Mr. Max Weiss, for the past four years associated with the Fox Furniture Company, will continue as manager of the new Kane store and the personnel of the store will remain practically unchanged.

Burns of Newtonville and is a graduate of the Newton High School and the Sargent School at Cambridge. She has been physical instructor for three years at the Newton Centre Playground. ### SPORT NOTES

More New Records

More new records were set in the Newton Bowling league Wednesday night. Commercial opposed Waban and broke three of the existing marks while taking three points from the local club in Bottle pins. Middlesex had broken the team single of 1059 held by Commercial when it rolled 1060 in its second string with the Newton Club. But Commercial ran up a total of 1102 in its second string with Waban to set a mark that should stand for some time. Commercial also rolled 3040 to break the three string total of 3036, held by Middlesex. H. V. Lawson of Commercial set a new high individual three string mark of 656, breaking the former mark of 652 made a few weeks ago by Ashworth of Middlesex. Middlesex blanketed Waban in bottle pins while Maus took two out of the three from Hunnewell. In the Boston pin matches Hunnewell and Maus, and Middlesex and Newton split even while Commercial took four from Waban. Hunnewell was close to taking four from Maus, losing the first string by one pin and the third string by three. Detlong's 145 and Olmstead's 143 were high for Hunnewell while Anderson of Maus hit 139 on his first and 142 on his third. Commercial and Waban tied in the third string at 496 with the former winning the rolloff.

University Club Loses

Minus George Owen, Clark Hodder and Douglas Everett, three of its leading players, the University club hockeysto sextet bowed to the superior playing of the Ridesmen of Canada, 3 to 5, Wednesday night at the Arena. Owen recently turned pro while the other two are on the sick list. This gave several other local products a chance to get into the game. Bill Blaney, Bill Ellison, Henry Crosby and Ted Leonard were the local celebrities on the ice at one time or another.

Diman Wins For Cushing

Charles Diman, Jr., of Newton, Cushing Academy, right wing, caged a last minute goal to beat Groton School 2 to 1 last Saturday and to continue the Ashburnham school's string of victories which began last season with nine straight. Early in the first period Mel Hemeon of Lower Falls, a former Newton high athlete, caged the first Cushing goal unassisted and in the second session Groton tied it up. The third period was fast and furious and with but a minute left Diman took a pass from his centre and shot the winning point.

Bridley To Coach

Charles J. Bridley of Newton Centre has been elected Franklin High (N. E.) school athletic coach. He is a graduate of Boston College '27 and was on the football, baseball and basketball squads. For the past four seasons he has been assistant playground instructor in this city and was on the pitching staff of the Newton Upper Falls A. A. baseball team. He was one of seven applicants for the Franklin position where he will assume duties at once. He will also teach.

THE LEND-A-HAND MASQUE

The regular meeting of the Lend-a-hand Masque was held at the Unitarian Church in West Newton on Tuesday evening, January 8th. A very delicious supper was served at 6:15 at which twenty-three members were present. Mrs. Louis G. Kibbe was in charge of the supper.

After a short business meeting all those present were invited to stay to see the rehearsal of "The Bird's Christmas Carol" which is to be given at the Newton High School on Saturday afternoon of this week. Mrs. Derby Brown of Brookline has been working with the cast for about six weeks. The results as seen by those present at this rehearsal forecast a marvelous performance on Saturday.

Have you seen the Ruggles Family in the window at the Newtonville Library on Walnut street?

"RACKETY PACKETY HOUSE"

The afternoon of December 31st will be memorable to the hundreds of children who flocked to Newton Centre Woman's Club House to see the drama Rackety Packety House played by children. Among the happiest in the audience were the little children of Pomroy Home, an orphanage supported by Newton people. The story tells of the dolls of the old Rackety Packety House, Peter Piper, Muz and Kilmanskegg and Gustibus who were put aside for the new lords and ladies of Tidy Castle and who finally overcame the terrible storm by their kindness to Lady Lustre and her children from their many ailments. Nothing could be more entertaining than the scenes of seven lords and ladies in bed under varied colored puffs well bandaged and suffering from aches and pains and their hilarity when the Racketies cured them. The last scene was a little toy church after the heralds announced the chimes rang and Peter Piper and Lady Patsey emerged having united the two rival families in marriage.

A ticket for one table of Bridge has been mailed to each member of the association. It is hoped that each member will be able to use this ticket or sell it to us. If there are some members who will not be able to use this ticket, the committee will be glad to receive any sum that such member may be willing to contribute to the cause when returning the ticket. If a check is sent, we would ask that the member please let us know if the ticket is to be used so that we may know how many tables to provide.

It is not only the raising of money, but the co-operation and "getting together" of all Newton, as was accomplished at the fete in June, that we hope to effect again.

BOY INJURED AT SCHOOL

Oreste Arcese, 15, 25 Court street, Newtonville, dislocated his shoulder when he fell in the gymnasium of the Frank A. Day School at Newtonville last Thursday. He was taken to the Newton Hospital in the police ambulance.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. John F. Quinan and family of 26 Washburn street, Newton, wish to express their appreciation to all who sent floral tributes and manifested their sympathy during their recent bereavement.

EDITORIAL

Governor Allen's three recommendations for improving the safety of our highways are excellent so far as they go, but with the ultimate execution of all motor laws in the hands of dumb headed juries and possibly some dumb headed judges, little satisfaction can be expected. We now have drastic laws in effect, most of which if not all, are made innocuous by the failure of judge and jury to enforce the law. Taking away a license to operate and then allowing the culprit to continue to operate, makes a farce of all the laws on the statute book.

Alderman Powers is acting for the interest of the taxpayers of the entire city in contending that the improvement of Cold Spring Swamp should be done under the provisions of law authorizing the assessment of betterments. The drainage of this large and at present, unproductive area, will be of great benefit to the owners of land in that vicinity and it is no more than fair that the land benefited by that work should pay part of the cost of the improvement.

We are glad to note that Mayor Childs advocates provision for the future of Newton. His address last week to the incoming city government contains many desirable recommendations in that direction. We trust the city government will act accordingly.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

By Edw. H. Powers

Tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock the time expires for filing new legislation. After that petitions, bills, resolves, etc., cannot be admitted except under a suspension of the rules. There has not been a great avalanche of bills this year, although many petitioners often wait until the last day. It may be that this year the total will prove considerably larger than is now expected. There seems to be an absence of Newton bills this year—that is, legislation affecting the city directly. Neither has legislation initiated by Newton petitioners been offered in any marked amount. There may be something that is being held but according to general belief few bills of vital local importance to this city are likely to be filed. Armand C. Bang of this city has filed a bill under which motorists would contribute to a State fund for the compensation of those persons injured in automobile accidents.

The usual agitation for a "Greater Boston" has made its appearance in several forms. This is recognized as an effort to annex to Boston all surrounding towns and cities for the benefit of Boston. Every year the effort is made to bring about this annexation business but fortunately it is defeated. However, somebody thinks up a new idea for the following year and again comes the proposal, newly decorated with some different phrases all aimed at the one purpose. It is probably the hope of those behind the scheme that some day they will be able to slip through the General Court a bill that will make Boston and the Metropolitan District all one. If that day should ever come Newton may be assured that it will lose its identity and the excellent system of local government and become only "fat pickin's" for the greedy Boston politicians.

State Fire Marshal George C. Neal has announced a hearing for this afternoon on the protest against the granting by the Newton Board of Aldermen of a permit for a filling station to Cashman and Ginsberg at Newton Lower Falls.

The daily sessions of the House and Senate are unusually brief these days and are devoted to the reference of bills to appropriate committees. Committee hearings were begun this week but not until next week will all the committees get into action. It will probably be another week before things are going full blast.

It is expected that this will not be an extended session. The most important matters are extension of public control of the Boston Elevated, proposed changes in the compulsory automobile liability insurance law and the East Boston Tunnel matter. Gov. Allen in his inaugural message stressed the importance of co-operation between the legislative and executive branches and there is little doubt but he will take the General Court into his confidence on such matters as they bring to him to learn his desires.

Auburndale

Mrs. S. H. Selby is ill at the Sunny Crest Home, Waltham, Mass.

Thomas Foss of Central street is unable to return to college because of illness.

Mrs. Albert Fraser of Central street, who has been ill is reported much improved.

Most of our young people who were home for the holidays have returned to their various colleges.

Mrs. Charles McKenzie and her baby daughter, Jean Carly, of Rowe street have returned from the Newton Hospital.

There will be a Missionary Meeting at the home of Mrs. E. B. Gale, 356 Auburndale avenue, Wednesday afternoon.

There will be a special meeting of the W. C. T. U. at the Lincoln Park Baptist Church Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Scott Rider and family, who have been visiting Mrs. Rider's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Davidson of Woodland road, have returned to their California home.

Because of the prevalent illness the January meeting of the Acquaintance Club, which was to have been held at the home of Mrs. Rufus Estabrook next Tuesday, will be omitted.

Mrs. Isabelle Brown Rose of India will speak at the Program Meeting of the Woman's Association on Wednesday afternoon. She will also give an illustrated lecture in the Chapel on Thursday evening.

If some where tucked away in your desk there is the Christmas Seal Sale request, which reached you when time and thought were all for Christmas preparations, hunt it out and send a generous check to swell the total of 1928-9 returns.

The Brotherhood will hold their next supper in the Club House Tuesday evening. Mr. Alton E. Briggs, executive Secretary of the Boston Fruit Produce Exchange, will speak on "Facts and Fancies of our New England Food Supply." The subject sounds very interesting, and the public are invited to listen to Mr. Briggs at a quarter of eight.

ABOUT TOWN

By Edw. H. Powers

We have been asked to comment on the practice of boys loitering on Washington street near Newton Corner and begging money of passersby for the alleged purpose of obtaining the price of admission to the "movies." The police should take steps to discourage these young mendicants.

We have also been asked to call attention to the growing practice on the part of some autoists of driving through the depot street at Newton Corner from Centre avenue to Centre street. The road by the depot is plainly marked as one-way from Centre street to Centre avenue. Certain autoists of the type who place their own selfish convenience ahead of public safety have been disregarding the one-way rule on this street and a number of near-accidents have resulted. Supt. John Hammill of the Boston & Albany had expressed a willingness to co-operate with the City of Newton in enforcing the one-way rule on this street which is owned by the New York Central Railroad. The Traffic Committee of the Newton Board of Aldermen and the Newton Police Department should take advantage of Mr. Hammill's offer. When the Newton police are given jurisdiction over the street autoists who ignore the one-way rule they can be brought into court and punished.

Newton is to be congratulated on having as one of its Representatives in the Legislature a young man who has so impressed his colleagues there that they have elected him presiding officer of that body. Leverett Saltonstall has wealth, social standing and success. Frequently persons possessing any one of these desiderata become snobbish. The fact that Mr. Saltonstall has remained democratic explains his popularity.

The statement alleged to have been made by a member of the Boston City Council to the effect that Suffolk County jurors are especially chosen by members of the august legislative body of our neighboring city may serve to spread the mistaken idea held by some persons in Newton that jurors are picked in this city. It is true that the names of those drawn to serve as jurors are picked by members of the Newton Board of Aldermen but the member drawing a name from the box containing the thousands of tiny slips cut from the lists of voters has no knowledge of whose name he is going to draw. He does not select any name but draws at random.

We have a hunch that President Coolidge had the ambition to be a cowboy when he was a kid. "Cal" seems to take special delight in wearing the big sombrero presented to him by admirers when he summered out West. He has worn this top-piece on two hunting trips down South where sombreros are never worn by the natives. Possibly Mr. Coolidge may be seeking to emulate "Teddy" Roosevelt.

Someone sent us a postcard from Bangor, Maine, bearing the photo of a tremendous potato and the query "Hungry?" We are not especially fond of spuds.

Recently Dr. George Bigelow, State Health Commissioner, and Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, Health Commissioner of Boston requested the steam railroads and street railways entering Boston to have some windows in cars kept open to better ventilate these public vehicles and thus help to prevent the spread of influenza and other respiratory diseases. Subsequently Dr. Bigelow issued a statement which read:

"The officials of the transportation agencies have apparently fully cooperated with us, but from the number of complaints received, it would suggest that some overzealous or non-co-operating employees are attempting to make the question of proper ventilation ridiculous by overdoing it. We have complaints of cars in which not only the roof ventlators were open but also front and back doors and some of the side windows. This of course is preposterous as we said that open roof ventlators and open rear window gives adequate exchange of air."

From our experience with electric cars used by the Boston Elevated Company there was no need of asking for any windows to be opened when the outside temperature was below 50 degrees. In former years, before the present economizing regime managed the Elevated, the cars of this corporation had double windows placed on them at the beginning of each winter season. There was considerable and justifiable criticism against the extra windows as they could not be raised and on hot days the cars would become overheated and poorly ventilated.

In recent years the extra outside windows were not put on the cars when the cold season set in. Neither have the ordinary windows in the cars been kept in proper condition. We have ridden in the Elevated cars from Newton to Boston during the past few weeks when we had to change seats because of the fact that the little springs which hold the windows in place were missing and the windows rattling loosely allowed the outside air to sweep in with force. One car had a broken window pane for several days to our knowledge. Furthermore, the windows in the Boston Elevated cars are cleaned but rarely and become disgustingly dirty. More men should be employed in the Elevated car yards to keep the cars properly serviced and cleaned. It would be an excellent idea to have the trustees of the Boston Elevated use the cars of this corporation to commute to and from Boston instead of using the steam railroads or automobiles. By doing this the gentlemen who control the affairs of the Boston Elevated would have proper opportunities to observe existing conditions.

The annual meeting of the Waban Church is called for Friday evening, January 18, at 7:30. Previous to the business meeting a Turkey Supper will be served at 6:30 by a committee from the Women's Association headed by Mrs. Wellington Blodget.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Soule and four children who went to New York for the Christmas holidays were all stricken with flu, as were the relatives whom they were visiting, all have recovered and the Soules are now back at their home on Hereford road.

Mrs. Wilfred O. White of Beacon street, director of Camp Tashmoo, entertained the last season's campers at her home on last Saturday. About thirty-five guests were entertained with moving pictures of the camp and camp songs. Refreshments were served.

If broken milk bottles continue to litter our streets perhaps a law will be enacted by the Legislature compelling milk to be delivered in non-breakable containers.

The Mather Class

Prof. Earl Marlatt, of Boston University, spoke on "Protestant Saints" before the Mather Class at its regular weekly meeting last Sunday morning at the Newton Centre Woman's Club House.

Prof. Marlatt has recently brought out a book, entitled "Protestant Saints." He spoke, by special request, on the subject covered by the book.

First he told how he came to write the book. When he was a student at the Boston University School of Theology, he took a very strong course in Church History, given by Prof. Cell, who taught history in terms of outstanding personalities from age to age, rather than by the merely chronological method. In this sort of study, Prof. Marlatt came to have a profound reverence for the great characters of early times.

With this background he went to Italy and one day found himself in the American Church in Rome. He was surprised to notice an Italian Colonel, in the full uniform of the air service, taking part in the Protestant service at that church. When he inquired of the Colonel how that happened, the officer replied that he wanted to be himself in the authentic stream of Italian history, and he had found that the greatest figures in Italian history, such as Michelangelo, Dante, and Garibaldi, were Protestants.

A little further on in his travels, Prof. Marlatt ran into another experience. There was an amusing episode over the propriety of the Americans drinking beer when they were thirsty and water was not obtainable. After considerable good-natured chaffing about the problem, it was finally settled in a satisfactory manner. All this led to an acquaintance with an exceedingly agreeable Italian gentleman, who had been stationed for nine years at Minneapolis, Minnesota, and was Professor of English in the Pope's Seminary at the Vatican. Prof. Marlatt found that he and the Italian Professor had a surprising number of things in common. In fact, there were only a few points on which they disagreed, such as the miracle of the mass, the need of it for redemption, the infallibility of the Pope, and Cyril's doctrine, "Extra ecclesiam nulla salus," which signifies that there is no salvation outside of the church. The more they talked, the more Prof. Marlatt came to feel that the names, Protestant and Catholic, were mere labels, which did not accurately indicate what you might reasonably expect to find behind them.

The book, "Protestant Saints" was the ultimate outcome. It is not an attack on Catholicism nor an apology for Protestantism. It is an attack on the unchristian bigotry that claims that they are hopelessly irreconcilable. They are not divergent streams. Rather, they are parallel channels from a single source to a single sea.

We need to revive apostolic Christianity. We need the fine sincerity and strength of the apostolic church, or, at any rate, to model our present church after the ancient pattern. We need the simple, friend-loving faith of Jesus.

Personality is the great thing, not polity or doctrine. Institutions tend to become static, but personality remains dynamic. The polity and doctrine, about which we quarrel, are insignificant in comparison with the real goal of love and understanding between men which we should all strive to reach. This book of Prof. Marlatt's is designed to show Protestants the splendid qualities of Saint Augustine, Saint Bernard, and Saint Francis of Assisi, and the reasons why they were worthy of canonization; and it is also intended to show Catholics that they cannot anathematize the Protestants without seriously reflecting on their own saints, for those saints were glorious examples of Protestant principles.

In discussing the three saints, Prof. Marlatt spoke first of the very wonderful works of Augustine, his "Confessions" and his "City of God." Augustine had a pretty wild youth, but the high moment of his youthful career came to him, not in the midst of the crowd nor in the church. He was all alone in his garden, when he chance to pick up the Bible and read a little bit. That casual incident and that passage in the Bible marked the turning point in his life. He found his way to God outside the church and before he came into it.

Saint Bernard wrote against the papacy. He said the Pope was too autocratic and paid too much attention to affairs of state and too little to affairs of the spirit. In parallel columns Prof. Marlatt has placed the ideas of Hildebrand and those of Bernard. The comparison is obvious. Bernard found his way to God by solitude and contemplation. He championed democracy against aristocracy.

He caught the spirit of Jesus and presented the work of Luther. He maintained that the church should be a society of believers in Jesus.

Saint Francis of Assisi found his way to God through the idea that, to be of any value to yourself and to others, you should go and do things for others. The only writing of his that we have is a canticle to the sun, entitled "Little Brother of the Sun." Saint Francis substituted service for ceremony. His idea of religion was that it should be experiential and not sacramental. This was squarely opposed to the idea that the sacrament was the whole thing. Furthermore, Saint Francis maintained that the desired experience was not confined to any one institution. He saved the church from shipwreck by his practical program. He believed in light, light everywhere, especially in the dark places. Man may be but a speck of dust floating in the light. In the ages, the dust is forgotten, but the light is remembered, so let us do all we can to spread the light. Prof. Marlatt desires and hopes to do that very thing with his book. Let everyone, regardless of his opinion and beliefs regarding things of secondary importance, mind and heart the things of primary importance, on which everybody, everywhere, can readily agree, and it should accelerate the coming together of the churches on a basis of belief in the great fundamentals of life, so ably championed by these notable men.

Next Sunday the Mather Class is to have the pleasure of hearing Dr. Winfred N. Donovan.

The Class Party will be held Wednesday evening, January 16, at the Newton Centre Baptist Church.

The Class is planning the presentation of a religious drama during the last week in March, at the request of Dr. Arbuckle. This will be for the entire community. Everybody is invited. The title of the drama is Saint Claudia.

General Federation

BIENNIAL COUNCIL. For the incorporation of Club women who may be planning to be at Swampscott, at the time of the General Federation Council meeting, which is to be held this Spring in Massachusetts, on invitation of the State Federation, the plans and rates at hotels are given at this early date so that they may make arrangements at once, and not be disappointed by waiting to make plans until Spring. Early reservations are important.

The New Ocean House, and The Preston are the official hotels for the gathering, and the Biennial Council will open at these hotels on May 27th the conference continuing through June first. It is planned to have the women in attendance from New England occupy Hotel Preston, Swampscott,—those coming from outside New England, the New Ocean House. Rooms for both The Preston and the New Ocean House should be reserved through the management of the New Ocean House.

The following are rates at both hotels: (including room and board), single rooms with bath (limited), per day, per person, $9.00 and $10.00; single rooms with running water (limited), $8.00 and $9.00; double rooms with bath, twin beds, $8.00; double rooms with bath, three beds, $7.00; extra large rooms with bath, four beds, $6.50; double rooms with running water, twin beds, $7.00; double rooms with running water, three beds, $6.50; suites, 2 double rooms, both between four beds, $7.50; suites, 2 extra large rooms, bath between, five beds, $7.00; suites, 2 extra large rooms, bath between, six beds, $8.50; and a few choice double rooms, twin beds and private bath, $9.00. A limited number of rooms in private homes at rates from $1 to $2 per night, per person, can be obtained by applying to Mrs. W. A. Hall, 53 Bay View Drive, Swampscott, Mass.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS MEETING. From forty-eight States and the District of Columbia, the Directors of the General Federation assembled in Washington, D. C., Monday morning, the 7th, for the regular five-day mid-winter session. Among the most important and the most interesting subjects under discussion is the International Relationship program, which Mrs. John F. Sippel, the new president, submitted recently to her Executive Committee, and for which she received from that body a unanimous and enthusiastic approval. As Mrs. Sippel has been traveling continuously during the last few months, she has ample evidence that during the present session of the full Board of Directors there will be not only wholehearted support for, but deep, keen and thoughtful interest in, the contribution to world peace to be made by the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Just what this contribution is, and how it is to be made, Mrs. Sippel announced in the February issue of the Ladies' Home Journal. Quoting a published plan—to which Mrs. Herbert Hoover is one of five signatories—Mrs. Sippel asks in her article: "Can we do more than we are doing now, and have been doing for years, to secure this lasting peace? We pass resolutions urging the ratification of this or that treaty, designed to settle controversy and forestall conflict. We are alert to command this or that act of the government when it appeals to us as a war preventive, and are quick to condemn it when we believe it has war provocative qualities. We 'read up' on war's causes and study long, and discuss earnestly the various mechanisms set up as substitutes for the age-old cruel instrument of war. All of these important things we now—sometimes we do them through organizations of women; sometimes through organizations of both men and women. But the women of the world leaving anything undone that they, as women, are especially well equipped to do?"

Mrs. Sippel then proceeds to point out that "the underpinning of all pacts" are friendly understanding, permanent social contacts, and cultural intercourse; and that the very nature of the General Federation and the provisions of its existing charter fit the organization as an agency for establishing a permanent reciprocity of home folk interests and ideals. She proposes to start her program with a stress on building up these friendly and permanent Club contacts among women in the Western Hemisphere, though efforts are not confined exclusively to this half of the globe, by any means.

While Mrs. Sippel is obviously a woman of ideals and vision, her article shows that she is intensely practical and that she has given careful thought to the difficulties to be overcome, the dangers to be forestalled and the preliminary educative work that must be done to realize the splendid objective she has set up. Club women will welcome this information, therefore, of general Federation plans. The women overseas and in Central and South America, whom she has consulted concerning the projects, are writing in most encouraging vein. "Rest assured," says one correspondent from Central America, "you will have every ounce of co-operation in my being for your policy on international relations." From Moravia, another writes: "However do you manage to rouse the women of your country to a movement with the noble concern of making life richer and better? How dearly should I love to help the women of this country to find the way to that scope. Pray do send me some hints for the first steps or send me some papers where I could learn how to start."

One of the interesting features of the discussion devoted to the program on international relations will be the reading of these letters from women in other lands.

RECENT EVENTS

Auburndale Woman's Club

A regular meeting of the Auburndale Woman's Club was held on Thursday, January 3rd, with Mrs. C. C. Willson, first vice-president, presiding. Mrs. Walter Van Patten Steiger, adviser of the Business and Professional Group, gave a most interesting report of the work and play of this part of the organization, and Mrs. Edward E. Savory spoke of the activities of the Junior Club, of which she is the director.

Mrs. Edmund L. Wilson, chairman of the Education Committee, called attention to a group of lectures on child psychology, to be sponsored by the Newton Federation. Mrs. Arthur W. Desoe, chairman of the Legislative Committee, reminded Club members of the Twelfth District Legislative Conference, to be held in the Auburndale Club House, on Thursday, January 10th, at 2 p. m., and urged all to be present.

Mrs. Willson then introduced Miss Artiss De Volt, an accomplished young harpist, whose charming selections showed real talent and sympathetic interpretation.

Mrs. Arthur W. Desoe introduced the women of the afternoon. Mrs. Winona Osborne Pinkham, whose illustrated lecture entitled "Zoning the State Highways" showed the harm done by ugly billboards, filling stations, and hot dog stands, and how much the roads might be improved by State supervision of these recent additions to our New England scenery.

After the meeting, members were invited, very appropriately, by the Hospitality Committee, Mrs. E. Arthur Hancock, chairman, to partake of hot dogs and coffee at the "stand" which had been erected at the back of the hall.

Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club

At the meeting of the Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club on Monday evening, January 7th, Mrs. William H. Warren presented Miss Cooke, of the Great Northern Railway, who spoke on "Glacier Park" in place of Mr. John Kenney who was ill. Miss Cooke told why the Park was bought by the Government and many other interesting bits of history. The colored slides were not one bit exaggerated as one of the audience who has visited the Park could testify.

Miss Cooke conducts trips for groups of ladies who wish to make the most of their vacations and see all the most interesting and worthwhile places, so her tales of walks, hikes, bus rides and saddle trips had a personal touch not always found in lectures.

Auburndale Review Club

A delightful morning at the home of Miss Margaret Haskell, was enjoyed by members and guests on Tuesday, January 8th. The president, Mrs. Charles Valentine, presided at the meeting, which the committee reported on past and coming activities of the State and City Federations. Gratifying reports of the convalescence of two of the Club's members was announced. Miss Jessie Macmillan, who is staying at 672 Centre street, Newton, soon hopes to be back with her friends again, and Mrs. S. H. Dike, who has been so dangerously ill at her home, is slowly improving.

There were two papers for the morning, one on "Taylor and Fillmore" by the hostess, Miss Haskell, and one on "Franklin Pierce and James Buchanan" by Mrs. Dennett, and read in her absence by Miss Florence Bridgeman. An unusual feature of the morning was the music, Miss Josephine Mitchell, a student at the New England Conservatory of Music, sang a group of songs, accompanying herself on the Dulcimer. Miss Mitchell is a Kentucky girl, and a former teacher at Berea College. She gave a short history of this delightful instrument, which she said was fast being replaced in the Kentucky mountains by more modern, if less musical, banjos and Ukes.

The Club members were reminded of the usual Mid-Winter business meeting, which will be held on Tuesday, January 15th. Only regular members are included in this invitation, full details of which are given under Coming Events for this Club and they should be present, as the business meeting is most important.

The General Secretary, Miss Ruth Chapin, gave her report of the work done by the Bureau during the year 1928. She said that 404 Newton families were served by the Bureau during the year, and 122 of these had never come to the Bureau before. 2356 calls were made by the workers. The chief problem of the year was that of unemployment, particularly during the early months of 1928 although it also extended through the summer months. 113 families out of the total 404 were helped by the Bureau because of the fact that the head of the house was unemployed. During the year 100 positions were secured for women and 55 for men. The next largest problem was medical, and 166 families received medical assistance. 86 people were sent to camp, 70 of these being children and 16 adults. 31 of these children were tubercular contacts and undernourished children who were paid for by the Health Fund, which is the money raised by the sale of Christmas Seals in the city of Newton. Over 1225 articles of clothing were given out during the year.

Lend-a-Hand Masque Presents "Birds' Christmas Carol"

The Lend-a-Hand Masque presented "The Birds' Christmas Carol" by Kate Douglas Wiggin before a large and most appreciative audience last Saturday afternoon in the High School auditorium.

The familiar story of lovely little Carol Bird and her glorious Christmas party for the eager Ruggleses was cleverly portrayed by a most happily selected cast. Under the expert tutelage of Mrs. Derby Brown, the actresses availed themselves of every opportunity to make both lines and situations count for the best possible effects.

The cast follows:

Carol Bird	Esther Merchant
Mrs. Bird	Ethel deMille
Mr. Bird	Ellen S. Kibbe
Uncle Jack	Phyllis Bergen
Elfrida	Dorothy Lewis
The Butler	Mary Sprague
Mrs. Ruggles	Ruth B. Fuller
Sarah Maud	Evelyn Cunningham
Peter	Edith May
Peoria	Olive Webster
Kitty	Edna Dodge
Clem	Unice Braaten
Cornelius	Isobel Skipworth
Larry	Elizabeth Hamilton

Early one Christmas morning in the stillness before dawn and in the midst of softly falling snow, three angels, Dorothy Lewis, Hazel Sholley and Dorothy Fairbrother, gently push open the French doors of the nursery. One of them bears in her arms a dear little baby girl. They dance while the babe is laid in her basket and disappear as the voices of the choir boys in the neighboring church soar aloft in the strains of "Carol, Brothers, Carol."

The grace and beauty of the dancing figures make a very lovely and artistic introduction to the play. The action takes place twelve years later.

It is again Christmas time and Carol, a patient, happy little invalid is shown in her room planning as always for the joy of others. Esther Merchant, as Carol Bird, was truly "the loveliest child."

Her own natural grace of feature and expression added to a most sympathetic interpretation of her lines endeared her to the hearts of everyone. Lovely Mrs. Bird was very well done by Ethel deMille, while Mrs. Kibbe handled the rather unsympathetic role of Mr. Bird very efficiently.

Carol's nurse, Elfrida, played by Dorothy Lewis, made one feel that illness could almost be made worth while if such a charming and understanding nurse were to fall to one's lot. Uncle Jack, that most jovial and lovable of uncles, made all the children wish that he belonged to them too. Much praise is due Phyllis Bergen for her splendid interpretation of a real man's part. After the planning of the Christmas party for the numerous little Ruggles, the first act closed with the hanging in the window of a light like the children of Austria do, to guide the Christ Child, lest he should stumble in the dark night as he passed up the deserted street."

From the sublime to the ridiculous we go—yet a ridiculous with a touch of pathos. The second act takes place in the Ruggles' kitchen where such a scrubbing and brushing has never been enacted before and probably never will again. Too much credit cannot be given to Ruth B. Fuller for her clever and sympathetic portrayal of Mrs. Ruggles, nee McGrill. Sarah Maud,

The Best Period in History For Saving

Business is prosperous and generally speaking, money is plenty. A dollar, however, will buy less today than it would a few years ago. It is likely that in days to come, a dollar can again be exchanged for more than it will purchase right now.

That means that every dollar that you save today will increase in value and be worth more if set aside for future use.

Place your dollars in our co-operative bank for safety and highest earnings.

YOURS ACCOUNT IS WELCOME HERE

We have been wasting time the last few years condemning the results of the war. The war did a great deal to make conditions what they are at present, but it is time to stop blaming the war.

It changed our vocabulary and gave us much of unspeakable vulgarity.

Many of our men and officers could not speak a word of English.

If we tried to eliminate the swear words they could not express themselves.

Cheapness and shrewdness have come from the war and they still linger, but we have got a new day.

We do not need to keep leftovers.

"Youth Is Not To Blame For Today," Miss Slattery Says In Lecture Here

"Lights Along The Trail" Is Subject Before Interested Audience at Central Church, Newtonville

It is not the youth of today that is to be blamed for existing social conditions" was but one of the many significant statements made by Miss Margaret Slattery, noted lecturer and author, in an address entitled "Lights Along the Trail," which she gave last Friday night at the Central Congregational Church in Newtonville. The meeting was under the joint auspices of the Newtonville Council of Religious Education and the Newtonville Woman's Club. The trouble is not with youth, which takes its precedents of its day and time. Jazz is what they like because it is what they are accustomed to. It is only temporary and will die.

The world is getting better, bigger than our fathers lived in. We are thinking things our fathers did not dare to think. We do not hate as once we did.

The community churches have done much to reduce the conflicts of interdenominationalism. In many countries they were forced to combine or die out altogether and the result has been of great benefit to all. We are beginning to discover the meaning of "God is our Father" and we are seeing a better light on the "Brotherhood of Man."

No day has ever been lighter to the youth of its particular day and many painful experiences result. No generation likes to feel that it is not as good as the older generation. Eliminate everybody under 45 years of age and it would not be a happy world.

The same is true if you should eliminate everybody over 25 years of age. It would be a world filled with the "teen age." There would be no anybody to say, "You cannot do this" and that would take the zest away. It would be a dull world. It takes both age and youth together to make a worthwhile world. But many of life's problems are harder to solve because we cannot understand youth and youth cannot talk with age. The cases we hear the most about are the exaggerated cases. It is dead wrong to spend our time condemning the youth of the period.

The child is the product; the parents taught him all he is.

In one case a child was sent to a primary school. He was a child that learned quickly and when he remembered and repeated the white lies he had heard from the lips of his parents in their conversation or over the telephone the mother wanted to know what was the matter with the schools and churches that they could not give her child a better sense of honor.

Of course they cannot. A clear record for attendance at Sunday School throughout the year means only a full day.

What is one day to offset all that the child gathers the rest of the time?

The time to begin is in the cradle. Sacrifice for ten years and it will count—it will be worthwhile.

Then, even if they leave the trail, they will come back. If a child is normal,

Hunnefield Recovered

Bill Hunnefield, White Sox infielder, who was badly burned several weeks ago attempting to save his automobile from burning, has quite recovered. He is confident that the accident will not affect his ball-playing ability and that he will be ready to go South with the rest of the Chicago squad late next month.

Wins Birth After Hour Practice

Henry M. Wheelwright, of Dudley road, Newton Centre, played his first hockey game for the University of Michigan recently against the Western Ontario University sextet at Ann Arbor after less than an hour's practice with the team. Michigan has lacked a goaltender all season and its coach was at a loss as to how to solve the problem. In the afternoon before game, Wheelwright, who the year before had been on the freshman hockey team, asked Coach Lowrey if he could still try out for goal. Recognizing him the Coach tried him out and that night started him in the game in which he performed well enough to win the birth permanently.

Newton increased its lead in the broad jump with Irving Finn jumping true to form to 9 feet 5 inches from the floor. Lascio of Brookline landed second place, his best effort being an eighth of an inch better than that of Milton Fine of Newton, third. Going outdoors again the 300, 600 and 1000 yard runs were staged. The first heat in the 300 was a walkaway for Captain Badaracco of the Red and Blue in 37 3/5 seconds. In the second heat, which was run against time for placing in the point division, were Morgan O'Neill of Brookline and Bob Ewing and Johnny Mullen of Newton. There was a slight tangle at the first bank, where O'Neill led, causing Ewing to break his stride and landing Mullen in second. Mullen chased O'Neill around the saucer and then jumped into the lead at the far corner passing the Brookline runner on the inside. It looked to many as though Mullen was over a stride in the lead when they hit the bank but O'Neill brushed against Mullen and went off the track. Mullen kept his feet and finished in the same time as Badaracco in the first heat to the first. Racchete of Brookline, who was second in the first heat, had third best time.

Capt. Reynolds ran a beautifully judged race in the 600, winning over Dan Smith, the Brookline hope, by a few yards. Reynolds led from the start and at the halfway mark had a ten yard margin but Smith came fast in the final laps. Reynolds ran a heady race and had enough left to spur each time that the Red and Blue runner attempted to pass him. Dick Gibbs, who was expected to land a place for Newton in the event, was at home ill and third place went to Hartigan of Brookline.

McCradden Wins 600

Captain Jimmie McCradden of the Northeastern University freshman track team defeated Eugene Malloy, Huntington school star, in the 600-yard run in the dual meet between the two teams last Friday to provide one of the big upsets of the day. The ex-Newton 1000-yard star raced home in 1 min. 20 1/5 seconds. His time came within three-fifths of a second of the Huntington school track record, established in 1924. The Huskie yearlings took every first place in the running events and tied for a first in the high jump. William Flory of Newton, who has been a star junior athlete for the Newton Y. M. C. A. the past few years, won second for Huntington in the 45-yard hurdle race. He also ran on the Huntington relay team.

B. U. Tops Bowdoin

Boston University defeated Bowdoin college hockey team 4 to 1 last Friday at the Arena. Three ex-Northeastern high players starred for the Maine six. Win Howland, Bowdoin captain and goalie, Harry Thayer and Stuart Stone, Holmes Whitmore, B. U. wing, a former teammate of theirs at Newton, played a strong game for the Terriers. Both Howland and Silberman, B. U. goalie, made several remarkable saves.

Locke Star for Bowdoin

Bowdoin College's men were swamped by the Worcester Tech team last Saturday in the latter's tank, 53 to 18. Locke of Bowdoin was the outstanding performer for the Brunswick matators, swimming second on the winning medley relay team and winning the 200-yard breaststroke race from Capt. Larson of Tech in 2 min. 45 1/5 seconds to set a new tank record.

The high jump, which was held inside, was practically all Brookline with Ewing and Fine of Newton outdoing themselves to stay in the running for a quadruple tie for third place.

The relay, which was run in the fast gathering darkness, was all Brookline with Badaracco and Racchete giving their two succeeding teammates a quarter lap margin which neither Ewing nor Reynolds could cut down.

Tomorrow Brookline will attempt to cut down Newton's margin and on their home track Newton should have the advantage. Although not getting better than third last week Badaracco is favored to win the dash at Newton. It will be ten yards shorter than at Brookline which will give the Brookline runner the advantage as he is much faster off his marks than either Ewing or Pescosolido.

The hurdles should be about the same with the possibility that Brookline will pick up a third place as well as second.

Newton hopes to have Robert Bell, who was ill last week along with Dick Gibbs, the 600-yarder and Allen a hurdler, in the 300-yard run. If he is in shape he will make a battle for a place. Mullen and Ewing are the other orange and black hopes. Badaracco is expected to be the winner of the final outcome there will be some excellent races tomorrow and a large crowd is expected to witness the events.

Should Brookline win the relay it would still give Newton a one point advantage for the meet and a nine point margin for the total points in the two meets. Regardless of the final outcome there will be some excellent races tomorrow and a large crowd is expected to witness the events.

THE WEEK IN NEWTON SPORTS

NEWTON LEADS BY EIGHT POINTS

The Newton high track team outscored Brookline high, 42 1/2 to 34 1/2 last week Saturday on the latter's outdoor track in the first of their annual home and home series, the winner of which scores the largest number of points in both meets. While there were a few upsets they were evenly divided and the final result was pretty close to form. Tomorrow afternoon the two rivals will meet on the Newton track and unless unexpected upsets occur the orange and black should triumph in the end.

The starting last week was not as efficient as it might have been but both teams drew some advantage from it in the different events. Edward Duane of Brookline won the first hurdle heat. In the second heat Capt. Dick Reynolds of Newton was pitted against Levenson of Brookline. The later heat the gun by a wide margin and led Reynolds but the starter called the runners back. When the heat was run over Reynolds won it hands down. Sydney Carter was Newton's other entry in the finals which proved a good race with Reynolds leading Duane to the tape by two feet and Carter finishing third when Levenson tripped on the last hurdle.

The final of the dash was a thriller. Bob Ewing, Newton's star, got away to a poor start but overhauled his teammate, Pescosolido and Captain Badaracco of Brookline with a Charley Paddock finish to beat the pace first. Pescosolido was inches ahead of the Brookline favorite, who was expected to win the event, for the first upset of the day.

The team then adjourned to the municipal gymnasium where the shot put and broad jump were held. Pescosolido of Newton, with several heaves of over 47 feet in practice last week, was favored to win. Harry Flory of Brookline upset the dope with a toss of 46 feet 9 inches for the best of the day with Pescosolido second at 45 ft. 6 in. Ham came through with a third for Newton as expected with a heave slightly under forty feet.

Newton increased its lead in the broad jump with Irving Finn jumping true to form to 9 feet 5 inches from the floor.

Lascio of Brookline landed second place, his best effort being an eighth of an inch better than that of Milton Fine of Newton, third.

Newtonville Woman's Club

"Edgar Allan Poe," by Mrs. Harry Perkins.

Newton Upper Falls Women's Club

Two facts promise to make the next Club meeting of the Newtonville Woman's Club on Tuesday afternoon, January 22nd, one of the most important of the year. First, it is President's Day, when the officers of all the surrounding Clubs are to be entertained. Second, and of equal importance, the Club is most fortunate in being able to hear Henry Turner Bailey give his lecture on "Personalities of Trees". Mr. Bailey not only has an international reputation in the world of Art but he also is a writer of some note. He is very clever with his pencil and he illustrates his lecture as they are spoken.

Miss Virginia Gardiner will sing, and Mrs. William F. Fennin will accompany her. Tea will be served by the Hospitality Committee, Mrs. Robert C. Kelley, chairman.

Other Club activities that are interesting members include: Glee Club rehearsals that are held every Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the Dorothy Curtis Studio, 297 Walnut street. Mrs. Clinton W. Kyle, chairman, would appreciate very much the addition of a few new members.

Tickets for the three Current Event Lectures to be given by Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole are out and may be purchased from Mrs. Samuel Thurber. The first one is to be given on February 11th at the Central Congregational Church.

Mrs. E. P. Hendrick, 309 Crafts street, will be hostess for the next Literary Afternoon on January 21st with the appealing subject "The Rising Generation—Some Remarkable Juvenile Authors."

Waban Woman's Club

"Abolishing the Arctic" is the subject that Vilhjalmur Stefansson has selected for his lecture at the Neighborhood Club, Monday afternoon, January 21st. This should be a meeting of great interest to Waban Woman's Club members, for Mr. Stefansson knows the Arctic Region as few men do, and can present his subject with authority, based on his experience in the Far North. The usual social hour will follow.

On Wednesday, the 23rd, there is offered to Club members a most attractive outing in a visit to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, with special study of the series of American Rooms, by the Art Committee. Mrs. Rowe Gladwin is hostess for the afternoon, and will arrange transportation for all who telephone to her that they hope to join the group attending. The lectures will be given at 2 p.m.

The Legislative Committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Harold E. Fernald, announces the third in the series of four Legislative Classes, for Thursday, the 12th, at 10:30 a.m. Mrs. Edwin J. Morse, of 406 Woodward street, opens her home for this meeting. Miss Marion W. Raymon, executive secretary of the Consumers' League of Massachusetts, will speak on "Laws Affecting Women in Massachusetts." Tickets for the course of four lectures were issued at a fee of fifty cents.

Christian Era Study Club

The next meeting of the Christian Era Study Club will be on Monday, January 21st, at 3 p.m., at the home of Miss Blanche Noyes, 16 Williston road. Two of America's contributors to literature will be the topics for the afternoon's papers; the first on "Washington Irving," by Miss Margaret Haskell, and the second on

Mr. Robert Allingham will play the part opposite Mrs. Montague Ford, with the following cast in support: Sprules, Mr. Norman Mitchell; Simpson, Miss Katherine Wilkins; Miss Benita Mullett, Mrs. Parrar Cobb; Giles, Mr. William Pickersgill; James Chesterton, Mr. Charles Wood Bond; Jean Everard, Miss Molly Draper; Henery, Mr. Sidney Holden, and George Matthew, Mrs. Warren Pierce.

Guest tickets may be secured in advance from Mrs. Douglas Francis, 26 Commonwealth Park, Newton Centre, Cen. New. 1658-A. They will be on sale at the Club House on Thursday morning, January 17th, and at the door the nights of the play.

The Art Exhibit of the interesting work of five artists is now being enjoyed at the Club House, and will continue through the 24th. The paintings on exhibition are by Marion Monks Chase, Carl Gordon Cutler, Charles Hopkins, Gordon Hovey Pepper and Harley Perkins.

Great credit must be accorded the Activities Committee of the Newton Centre Woman's Club, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Cyrus T. Schirmer, for the very unique program they are putting on, under the caption of "Village Follies" for the nights of February 1st and 2nd, at the Club House in Newton Centre.

Mr. Alan Hay, who has the production in hand, has selected some of Newton's most charming girls for his numbers, and his able directorship, together with the fascinating costumes worn by them, will create an evening's enjoyment that should not be missed. Miss Anna Sleevling, one-time instructor with the Bragotti sisters, will give solo numbers, and Mr. George Squire will present a skit with background of local interest.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

By L. D. G. BENTLEY

It is my modest opinion that Chairman Henry L. Harriman of the Boston Elevated trustees has hit upon a plan that will prove immensely popular and accomplish sound results. I refer to the opportunity to be given car-riders to suggest improvements in the service. Mr. Harriman says there will be "the freest and frankest discussion" of transportation conditions in order that there may be brought about a better understanding all around.

The fact that the Elevated trustees invite the public, through their representatives, to free their minds is evidence of a policy which has been urged for a number of years but not adopted. There has never been a time in the past that appointments to the board of trustees by the various Governors have not brought out this question, "Why don't they appoint some car-riders to the board?" Whatever section of the community an appointee might represent it could not be said that he was a strap-hanger, except possibly one man. He, however, was appointed as the representative of organized labor which does not seem to have been slighted at any time by the trustees.

It looks now as if Mr. Harriman had taken it upon himself to give the strap-hangers a show. Now no one will deny that any member of the board of trustees would obtain an entirely different view of conditions if compelled to ride on the cars during the so-called rush hours in the morning and at night. You may read figures, reports and interview officials but one's most accurate knowledge is best obtained by an object lesson and that is precisely what regular riding on the cars will bring about.

Only the other night a fire in Union square, Allston, blocked the inbound cars. People waiting in the subway wondered why no Newton-bound cars appeared. In one of the stations a guard announced, "Big fire in Allston. Newton-Brighton-Watertown Line tied-up." I was surprised to hear him as it has always been the policy of the road to conceal any information concerning operating troubles, accidents, etc. However, I was glad of the information for it gave me opportunity to rush to South Station and take a train. But in the stations where no announcement was made the passengers waited and waited and waited.

Still, it looks mighty bright ahead. Mr. Harriman is a man of vision and a man of broad sympathies. He knows that the poor passenger, after all, is the one who pays to keep the road going and is therefore entitled to consideration.

I wonder what would happen if the officials of the Boston postal district should invite suggestions from the public. I do not believe there is any building big enough to hold the crowd. There would be mobs crowded ing to get in, and you and I, gentle reader, would probably be among those eager to give the postoffice department what it deserves.

Here is a sample of the kind of letters I am receiving because in this column I have endeavored to point out that the postoffice officials are "all wet" regarding the handling of mail in Newton.

"My dear Mr. Bentley," writes a prominent Newton woman. "I read with interest the statements you make in the Graphic regarding the delay in delivery of mail under the new arrangement and as we, too, receive long-delayed letters, and do not always receive papers daily and weekly, I am adding my protest against delays."

"A weekly paper that should have been received last Saturday, Jan. 5, has not come. (The letter is dated Jan. 8.) The paper is mailed in Boston, Thursday afternoon. Two letters addressed here were mailed in Somerville, Mass., Dec. 21, 1928 and received at my address in Newton, Jan. 7, 1929. We hope for improvement."

I don't know what the people of Newton can do unless they organize mass meetings of their own. That would not be such a bad idea. Of course, the fact that this is a Federal matter ties the hands of the State and local governing bodies. If the latter had anything to do with it we might count on some action. Access to Washington seems now to be blocked with hurdles and obstacles as far as getting anybody to take up the protests of Newtonton people. Possibly a new postmaster will assume charge of the Boston district. Then will come an opportunity to ask for improvement with the hope that it may be brought about.

The other day I found a good friend of mine in distress. In fact he came to me with a notion that I could in some way relieve him. He said he had been invited to make a speech at a community gathering and never having appeared in public as a speechmaker before he was almost overcome. "Why did I ever agree to speak?" he asked.

I couldn't answer that one, so he tried to say, "I guess they must have appealed to my vanity. They made me think that I was a great man and could entertain an audience."

"Well, can't you?" I demanded.

He clutched my arm. "Do you want to know the truth?" he hissed.

"Sure," said I.

"Well, I'm frightened to death," he went on. "I don't know how to begin. I don't know what to talk about and worse than all I am supposed to talk for thirty minutes. Now, for heaven's sake, give me some ideas."

It was flattery to be told by in-simulation that I possessed ideas. However, that was not the reason for effort to aid my distressed friend. I did not wish to see him suffer. I therefore brought forth all the suggestions I felt might help him and told him to go to it.

I happened to meet him the day after he had made his speech.

"You'll be glad to know my stuff went big," he said, with unconcealed pride.

Naturally, I congratulated him on his success.

It is hardly to be expected that the proposed legislation submitted to our General Court to make the American goldfinch the State bird of Massachusetts will have sufficient endorsement to bring about the passage of such a law. After all it is a sentimental matter and not essentially vital. Still, as far as that goes the Legislature passed in the course of every session laws that will stand the scrutiny of this suggested measure. Like many acts and resolves it does not mean much, but might be worse.

At the same time there is something in the bill which reminds us that there is such a bird as the American goldfinch and public attention attracted to one bird or all birds is not entirely a waste of time. I do not scoff at the idea, although I must admit I fail to see any reason for it. To have a State bird is surely no harm, but once you open the subject, bird-lovers, or some of them, are likely to take sides. In fact, there may be groups who think that instead of the American goldfinch it should be the grosbeak, or the cuckoo or the hawk or the heron.

For all I know this may precipitate a rush of amendments to the goldfinch bill, if ever it should be reported by a committee. We might have lobbyists working in behalf of the kingfisher, a legislative counsel for the lark, a publicity expert for the magpie and a delegation of orators for the mocking bird.

The goldfinch I find is a native of the old world and has long been a favorite bird in Europe. Personally I do not like to see birds in cages so I hope the goldfinch retains its liberty whether he receives the dignity of a State bird or not. It appears that the American goldfinch averages five inches long and is also called yellowbird and thistle bird. It is bright yellow, with black crown, wings and tail. North America provides its range and it is well known for its characteristic song and undulating flight. I give this description for the benefit of those who like myself might ask, "Just what is the American goldfinch?"

More and more popular is becoming the use of luminous buttons by various workers in the subway and other dark places. They are to warn approaching cars of the presence of men who may themselves be too busily engaged to note the oncoming trolley. As I recall the idea was first adopted on curves in country highways. The light striking on the metal attracted the driver's attention to a sign, "Curve ahead, drive slowly."

Then I saw one of these buttons so made as to fit the wrist like a watch. A driver, at night especially, could by extending his arm in the dark show the driver in the car following a sort of signal light indicating a contemporaneous

The Mather Class

Prof. Jesse B. Davis, Dean of the School of Education of Boston University, addressed the Mather Class last Sunday morning at its regular weekly meeting at the Newton Center Woman's Club House.

His topic was the problem of educating people for a life of service with particular reference to the selection of an occupation best suited to one's own individuality.

We should all respond to the call to service by having a life work in which we can do the best of which we are capable toward realizing the ideal of the finest possible service to our fellow beings. If we do this, whatever our work may be, it is just as much a calling of God if it is digging ditches or preaching the Gospel or anything in between.

The world is more concerned with young people choosing a life work than it ever has been before, because civilization has spread out so far that there really is a genuinely large range of choice.

Years ago everybody, or nearly everybody, who went to High School, did so in order to prepare for college.

If you asked a boy why he was going to college, he would say "just because" or his parent's desired it, or it was the thing to do. If a boy did not go to college, he went to work. There was nothing else for him to do, and he took the first job that came along. From that he drifted hither and yon. It was just as senseless as to start a voyage by hoisting sail, forgetting the rudder, and letting her go. There were no plans, no chart, no particular preparation. The boy merely knew that he was on his way, but he did not know where he was going. He drifted through school, then into his first job, and from that into many others. Statistics show that the average High School boy has six jobs during his first two years out of school. He keeps on drifting till he gets married and acquires responsibilities and can't drift any more. Then he may stick to it. If he has courage and perseverance, he may buckle down and make something of himself.

The U. S. Census shows how the opportunities for occupational life have grown. There are now over 10,000 classifications of occupations in the United States. If the ordinary man tried to name them off-hand, he would probably get stuck around the 100 mark. Practically all are open to women. There are no women steeplejacks and none in the army and navy. The schools have also broadened out their offerings. Where formerly they taught only 15 or 20 subjects, now they have over 75, counting English as one subject, although it runs through the whole four years of High School.

In order to help the child decide what to take, the 7th, 8th, and 9th grades have been reorganized and the Junior High School formed to explore the ability, interest, and aptitude of the pupil, test him out, and guide him more wisely toward what he can best do, so that he can have some sort of a better chance for success in life.

The object of it all is to prepare the pupil for the time when he faces that first job, so that, instead of taking anything that comes along, he will choose the field in which he has the best chance of success.

The old Greek philosopher said, "Know Thyself." The boy should consider his own possibilities, his experience up to the present, and his future as something to be built on that foundation.

Prof. Davis then told about his own experience in college. His father was a minister, but had never pushed the idea of the ministry as the life work for his son. Rather he let him find himself. Boys then as now chose courses for credit, or because they liked the Professor. The man who taught pedagogy was very popular. He was Dr. Thurber. Prof. Davis did not know what pedagogy was and did not care. He liked Dr. Thurber and took the course. He thought it was to be a snap but was fooled. He never worked harder. During the course Dr. Thurber asked young Davis and several others to take the classes, for two weeks, of a High School teacher who was sick. Dr. Thurber watched the young substitute and later went walking with him and talked with him about his experiences. Prof. Davis had taught Sunday School but not day school. He was a leader among young people. He had managed his High School orchestra. He had always been leading or promoting some organization and teaching. Dr. Thurber asked what he was going to build on that foundation. That set the boy to thinking. Later Dr. Thurber asked him if he had drawn the plans for the building on that foundation. The boy had thought about everything but teaching, because to him a teacher meant either a College Professor or a schoolmarm, and he did not think he was either. Dr. Thurber outlined some of the main features of law, medicine, ministry, and public school education. He sort of drew mental pictures of what could reasonably be built on the young man's foundation. Prof. Davis came to a decision and then hunted up Dr. Thurber and told him he had decided on public school administration and teaching. Dr. Thurber asked him if he had decided that for himself or had it thrust upon him. Prof. Davis assured him that he had decided for himself that that was the one thing he must do. Then Dr. Thurber offered him a job as his assistant. That was not vocational guidance as it is sometimes defined. Dr. Thurber helped the boy to see himself. He opened his eyes to see possibilities of service and to answer the question, "How can I Best Fit in to the call of the world?" The boy must think the thing through and come to a decision. The Professor was then ready to help and push him along.

Business houses today have their personnel departments, which seek out an employee's aptitudes and abilities and place him in a line of work where he has the best chance to succeed.

Ford's Welfare Department takes the misfits and moves them around till they find the place where they best fit in.

When a man is honest and wants to work, he is placed where he can work to advantage.

The schools are trying to make the same sort of adjustments. Children are not born equal with the same type of ability. The old idea was that a boy who did not study Greek was feeble minded. There are book-minded pupils who work with books and motor-minded pupils who are skillful with their hands. There are many roads to success. Too many people count success by the dollar sign. The real criterion is that one should enjoy doing his work and should measure success in terms of achievement and of the element of service in making life better for some one else.

Prof. Davis expressed great faith in the rising generation because of its seriousness in thinking about making the best use of life.

He also emphasized the value of an avocation. You may be fixed in your job, but your absorbing chance to be of service may come in something else. A printer runs Marathon races as a hobby, but his great service is teaching a Sunday School class. So much for the avocation.

Intelligence tests are regularly used throughout the grade schools to determine what the pupils are not fitted for so as to prevent failure. On the scale of measurement, 160 points are the maximum. 140-160 means genius. 110-140 indicates success in college or professional work. 90-110 is the big

Not for five years has there been such a grist of new legislation offered for the consideration of the General Court. There were 125 bills filed when the time expired last Saturday afternoon for presenting bills, petitions and resolves. It is hard to explain the unusual number unless it is because amendments of the automobile liability insurance law have appeared on every hand and numerous people have come forward with different remedies.

Committee hearings have been begun in earnest, showing that the plan of prompt action favored by the presiding officers is receiving the co-operation of the Senate and House members.

The Committee on Metropolitan Affairs gave a hearing Monday on the special report of the Metropolitan District Commission on the proposed parkway through Hammond woods from the present end of the West Roxbury parkway to Beacon street at Hobart road. There were five routes proposed three of which would use Hammond street in part. The town of Brookline is opposed to four of the plans but favors that which skirts Hammond's pond. This the commission recommends. A number of Newton men attended, including Henry L. Harriman of the Metropolitan Planning Division, Herbert J. Kellaway, who laid out a similar route in 1908; City Engineer W. P. Morse and City Solicitor Chas. W. Bartlett of Newton.

A bill reported by the Committee on Municipal Finance has more than ordinary interest to Newton. It permits a municipality to appropriate money for the observance of the hundredth anniversary of that particular place. This would give Newton authority to appropriate money for the coming tercentenary next year.

A bill urged by Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook would provide a new method for filling vacancies on party tickets after the primaries. At present such vacancies are filled by the ward and town committee of the district but there is nothing in the law to provide who of the various committee chairmen shall call the meeting or who shall preside. Mr. Cook's bill would have the meeting called, the time and place designated and the organization presided over by the State chairman of the party until such time as a chairman of the meeting is chosen.

It is doubtful if Newton has ever been confronted with the problem of a line of voters waiting to cast their ballots when the polls have closed. Newton voters do their balloting early as a rule. Still, a Quincy Senator wants the Legislature to pass a bill which would allow all those waiting in line a right to vote after the closing hour. He would have a precinct officer step forward, no matter how long the line, and announce that all would have an opportunity of casting their ballots. The Committee on Election Laws has recommended reference to the next annual session.

The first bill to be passed to be engrossed was so acted upon in the House last Tuesday. It provides for the validation of the registration of those voters whose names were added to the voting lists in certain cities and towns last September after 10 o'clock p.m. when the time for registration expired. It will be remembered that in certain places the registrars of voters failed to stop at the closing hour but continued until they had registered all who were waiting in line. This led to a muddle but the passage of the validation measure by this year's Legislature straightens out the whole matter.

"As the Twit Is Bent" will be the subject of a talk by Mr. Cheney C. Jones of the famous New England Home for Little Wanderers—on Friday, January 25, at 10:15 a.m., in Cypress street, going into Paul street, right turn, and continuing west a few hundred feet when by a right swing the bus wheels into Centre street, all set for the return trip to Newtonville.

As the bus usually has a waiting period in Newton Centre Square of about seven minutes the extra few hundred feet needed to make the trip suggested are available, and any time not consumed could be spent loafing opposite Trowbridge street (where the electric car formerly waited), and not in the square as now. This proposed route might be reversed if thought better—it is workable either way and presents no difficulties of operation.

Let the bus be re-routed as herein outlined and the way for extra accommodation and convenience is opened to numbers of residents in the Parker, Cypress and Paul streets district; Oxford road, the proposed Junior High School beyond the Centre street bridge and that new and growing development clustering around Locksley park would benefit also.

Surely the street railway officials will give a thought to the field for more revenue which is spread before them.

LIGHTS ALONG THE TRAIL

wholesome, physically fit, he can be trusted to do the right thing.

At the movies—what do they see? What do they think? Impressions made upon the mind through the eye are the deepest. The mother should know the trend of her child's thoughts.

Some time ago at a conference of youths the speaker asked them to list their outstanding problems in the order of importance to them. First on the list came "What can we do to gain courage to keep to our standards?" how can we be good sports but not go against our standards? Second: "Is there a true God?"—where can we find him? Third: "Can we make older people believe that we are not what they think we are?" Fourth: "Boy and girl relationships." Fifth: "Social problems, and so on through the list of peace and war and the like."

One youth wanted to know why it was that when college girls and fellows got into difficulties the papers screamed headlines, while hardly any mention was made when middle-aged men and women are found in improper circumstances. Many felt that standards were not necessary. They were not made by youth and that only material things needed to be standardized. But a seventeen-year-old youth told them that they had to have standards. There were standards even in the jungle where civilization has hardly reached. They rebelled when it was suggested they take the Ten Commandments for standards. It was found that they could not even say them. Some said they could not honor their father and mother. Why? Because their parents did not speak to each other at the breakfast table, hated each other or were making life disagreeable all the time. These are moral failings that the "teen age" must look at. It is not youth that is making the present day what it is. The trouble is not with youth. Youth takes the precedents of its day and time. We can change it overnight if we will. We have got to in order to prevent the terrible abuse of young humanity. We must change the social order. Youth likes jazz because that is what they are acquainted with. But it is only temporary. It will die.

Youth is hungry for truth and seeking it with all its heart. But what is the end, what does life mean? is the question it asks. Youth is willing to sacrifice—to pay—is unafraid. If youth makes anything of itself it can be torn down by lack of character. The supreme task is to make the world ready for the generation of the day after tomorrow. Alcohol, ignorance and sin must go if they are to be clean in body and spirit. The trail? We cannot change it but we can light it. Light it so youth stumbles it can regain itself and find the way.

"Ring out ye bells, Ring out!" The Anniversary of the ninth birthday of the National Constitutional Prohibition Amendment fell on Wednesday, January 16, 1929.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of every hamlet, town and city of the United States of America—where there is a Union—celebrated this event by the ringing of the church bells; and appealing method for enthusiasts and lovers of musical tones.

At high noon, on Wednesday last, on the New England coast line the bells of rejoicing broke into melody; then the long, long journey began across the continent to the farther shore, through this land of prosperity, from ocean to ocean, from north to south, led by the sun, the Celestial Convoy of the bells of rejoicing: chimes and bells and more bells and chimes rang on and on, along the trail, tossing aloft hither and yon, in wild acclaim the message of Victory! "Rejoice, rejoice, Rejoice greatly!"

WANTS BUS ROUTE CHANGED

To the Editor of the Newton Graphic: During the erection of the Stuart building in Newton Centre Square, temporarily the Newton Centre-Newtownville bus has given up making the turn in the square. The bus now in coming from Newtonville leaves Centre street and goes into Willow street, thence reaching the stand on the south side of the Mason school via Willow, Summer street, across Langley road and along Beacon street.

This route has much against it—the fire engine house passed on Willow street, the bottle neck (made extremely hazardous at Summer and Beacon streets by the Central post office and stores, with hardly any let up on congestion and parking during the busy hours), and the swing into Beacon street having a generous fill of parked autos, with a waiting period for the bus at another heavy traffic point at about Centre—are some objectionable features. A petition late last year was presented by the Middlesex & Boston Railroad Co. to the Board of Aldermen asking that the above-mentioned temporary bus route be made a permanent one.

A property owner living near the east shore of Crystal Lake believes a better solution of the bus turning difficulty is and has been at hand from that day the bus was put into operation some two years ago. The party, who is unduly modest and does not wish to "break into print," declares that his plan finding favor, the bus service will be improved and better serve more people. Furthermore it will restore that part of the accommodation subtracted from the public when the bus superseded the electric car. The solution advanced is as follows:

Forget about the Willow street deflection and continue to run the bus along Centre street to Cypress street, make the easy left turn into Cypress street, going into Paul street, right turn, and continuing west a few hundred feet when by a right swing the bus wheels into Centre street, all set for the return trip to Newtonville.

As the bus usually has a waiting period in Newton Centre Square of about seven minutes the extra few hundred feet needed to make the trip suggested are available, and any time not consumed could be spent loafing opposite Trowbridge street (where the electric car formerly waited), and not in the square as now. This proposed route might be reversed if thought better—it is workable either way and presents no difficulties of operation.

Aldermen Elect Benj. J. Bowen To Fill Vacant Seat---Much Routine Business

Hold Public Hearing on Gasoline Station at Newtonville, Draw Jurors, Report on Petitions, Etc.

The second regular meeting of the 1929 Board of Aldermen was held Monday night. Alderman Ball was allowed so near the church. Other persons also objected.

A number of Newtonville residents were present Monday evening and it looked as though more objections would be raised against the proposed gasoline station, but after Attorney William V. Hayden, who appeared for Mr. Turgeon, the petitioner, had concluded his argument, no person arose to voice objections to the permit being granted. Mr. Hayden repeated the arguments he presented to last year's Board. He stressed the fact that the filling station will cause the removal of the present unsightly old building now located on the site, and that the main driveway to the Central Garage will be on the far side of the lot from the Colonna Apartments, thus removing the objectionable feature of the driveway to the garage now located close to the apartment building. He asserted that the lights in front of the filling station will be so installed as to cast no glare on the Colonna, that Mr. Turgeon's record is proof that the garage and station will be conducted on a high scale and that no traffic hazards will be created. He told the Aldermen that some of the tenants in the Colonna Apartments who signed the petition against the granting of a permit for the gasoline station last year had changed their minds and now favor the granting of a permit. He also presented a petition signed by 200 residents of Newtonville who favored the granting of the permit.

Attorney James P. Gallagher, appearing for Horace W. Orr, owner of property located directly across Walnut street from the site of the proposed station stated that Mr. Orr has no objections to the granting of the permit.

Baker Favors Return To Old Mail System

Centralizing Brought Some Improvements However

Newton Graphic,
Newton, Mass.

Gentlemen:

I note the article by Mr. Bentley in your issue of January 18, 1929, in connection with postal service in Newton and for your information have the following to say:

The Post Office Department at Washington instructed this office to make the experiment of carrier distribution centralized at the new Newton Center Branch Post Office with the sole idea of improving the service to the patrons of the Newtons and not with the idea of saving money, which has been the opinion in some minds. The change which has now been in effect for several months has cost the Government a tidy little sum in additional expense and in some respects has improved the service to say the least, according to the best opinion we secure.

However, as the Postmaster of Boston, I believe that the Post Office Department should allow us to discontinue the system and go back to the old scheme of each office in Newton completely handling its own mail. I have so advised the Honorable John H. Bartlett, First Assistant Postmaster General. I think that before he gives me his decision he will probably have the entire Newton sections of the Boston Postal District inspected in order to see that I am entirely correct as Postmaster in my recommendation.

Sincerely yours,
ROLAND M. BAKER,
Postmaster.

ELEVATED REPORT INTERESTS NEWTON

The Boston papers this week gave detailed plans of the huge improvements and additions proposed for the Boston Elevated system at a cost estimated variously at $50,000,000 and $55,000,000. This huge sum is to be raised by taxing the communities in Greater Boston supposed to be benefited by the projected rapid transit extensions. It is also quite probable, although the report of the special commission, would indicate otherwise, that eventually fare increase may result to help finance the tremendous cost of the project.

The plans, as published, seem to show that the Newtons will benefit to no great extent by the improvements. The proposed rapid transit extension directly affecting this city is Route 1 of the plans. This extension will continue the present Boylston street subway from Kenmore Square to Commonwealth avenue, beyond Harvard avenue at Allston. Such an extension should take several minutes off the running time of the Line street cars. It will be of less benefit in reducing the running time of the cars from Newton Corner because these cars would have to be routed from Brighton avenue along Harvard avenue at Allston, or by some other street to reach the planned extension and this would add several minutes to the time from Newton Corner until the new subway would be reached. Persons taking cars at Newton Corner as a usual thing now obtain seats. Under the proposed change passengers from Newton would be dumped at the subway terminal in Allston where they would perhaps experience the same rush for seats during rush hours now enjoyed at Park street.

Newton Businessmen Hear Telephone Talk

Newton North Exchange Traffic Man at Meeting

The Newton Business Associates held their first meeting of the year last week Thursday evening at the Hunnewell Club. The new president, Thomas Burns presided and introduced as speakers, Albert J. Walsh, traffic manager of the Newton North exchange and Benjamin White of the commercial staff of the telephone company. Following the interesting and instructive talks by the two representatives the business men asked many questions regarding telephone service and operation. At the close of the evening it was the popular opinion that both businessmen and telephone company understood each other far better than before.

Mr. Walsh said that telephone service is a very definite proposition and not an intangible thing as many believe. The company has the interests of every businessman in the community at heart as the more service it can render the bigger it will become. In the future, although probably some time away, more offices will be installed in the Newtons as needed.

The telephone company is divided into three divisions, the plant, commercial and traffic departments, each of which is a separate organization but all of which depend upon each other for co-operation and all of which depend greatly upon the public for co-operation. The plant department constructs, installs and maintains telephone equipment. The commercial department, through which public contact is largely made, handles the accounts, bills, and receipts. The traffic department is the operating end of the company which takes the calls from subscribers and connects him with the party he is calling.

Newton Man For Supreme Court Seat

Council to Act on Nomination Of Fred T. Field

Fred Tarbell Field of 36 Fairmont avenue, Newton, has been nominated by Governor Frank G. Allen to fill the vacancy on the bench of the Supreme Judicial Court caused by the recent death of Justice Henry K. Briley. The nomination is subject to confirmation by the governor's council and is the first to be made by the new chief executive of the state since his induction.

Mr. Field, who was born in Springfield, Vermont, came to Newton some months ago. He attended Vermont Academy and in 1900 graduated from Brown University with the degree of A.B. Three years later he completed the course at Harvard Law School with the degree of LL.B. He was admitted to the Massachusetts Bar in that year and in 1907 was admitted to practice before the United States Supreme Court. From 1905 to 1912 he served as an assistant attorney general of Massachusetts under three Attorney Generals—Herbert Parker, Dana Malone and James Swift. While in this office he specialized in matters pertaining to taxation, to public charitable trusts, municipal law, and Appellate Court work. While holding his position as assistant attorney general he argued an extraordinary large number of cases before the Supreme Court and since that time has appeared at the bar of that court on numerous occasions.

In 1919 Mr. Field served as a member of the U. S. Advisory Tax Board. From 1913 to 1917 lectured in the Boston University Law School and from 1921 to 1923 lectured in the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. During the period from 1920 to 1926 he was a trustee of Brown University.

Will Irwin Gives Newton Audience Some Impressions Of South America

Noted Author Recently Returned From Interesting Trip With President-Elect Hoover

Will Irwin, American war correspondent, author, "World's best reporter" and editor, gave an interesting account of the recent trip of President-elect Herbert Hoover to South America at the Elliot church Tuesday night before an audience numbering about a thousand. The lecture was the fourth in the series of such affairs sponsored by the Elliot Men's club and it was the first public appearance made by Mr. Irwin, who was one of the press correspondents on the trip besides being one of Mr. Hoover's most personal friends, since his return a few weeks ago.

The news and movies sent down there from the United States are painting the wrong picture of this country to the South American people. Most of the news services sent from European countries is under government control and consequently nothing unfavorable is published in South American papers. The United States' news services are not so controlled and consequently the editors use most of the scandal and nothing else. The movies which a few years ago turned sexy now are turning to crime and underworld scenes are the ones sent to South America. Of course many South Americans know the truth and understand the false picture given by the films. But the masses do not know and consequently cannot be blamed for their impressions.

The Monroe Doctrine is a sore spot between the two continents. The doctrine itself is not resented but the interpretations placed upon it lead South America to believe that this big powerful country is keeping watch on them. Mr. Hoover did not go to South America to make treaties and

On a $6000 mortgage the monthly payments are $60, $30 on the mortgage and $30 for interest on the loan. In about 140 months your payments will do the trick. The shares will mature and the loan will be paid. Interest at 5 3/4% added by the bank helps.

Become Independent With Our Help

The compounded earnings that we give to your savings account may seem insignificant. Actually, these earnings or dividends are very important.

Someone has figured that if a man set aside $1.00 a day, it would take over 27 years to accumulate $10,000., if no interest was added.

If the same amount was set aside with 5 3/4% interest compounded quarterly, $10,000. would be reached in less than 17 years.

Our earnings are slightly higher than in most savings institutions where conditions are thoroughly safe.

We are now paying 5 3/4%, compounded quarterly.

Sunday night as Carl Roberts of Middleboro was driving his car along Needham street, Newton Highlands, he was stopped by four men who demanded that he turn around and drive them about a mile to Newton Highlands. Upon his refusal the group, according to Roberts, pulled him from his car and assaulted him. Upon escaping from his assailants Roberts notified the police and Sergt. Bannon with Patrolmen Green and Riley hastened to the scene of the assault, located the alleged assailants and after a chase through nearby woods caught three of them. The trio were in the Newton court Monday and received the following penalties; Timothy Welch, 628 Massachusetts avenue, Boston, 3 months in jail for assault, $10 for drunkenness; William Byrne and Hugh Byrne of 529 Massachusetts avenue, Boston, 30 days each in jail for assault and $10 each for drunkenness. All three took appeals. The identity of the fourth man is known and a warrant was issued for his arrest.

ABOUT TOWN

By Edw. H. Powers

The most famous Moses was associated with bullrushes. His namesake from New Hampshire, will, if he continues his apparent desire to obtain publicity by transgressing his domain, not be associated with the "rushes." Henry Chapin Sawin was wont to remark: "Many boys between the ages of 12 and 18 think they are quite smart." The "smart" period in the New Hampshire senator's life appears to have been considerably blated.

The fatal injuries received by a boy when he was caught in the door of a moving subway train at the Andrew Square station and dragged along the platform calls attention to the fact that many persons wonder why more accidents of this kind do not occur. It also emphasizes the fact that guards on the subway trains should be compelled to stop the practice of giving signals to motormen to start trains before all doors have been closed. Another reform that the new trustees of the Boston Elevated may well accomplish is—provide more station guards at the various subway stations and have at least one guard always on duty at every station of any import.

ROTARY CLUB

By Edw. H. Powers

Dr. C. A. Bouteille, city veterinarian, was the speaker at the regular Monday noon meeting of the Rotary Club at the Woodland Golf Club this week. Mr. Bouteille told the members that contrary to popular opinion rabbies was not entirely a hot weather disease. The disease is slow in developing but at the slightest sign it is wise to examine the dog thoroughly and to restrain him. The disease itself is spread only through contact between a diseased dog's saliva and a cut or wound. Dr. Bouteille expressed gratification at the co-operation received by the police department in suppressing the fear of epidemic several months ago.

The speaker at next week's meeting will be Dr. Albert C. Dieffenbach of the Newton Centre Unitarian church.

LEG IS BROKEN

Evelyn Messer, sixteen years old, of 8 Silver Lake avenue, Newton, suffered a broken left leg when she was struck by an automobile opposite 288 Newtonville avenue, Newtonville, yesterday afternoon, while crossing the street with a girl companion.

The automobile was driven by Donald B. Bischoff of 52 Nonantum street, Newton, and owned by Ralph P. Bischoff of the same address. The driver told the police that he blew his horn as he approached the two girls, and as he did so they ran in opposite directions, and his car struck Miss Messer.

The injured girl was removed to the Newton Hospital. The girl who was walking with her was Miss Marjorie Fay of 331 Newtonville avenue.

BURGLARS AT CHESTNUT HILL

According to the police reports four houses on Waban Hill road, Chestnut Hill have been broken into and looted. Two of the houses, those of Carl Johansson, 43 Waban Hill road, and Mrs. Bessie Colleson, 69 Waban Hill road, were broken into last Saturday night. Jewelry and clothing were stolen from these houses. Following the receipt of the complaints of these two burglaries the police discovered that the homes of John A. Degan, 77 Waban Hill road, and William Brennan, 27 Waban Hill road, had also been entered and looted. These houses were closed for the winter, their owners being away. Entrance to each house was made by forcing a back window.

BUSINESSMEN HEAR TELEPHONE TALK

The speaker called attention to a few of the details of telephone conversation that make for better service. Talking directly into the transmitter gives less chance for the operator to obtain the wrong number. Quick response to the ring of the telephone bell is an aid to better service. While the individual subscriber is having cause for occasional complaint the telephone company is dealing in thousands. An idea of this is portrayed in the fact that there are about 120,000 phones in New England out of which are false, the remainder being actual busy lines. Of the 12% total calls which are "don't answer" calls less than 2% are false. These figures were obtained after a week's study of each "don't answer" and "line busy" calls.

At the Newton North exchange the ordinary staff consists of 125 girls including a chief operator, assistants, clerical help, supervisor and operators. The latter are divided into three classes with each working at a different type of board. The A board operators take nothing but calls coming in from Newton North. The B board operators take calls coming in from outside exchanges while the third class takes the calls for information and number changes. Each A board has seventeen connections and at Newton North there are 40 A board operators. Naturally there is a physical limitation to the board, for example, the A board completes calls up to Number 4199 while those above that number must be passed on to another operator. Naturally there is a physical limitation to the board, for example, the A board completes calls up to Number 4199 while those above that number must be passed on to another operator.

The telephone company has no set time such as from eight to five in which it may confine its problems. It is on duty 24 hours of the day. Its volume of business increases considerably more than that of the storekeeper. At the Newton North exchange 55,000 outgoing and 50,000 incoming calls are handled per day. Between 9 and 10 in the morning it runs up about 5,500, between 10 and 11 it jumps to 5,700 while between 2 and 3 it is down about 3,200. In the evening between 7 and 8 it jumps again to 4,800. At the present time with one-fifth of the operators out sick and temporary operators doing the work it is to be expected that the service may not be quite normal. When many are sick the telephone company has more than normal business to handle. The state laws governing employment of women is another factor the company must deal with in trying to keep an adequate staff on hand for the expected normal business during different hours of the day. When the problems of one exchange are multiplied by those of the other sixty in the division it is something to talk about. Add in the personnel problems and there is plenty more.

Yet despite its own particular problems the telephone company is rendering high grade service. Out of the 100,000 calls per day in Newton North about one-tenth are "don't answer" calls. Some of these may be the fault of the company and some not. Taking into consideration the fact that it takes 25 girls to handle these calls for which the company gets no revenue it can be readily understood that the more calls completed the better the telephone company likes it. The same is true of "line busy" calls.

EDITORIAL

We learn with much regret the decision of Rev. Dr. Edward M. Noyes, to retire from the pastorate of the First Church in Newton which he has so faithfully and so ably served for 35 years. We take issue with the reverend gentleman, however, on the reason he gives for retiring, namely, because he has reached the age of three score and ten. We can see good reason for retiring firemen or policemen when reaching that age, because physical fitness is a requisite for work of that nature. But a clergyman, ripened and mellowed by the years becomes more and more the dependence of his followers for sympathy and advice and until his mental attributes fail is far and away the superior of younger men. We hope and trust that the First Church will persuade Dr. Noyes to withdraw his resignation.

The retirement from active business of Eugene and Frank Fanning, after 52 years of service as the Fanning Printing Company of Newton Upper Falls, is a matter of regret to their many friends throughout the city and the state. The Messrs Fanning have honored the printing profession by their excellent work and fair prices, and have rightfully earned a period of leisure.

ALDERMANIC MEETING

The filing of the report of the special commission on the transportation needs of Boston, with particular reference to the Boston Elevated, was the most important happening of the week. The $50,000,000 program of contemplated improvements and extensions has been made public in detail and since it affects Newton a study of it is worthy of the attention of Newton citizens. The fact that Mr. Henry L. Harriman has had a large share in the preparation of the report and will no doubt strive to have enabling legislation enacted is also a matter of interest in this city. There is no question but this is the biggest matter before the General Court next year. Monday morning, Feb. 4, there will be a hearing on the report before the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs.

In an effort to have legislation put through in compliance with the wishes of Gov. Allen for the promotion of general public welfare a meeting has been called for this afternoon by A. C. Ratshefsky, chairman of the Advisory Board of the State Department of Public Welfare. Mr. Ratshefsky has asked a number of prominent citizens to join him in an effort to see that recommendations made by the Governor in his inaugural address are brought before the General Court and as many as possible made to take tangible form.

Those who read the Governor's inaugural message will recall that he asked for consideration of these propositions: new hospital building for the aged chronic sick, new children's building for nonpulmonary tuberculosis at Lakeville, an addition to the State cancer hospital, survey of compulsory school age from 14 to 15 years for half or full time, revision of child welfare laws, more thorough examination of automobile operators, permanent exclusion from the highways of drivers involved in a fatal accident while under the influence of liquor and co-operation in the plans of President-elect Hoover for stabilization of employment.

The hearing announced on the important matter of building the drain and sewer to make the land in the Cold Spring Swamp territory suitable for building purposes, produced no proponents or opponents. A representative of the Edison Company served notice that the building of the drain will necessitate this company relocating ground plates at its transformer station on Homer street and damages will be expected.

The hearing announced on the important matter of building the drain and sewer to make the land in the Cold Spring Swamp territory suitable for building purposes, produced no proponents or opponents. A representative of the Edison Company served notice that the building of the drain will necessitate this company relocating ground plates at its transformer station on Homer street and damages will be expected.

Three names were drawn, the owners of which will have to serve as jurors at the session of the Superior Court starting in Cambridge on February 11. The first name drawn was that of Edward P. Bosson, 9 Ledges road. But Mr. Bosson will not serve. He had sailed a few days previous on a trip to Europe. The three men who will do civic duty as jurymen are—Ernest L. Johnson, 15 Ionia street; James R. Warren, 604 Quineboogin road; Raymond Warriner, 65 Bothfeld road.

The petition of the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway Company to use the present route of its Waban buses along Washington street and Centre avenue at Newton Corner as a permanent route was granted.

Alderman Prior in a speech during which he paid tribute to the service rendered by ex-Alderman Baker as a member of the Board, presented the name of Benjamin J. Bowen of 13 Hillside terrace as the successor of Mr. Baker. Mr. Prior asserted that Mr. Bowen possesses the requisite ability, integrity and training to make a valuable member of the Board of Aldermen. No other name was presented, so Mr. Bowen was unanimously elected to succeed Mr. Baker.

The new alderman is general traffic superintendent for the New England Telephone Company. He is president of the Men's Club of West Newton.

Chairman Hawkins of the Licenses Committee reported favorably on the following petitions which were granted by the Board: Sadie Froehn, common victualler's permit at 333 Washington street; Garden City Cafeteria, 1365 Washington street, permit to use a radio; Jurad Auto Company, 11 Court street and Reo Newton Company, 732 Beacon street, license to deal in second hand motor vehicles; renewal of gasoline station permits to Walter Amesbury, as signee, 1761 Washington street; James F. Kerrigan, 739 Beacon street; Ladd & Thomas, 333 Boylston street.

Leave to withdraw was given the petition of Arthur Nelson for bowling alleys in the new building at Centre and Elmwood streets, Newton. After making the petition Mr.

Chairman Hawkins of the Licenses Committee reported favorably on the following petitions which were granted by the Board: Sadie Froehn, common victualler's permit at 333 Washington street; Garden City Cafeteria, 1365 Washington street, permit to use a radio; Jurad Auto Company, 11 Court street and Reo Newton Company, 732 Beacon street, license to deal in second hand motor vehicles; renewal of gasoline station permits to Walter Amesbury, as signee, 1761 Washington street; James F. Alderman Tempeler raised the question of business activities being conducted in residential zones in violation of the Zoning Ordinance. He told of one party who recently had purchased a house in an exclusive residential district of Newton, who obtained a building permit to erect a "drawing room" addition to this dwelling and then moved his business office to the house, employing six girls in the office. He referred to other violations of the zoning law and asked that the City Solicitor give the Board more information on zoning. He asserted that the zoning law should be enforced impartially and that the Aldermen should learn what can and what cannot be done about this matter.

Alderman Powers agreed with the Ward 5 member. He told the Board that criticisms are being made of discrimination in the matter of enforcing the zoning ordinance. Persons who apply for intelligence office permits, or other small business activities, are turned down because the locations they seek to do business in are situated in residential zones, but other persons are being allowed to conduct business activities in residential zones without being molested. He referred to two cases where buildings formerly used for a laboratory and a small variety store are being occupied by real estate offices without permission having been obtained from the Board of Aldermen, as required by the zoning ordinance. He suggested that the police and buildings Department observe violations of zoning.

Alderman Grebenstein quoted Section 579 of the Zoning Ordinance which reads—"Whoever violates any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be punished by a fine of not more than $25 for each violation. Upon any well founded information in writing from any citizen that the ordinance is being violated, or upon his own initiative, the Public Buildings Commissioner shall take immediate steps to enforce the ordinance by causing complaint to be made before the district court, or by applying for an injunction in the Superior Court."

President Weeks suggested that the Board of Aldermen may pass a motion asking information from the Buildings Department as to any violations of the Zoning Ordinance. No motion was made at the meeting but it is probable that further activity on this matter will result.

Nelson secured a better occupancy of his building in the form of a new national bank corporation so his desire for the bowling alleys permit ceased. A hearing was assigned on February 4th on the petition of Jacob Kligman for a permit to build a 19-car public garage and gasoline station at 456 Watertown street, Newtonville.

The hearing announced on the important matter of building the drain and sewer to make the land in the Cold Spring Swamp territory suitable for building purposes, produced no proponents or opponents. A representative of the Edison Company served notice that the building of the drain will necessitate this company relocating ground plates at its transformer station on Homer street and damages will be expected.

During the week ending January 19th there were 147 patients in the hospital. Of these 41 paid as much or more than cost of care, 65 paid less than cost of care and 41, including babies, were treated free of charge. 11 babies were born, 10 boys and 1 girl. 165 patients were treated in the out-patient department, and 12 in the eye clinic. 6 accident cases were treated in the operating room. 14 calls were made by the social worker and 8 patients were transported by the social service car.

On Monday evening, January 21, the Know More Kooki held their meeting. Dr. Hamilton and Dr. Lowry discussed the papers. At the examination held on Friday, January 18, the following men were appointed as internees at the Newton Hospital for the year 1929-30: James Lingley, 949 Washington street, Newtonville; Donald W. Leonard, 333 Longwood avenue, Boston, and Cedric Hedolin, 14 Beacon street, Hyde Park.

JAMES MAHER

James Maher, who served the hospital as male nurse and orderly, died suddenly last Sunday. He came to the hospital more than seven years ago, with a strong ambition to make the most of his opportunities. By studious attention to his duties he became singularly efficient. He was by nature cheerful and optimistic, and he had the rare ability to inspire those who worked with him. He was resourceful, reliable, and eminently loyal to the hospital, and devoted to its service. Many of the former patients of the hospital will remember pleasantly his kindly attention and theirs, together with the medical and administrative staff, will regard his untimely death with regret and genuine sorrow.

The First "Bank of the United States"

The first great national bank, called the "Bank of the United States," was established at Philadelphia in 1791, having branches in the leading cities. At that time a national bank was the subject of discussion, as the people believed that the government should have nothing to do with the banking business.

Conscientious planning and expert supervision result in ceremonies unmarred by any neglected detail. Our attendants are trained in thoroughness.

The picture above shows the new offices of the Newton Mortgage Corporation at 85-91 Union street, Newton Centre, nearly opposite the rail road station. The removal of the company from its former location a few doors away is another step in the rapid progress of development since its organization five years ago by prominent local men. The president of the Newton Mortgage Corporation is W. Mark Noble, Jr., the treasurer is Merrill C. Nutting, both of Newton Centre while the Board of Directors includes William M. Noble and Harry

A. Johnson, well-known Newton men, and others.

Policies of fair dealing and sound finance have doubtless been largely attributable to the very rapid growth of this company since its inception. Some months ago the large number of mortgage applications which the company had been receiving made it advisable to provide funds to accommodate those that merited acceptance. To that end the stockholders of the corporation met on August 1st, 1928, and voted to increase the par value of the stock of the corporation from $100 per share of 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock with a par value of $100 per share to 10,000 shares of 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock with a par value of $100 per share, thus making it a million dollar corporation. In addition the Common stock of the corporation was also increased to 30,000 shares with no par value and divided into two classes. The stockholders of the corporation have been pleased to reward with dividends and the clients of the corporation have found their business relations most satisfactory.

IF THIS WAS YOUR PROBLEM

Mary was a rather dirty-faced little girl, whose clothes were held together by the ever-ready safety pin. Her stockings were always coming down, and her shoes unbuckled—if they had any buttons. But Mary was full of "pep." She knew what she wanted and what others wanted. When one was with her, life was a series of adventures, for her mind was teeming with ideas. She was, therefore, the leader of the little group of eight and ten year olds who used to get together in a corner of the shed or lathe in the big, pleasant room of the Neighborhood House. The clique had formed a club, and the Leader of the club wondered what she was to do. If proceedings were really democratic and a vote was taken by the club there was no doubt that Mary would be elected president, and what a dirty, mischievous little president she would be! This Leader however, had been to a class in social service and she had obtained some ideas there. Instead of forcing the group to elect as president someone who wasn't their real leader and whom they would never really accept, she decided to talk over with the club what kind of a president they wanted, what their standards were, in fact. Every little girl said just what she thought before the whole group, so there could be no misunderstanding or backsliding-out. One said she thought a president ought to have a clean face. That was accepted. And she ought not to chew gum—not in club meetings. And her clothes ought to be neat, and she should keep quiet and make others keep quiet during the meetings. Two sessions were spent in deciding what the duties and behavior of officers should be, the secretary and the treasurer and all the others as well as the president. Then the election took place. Of course Mary was elected president, but it wasn't the same Mary who had come to be neat, and she should keep quiet and make others keep quiet during the meetings. # 6 Good Reasons Why You Should Burn Welsh Anthracite

A Genuine Hard Coal

WELSH ANTHRACITE WILL ACTUALLY SAVE you money. It is a PURE coal and every shovelful gives you 1-3 more heat than ordinary coal. Yet ton for ton—the cost is about the same.

YOU GET MORE HEAT PER TON WITH WELSH because it burns better—it burns longer—and there is less waste—two-thirds less ash than ordinary coal—that's a saving.

WHEN YOU BURN WELSH ANTHRACITE IN your furnace or stove you are done with sifting ashes. Welsh burns to powder. You get less than a barrel of ashes to a ton. That means less ash barrels to put out.

YOU GIVE LESS ATTENTION TO WELSH. You just fix your fire and let it burn slowly and steadily. You do not need to shake your fire oftener than every two or three days, then only lightly. It's a carefree coal.

WELSH IS A CLEAN COAL. The cleanest you can burn in your home. It gives a continuous, intensive heat without soot or dirt. Welsh is quick to kindle, and owing to its purity, this coal burns with all drafts checked.

CONSUMPTION OF WELSH HAS ALMOST DOUBLED in a few years. Thousands of satisfied users are buying it again and recommending it to their friends.

Welsh is superior in quality to even the special high grade American Coals—and costs less.

Newton Centre School Association

The annual evening meeting of the Newton Centre School Association, called Father's Night, was one not soon to be forgotten, certainly not to be dismissed with a passing word of "interesting."

A large and representative audience was welcomed in the Mason School Hall, Tuesday evening, by the President, Mrs. William H. Raye. After a varied group of songs—charmingly sung by Mrs. Harry Friedman with Mrs. Kirtley F. Mather as accompanist, the President briefly outlined the work of the year. She stated that the tangible work of the Association was made possible by the annual dues of the members, $75 this year, and such purchases as a radio for the Mason School, a rug for the Rice, reference books for the Newton High school library, a donation for the work of the Newton Central Council had been made, as well as a bas relief hanging in the new library in memory of Helen N. Hopkins, the former president of the Association.

The main object of the Association, however, she said, is to foster the spirit of co-operation between teachers, school and parents.

Henry Turner Bailey, formerly of Newton, now director of the Cleveland School of Art, was then introduced by Mrs. B. K. Thorogood, chairman of the Program committee. His subject was "The Big Three in Education," which consists of three factors, the home, the public school and the church, and the first was the one dealt with at length as being fundamental. He stressed the need for the child's being surrounded by an orderly world from infancy, because that prepares him for the understanding and acceptance of the laws of the universe later, and he urged parents not to be inconsistent in their dealings even with a very young child. The child must have infinite confidence in his parents and a feeling that "consequences" of his own actions, not punishments, follow discipline.

Great emphasis was placed upon parental companionship with children as bringing joy and immeasurable growth to each party. Sunday afternoon excursions of father and children with an interesting nature game, the objects were described, such as finding the smallest living thing, the most birds' nest, etc. Mr. Bailey told of fostering the love of literature, first by story telling and later, as early as the 4th birthday, by beginning a "Private Library" with suitable inscription in the book, for each child.

The second factor, the public school, has two duties, first—to foster general intelligence, second—to discover specialists, and he urged that schools keep the "Fads," for only by so doing will be discovered what each one can best do for the common good, whether as architect, musician, banker, or business man. Further, he urged everyone to have a fad for "Nobody is a success after fifty unless he has a fad." Private schools he dismissed as necessary evils.

The third factor, the church, is necessary because it stands for something outside ourselves. "A power not ourselves, making for righteousness." It is essential in a democracy to believe in God, and a democracy is safe only when men are loyal to the highest they know.

The three factors in Education must pull together, the Home standing for Beauty of Life, the School standing for Truth, and the Church standing for Righteousness.

After the lecture refreshments were served by the Social committee.

Newton Hospital

During the week ending January 12, 1929, there were in the hospital 156 patients. Of this number 46 paid as much or more than cost of care, 64 paid less than cost of care, and 46, including babies were treated free of charge. 16 babies were born, 8 girls and 8 boys. 108 patients were treated by the out-patient department, and 9 in the eye clinic. 13 accident cases were treated in the operating room. 11 calls were made by the social worker and 13 patients transported by the social service car.

On Monday evening, January 14, the Newton Medical Club held its regular monthly meeting at the Hospital. It was also the annual meeting. The speaker was Dr. George C. Prathers; the subject: Post Partem Bladder Complications. There was a discussion of the paper by Dr. Samuel N. Vose. The following officers were elected for the year 1929: President, Dr. David W. Wells, West Newton; Vice President, Dr. Edward Mellus, Newton; Recording Secretary, Dr. Frederic Stanwood, Wellesley; Corresponding Secretary and Treasurer, Dr. Henry Godfrey, Auburndale.

On Wednesday evening, January 16, the Executive Committee met for its regular monthly meeting.

On Wednesday Mrs. Allston Burr and Mrs. E. P. Saltonstall of Chestnut Hill are the Trustee visitors for the month beginning January fifteenth.

On Friday, January 18, at 4 P. M., the examination for internes for the year 1929-30 was held at the Newton Hospital. There were present fourth year students from the Boston University School of Medicine, Tufts Medical School and Harvard Medical School.

The term begins July 1, 1929. At present there are two internes, but with the opening of the new building more will be required.

Five of the thirteen emergency cases treated during the week were the results of automobile accidents, all of them being men. The first was treated for a lacerated lip; the second for a dislocated shoulder; and abrasions of the head; the fourth for a lacerated forehead and abrasions of the nose; and the fifth for a fractured leg. Five other men were treated as the results of various accidents; one for a bruise of his toe caused when a hammer fell on it; one for a dislocated shoulder caused when he fell from a stagging; one for a dog bite on his leg; one for severed tendons and muscles of his right forearm caused when the arm was caught in a machine; and the last for a dislocated shoulder received while he was boxing. One boy was treated for a laceration of his forehead caused when he was hit by a hockey stick. A woman was treated for an infected finger, and a girl was treated for a dislocated elbow received when she fell off a chair.

The Mather Class

Prof. Kirtley F. Mather was back at the Mather Class, after a brief absence of two weeks, at its regular meeting last Sunday morning at the Newton Centre Woman's Club House.

He spoke on the nature of religion and the distinction between the religious and the secular life.

One view of religion, much more prevalent in the past than at present, was that the religious part of life was considered as separate and distinct from the secular part. You put your religion on like a garment, for Sunday only, and took it off on Monday. You were all right if you went through the motions, partook of the right ritual, and belonged to the right organizations. If you did all this, it did not matter what you did between Sundays.

Paul said, "Be not conformed to this world. Some people thought that this meant that the spiritual world was distinct from the material world. James said that pure religion and undefiled meant that one should keep unspotted from the world. People tried to insulate themselves from the world. They thought that their real task was not for this world but to live here in a way to prepare for the world to come. We were pilgrims here, Heaven was our home. Our real existence came hereafter. Religion was used as a wall to keep one out of the world. The monastic spirit was the expression of their characteristic of Christianity. The monk or ascetic lived the good life because he removed himself from the world. Nowadays a great many people have abandoned the idea that the monastic life is the best life.

The important thing is the philosophy at the basis of the superficial indications. The separation of the two lives, spiritual and secular, is the outgrowth of a dualistic philosophy, whereby the world is a two-fold affair. There is conflict between the two universes. There is constant strife between God, the good force, and Satan, the bad force. The spiritual universe is different from the material universe. It is on a higher plane.

The trend of thought swung away from this idea until it came into definite flower in the Protestant Reformation, when it was felt that the secular life should be a religious type of life. The whole of life should be religious. Paul said in his Epistle to the Corinthians, "Do all to the glory of God." Today we are steadily increasing the emphasis on the conception religion as a way of life. The attempt has been made to carry religion into all life. There is a difference, however, between secularizing religion and making secular life religious.

In the rebellion against the spirit of monasticism, the reformers objected to conduct rather than philosophy, to the preachers rather than their preachers. They said that the ministers should come down and mingle with the throng. The minister's garb, appearance, and manners did not distinguish him from the business man. He could talk to a stranger for an hour without disclosing his calling, and felt proud of it.

If it is worth while to bring religion down to life, then our earthly life must itself have value. It may be a preparation for another life to come, but it is valuable for itself alone, when we put religion into all the things we do. The trend thus was to Christianize the entire social order. It was not merely the desire to pluck a brand from the burning, but to put out the fire. Religion was brought out of the church and put into the business house. This broke the barriers which had kept the holy, man separate from the crowd.

The philosophy of monism developed. This emphasized the unity, not the duality, of the world. The universe became what the name implies, a "Unit."

Right here came the parting of the ways. The mechanist, in his attempt to unify the universe, blotted out spiritual affairs and emphasized the material side alone.

The larger group, and the one with the more force, held that the material universe was only a partial manifestation of the spiritual universe. Matter is only temporary and local in time and space.

The chasm between the material and spiritual is being bridged. The natural is that portion of the supernatural about which man has gained some understanding. Our business is to expand the horizon of the natural. The more we understand, the more we shall encroach on the supernatural, and the more we comprehend the universal administration, the nearer we are to the heart of the universe. The tendency of recent years is, not to classify some as men of the world and some others as men of God. All ought to be sons of God. And there is the danger. Religion may become so common that its value disappears. If we bring religion into all departments of our lives it may become so common that it is commonplace.

When the Bible says that we should pray without ceasing, it must mean that we should so live our lives that they are prayers in themselves. Prayer need not be formulated in words. Not even conscious thought is necessary. And there is another danger. If every life is a prayer, and we can pray without directing our thoughts along definite channels, we may think we need not pay any attention to it, and thus reason prayer out of our lives.

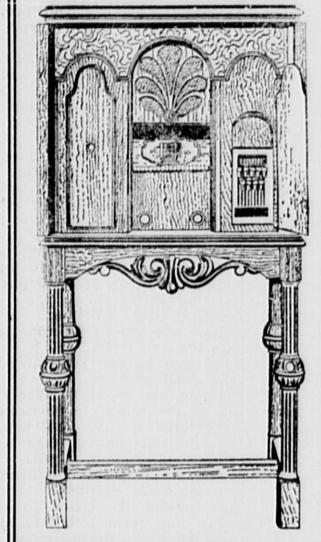

One man offered the idea that the scientific approach to everyday life placed no dependence on God or the supernatural and had no sense of divine support. That was nothing more than humanitarianism. The real leaders of thought have a definite sense of relationship to God, and Prof. Mather alluded to three who have the most perfectly complete sense of divine support that you could ask.

A man, who is a mechanist, has said that the happiness of living individuals is the important thing, the highest good. To be happy, one must be true to himself, whatever he is.

Resigns As Pastor Of Newton Centre Church

Dr. Noyes Completes Thirty-Five Years Service Next October

At the annual meeting of the First Congregational church in Newton Centre last week Thursday evening the resignation of the Rev. Edward McArthur Noyes was tendered to become effective October 1st, the 35th anniversary of his installation as pastor.

Dr. Noyes' resignation comes as a surprise to the members of the parish most of whom have known no other pastor in the first church and many what man really needs is the chance to determine his own conduct and direct his own affairs, instead of being just a cog in the machine.

Conformity stifles progress and forces human nature to remain on the same level. We should strive after what has not been attained, and get an impetus toward a non-existent kind of life, an imaginary goal. This requires vision. In the lowest form of life there is no conscious striving to try experiments to see if some new sort of progress becomes probable.

Man is not adapted to the sum total of his environment. He is forever seeking and not always finding.

If he attained complete happiness, he would not be happy because there would be nothing left to strive for.

Unfulfilled desires are fortunately abundant. We can still determine what our future is going to be. The brachiolopid is a low form of life, say some 400,000,000 years old, perfectly adapted to its environment, presumably happy, and hopelessly unprogressive. Man achieves, not by conformity, but by co-operation with forces outside of himself. He must be dependent on such forces. He needs divine power, not to do his work but to co-operate with him, and help him reach the goal of his visions and dreams. Critics are valuable in pointing out the difficulties and dangers. We should always make the most of our opportunities.

The next Sunday Evening Forum will be held at the home of Albert P.

Smoothness

Never Before Achieved in a Low-Priced Automobile

Of all the exceptional performance qualities resulting from the advanced design of the new Chevrolet Six, none is more impressive than its remarkably smooth operation.

Although the new six-cylinder motor develops 32% more power with correspondingly higher speed and faster acceleration... although it delivers better than twenty miles to the gallon of gasoline——its outstanding feature of performance is a degree of smoothness never before achieved in any low-priced automobile.

To achieve such remarkable performance in a car of such low price, Chevrolet spent years in development work. Over 100 different engines were designed, built and subjected to over a million miles of testing at the General Motors Proving Ground before the present motor was adopted. The new power plant has many unusual features, such as the new acceleration pump, the new gasoline pump and filter, and the new automatic lubrication of the rocker arms.

The four-wheel brakes have been newly designed to assure positive, quiet action. Steering has been made easier. And the new Fisher bodies with their new lines, new colors, adjustable driver's seats and new appointments represent new heights of style, distinction, comfort and value.

We extend you a cordial invitation to see and drive the new Chevrolet Six. We believe it an experience that every motorist should have—and we want you to know how finely the new Chevrolet Six is built and how smoothly it performs!

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

By L. D. G. BENTLEY

Wouldn't it be an ideal community if we combine the rustic charms of a country town with the up-to-date-ness of the city? It seems to me that such would constitute an ideal municipality and prove a delightful place in which to live. It has been truthfully said by a well known writer that many of us would greatly enjoy living in the country "if only Broadway were just around the corner." He knows that there is something appealing about village life but nobody who has lived in a city wants to get too far away from places where people gather in large numbers for social affairs, lectures, theatrical performances, opera, etc. We like to be in the center of things and at the same time find satisfaction in a home town that is noiseless.

Whenever it is possible to find such a place there are many who are only too glad to take up their residence there. A city has its drawbacks, which are numerous, and a "hick" town is decidedly stupid for people of any considerable breadth of mind and vision. So there you are. Personally have spent many pleasant hours in one of those country places of which poets have sung and books have been written. But they are no more perfect than a city except that they permit us to enjoy our rest without racket.

After all it somehow appears that the human element does as much to make things disagreeable in what might otherwise prove the most attractive spot on earth. People in peaceful country towns have their squabbles, their gossip and their mean ways just the same as in the city. There are small town social climbers, critics and tale-bearers who are as active when the roads are packed with snow as in the city where the sidewalks and the streets are open to traffic.

I once visited a country town in the dead of Winter. My two companions had formerly lived there and of course knew many people. The proprietor of the small hotel was a genuine Yankee and had a fund of whimsical humor. With him my companions had an interesting discussion about people in the town. We sat around the stove in the front office and went over the affairs of everybody the three knew. In many cases things were said that were not at all complimentary to certain residents.

There was nothing for me to do but listen. I enjoyed myself, however. There was a high wind which was blowing the snow into great drifts and I felt secure in the warmth and protection of the hospitable tavern. Finally the proprietor turned to me and said, "You heard what I've been telling them and you know what I think of my fellow citizens. Now, tomorrow, when it has cleared off you can get out and find out what my fellow citizens think of me."

Evidence of the control which Speaker Saltonstall has over the House is found in the expeditious manner in which the year's business is being pushed forward. A short session is forecast for 1929 and there is only the most remote possibility of any internal disturbance in the Legislature to delay matters or hold up the transaction of business beyond early Spring.

Everyone who has been present at a meeting of the House since Speaker Saltonstall was elected, declares that a remarkable harmony of purpose is evident and that the new Speaker seems popular with the Representatives as well as with those in the gallery, especially from this city.

I have come to the conclusion that what Newton needs is a traffic survey by an expert. The scheme has worked remarkably well in Boston and I see no reason why it would not operate to the advantage of Newton. This is not intended as a reflection upon the traffic committee of the Newton Board of Aldermen, which has done good work. We are growing too fast, however, to have the direction and supervision of traffic a side line, dependent solely upon the city fathers and their guidance of the police. The problem is getting beyond that point.

Those who have observed how the study of traffic conditions in other cities has brought about many desirable changes will agree, I think, that an expert can do a better job than somebody who has other interests and who is merely contributing spare time. It is all the difference between the amateur and the professional. The amateur does his best but there is a limit which keeps him more or less restrained. Furthermore, a stranger, and particularly an expert, can view local conditions and see things which have never occurred to those under whose observations the same situation has come every day. If you don't believe me take a little time off and read the report of the expert who made an investigation of Boston's traffic problems and produced numerous ideas which were found to be of inestimable value.

Now that the State has stepped in and decided there must be a uniformity of traffic signals, rules and regulations it must be plain that Newton must "peel up" in a number of matters notably that of handling traffic. Recommendations of an expert would have weight where the ideas of local residents might be ascribed to prejudice or spite, particularly of they offend some group of people. We are sometimes afraid of "treading on the corns" of people we know and like when in our hearts we are confident that changes should be brought about. I am strong for a traffic squad of police, with a traffic sergeant. The job is too big for the police at present. A policeman does traffic duty for a few hours in the morning and afternoon and then patrols a route. It isn't good business for a city of more than 50,000 population and the sooner we learn that the better.

"I'm glad to see the snow," said a friend of mine when there had fallen enough of the feathery flakes to bring out the snow shovels and compel certain people to bend their backs over the tasks of clearing paths and sidewalks.

"In that so," another in the group retorted, "you probably have little or no shoveling to do."

"I think, however, that it clears some of the germs out of the air and that we will have less influenza," said the first speaker.

"So that's what snow means to you—sort of prophylactic," demanded the other.

"Yes, that's me."

Then I heard a young woman declaring in elastic terms that it was "perfectly wonderful" to have snow.

ASSERT GAMEWELL WOULD HAVE MONOPOLY

On Saturday last the United States District Court at Cincinnati issued an order restraining the stockholders of the Harrington-Seaborg Corporation of Moline, Ill., from authorizing the sale of that company to the Gamewell Company of Boston. Both of these companies manufacture fire-alarm telegraph systems. The injunction was obtained by the City of Dayton, Ohio which alleges that the sale would allow a contract between the Harrington-Seaborg Company and that city to be broken. This contract called for the installation of a $143,000 fire alarm system. It was also alleged that such a sale will give the Gamewell Company a practical monopoly in the manufacture of fire-alarm signal systems.

COMING EVENTS*Shakespeare Club

The program for the next meeting of the Shakespeare Club of Newton Highlands is the always enjoyable Review of some part of the play the Club is studying for the time. For the afternoon of Saturday, the 26th, Miss Edith McCann will have charge of this Review, it being on Part I of "Henry IV." Mrs. B. R. Gilbert opens her home, 41 Woodward street, for the meeting which begins at 2:30 p.m.

C. L. S. C. Of Newton Highlands

Miss Mary E. Hyde is in charge of the program for the meeting of the C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands on Monday afternoon, the 28th. In the Club's study of "Biography" for the past few months they have learned of the lives, works, writings or achievements of such men as Aristotle, Schubert, Disraeli, and Anatole France, so tracing great men from various periods of history, and of various lands. Miss Hyde will have as her outstanding figure to present in character and ability, "Tolstoy." Miss Adelaide R. Webster of 10 Chester street is hostess for the meeting, which opens at 2:30 o'clock.

Monday Club of Newton Highlands

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands is to enjoy a program of real distinction, as well as entertain as artist for that program, a most prominent and talented Clubwoman of Massachusetts—one who has become well-known in State Federation circles, and in the music world. Mrs. Alice Allen Dryton, Pianist, formerly chairman of Music for the State Federation, is to give a Musical for the Club, and there will also be a Reader to entertain, whose identity will be announced at the meeting. Mrs. James Kingman and Mrs. H. B. Hopkins have the honor of having secured such a program of note, and Mrs. J. S. Patton of 32 Fisher avenue, former president of the Club, is hostess for the day. The meeting comes on Monday, the 28th, at 2:30 o'clock.

Community Service Club Of West Newton

Members of the West Newton Community Service Club are to have a real treat in the literary world during the next few weeks. Miss Sophie Hart, Professor of English Literature of Wellesley College, whose understanding of things literary, and whose lectures are always so keenly interesting because of her sense of humor as well as sense of values, is to give a series of four lectures on "Significant Books of the Day," on alternate Mondays beginning the 28th, in the Unitarian Church Parlors, at 2:30 o'clock. Tickets for the Course at three dollars may be obtained from Mrs. Shirley Ladd, 80 Berkeley street, or at the door. Single tickets are $1. The profits from the sale of these tickets will be used to meet the obligations of the Club's charity work, and it is essential that a large sum be realized. The public is invited to attend.

West Newton Women's Educational Club

Mrs. Louis A. Bacon, leader of the Travel Class of the West Newton Women's Educational Club, reminds the members of the Annual Meeting, which takes place at the next meeting on Monday afternoon, January 28th, at the home of Mrs. Francis E. Nowers, 919 Watertown street, West Newton. "What To Study" next year will be discussed. Mrs. Bacon asks the members to be thinking it over and be ready with suggestions and urges all to attend this most vital conference.

Owing to the amount of business to be transacted there will be but one paper read at this meeting and that will be "The Amazon River," by Mrs. Willard C. Church.

Mrs. Gilbert R. Jones will be joint hostess with Mrs. Nowers.

State Federation

MENTAL HYGIENE. The State Federation calls attention of Clubwomen, and especially of Public Health chairmen of the various affiliated Clubs to a Conference on Mental Hygiene arranged by three prominent agencies of social welfare and study. The Boston Council of Social Agencies, the Boston Health League, and the Massachusetts Society for Mental Hygiene are combining in two sessions on this subject to be held Tuesday, January 29th, at the Boston Chamber of Commerce, the afternoon one being scheduled for 3:30 p.m., and the evening one for 6:30 p.m., with dinner

At 11:30 a.m. "A Challenge to the Woman Voter" will be the subject of a talk by Mrs. Helen King Cheesman, chairman of the Department of Foreign Relations of the Rhode Island Federation of Women's Clubs.

This will be followed at 12:15 p.m. by a talk on "What is Newton Doing to Train its Future Citizens?", by Mr. Horace Kidder, head of the Department of Social Studies of the Newton High School. At 1:00 p.m., luncheon will be served. A Question Period opens at 2 o'clock, conducted by Mrs. True Worth White, secretary of political Education, Massachusetts preceding for business men and others able to attend.

A number of speakers of national prominence will give addresses. Among them will be Dr. Harold A. Phelps, Associate Professor of Social and Political Science at Brown University, whose subject will be "A Critique of Mental Hygiene in Social Work"; Dr. James S. Plant of Newark, N. J.; Mrs. Eva Whiting White, director of the School of Social Work at Simmons College; Robert W. Kelso, executive secretary of the Boston Council of Social Agencies; Dr. C. E. A. Winslow, Professor of Public Health, Yale University; Bailey B. Burritt, General Director of the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, and Dr. George M. Kline, Commissioner of the Massachusetts Department of Mental Diseases.

Presiding officers at the sessions will be Dr. George H. Bigelow, Commissioner of the State Department of Public Health, and Dr. C. Macie Campbell, President of the Massachusetts Society for Mental Hygiene and director of the Boston Psychopathic Hospital.

RADIO. Mrs. Harlan T. Stetson, chairman of Literature, presents from WNAC next Wednesday morning, January 30th, at 11:30 o'clock, a one-act play, entitled "Moth Balls," written by Sallie Kemper. Characters of the cast, of which Mrs. Alice L. Gerlach of Brookline is leader, include Mrs. Earl R. Baker, chairman of the Wollaston Woman's Club Drama Classes, with two other members, Mrs. Donald Macintosh and Mrs. F. Warren Crane.

This is sure to be an intensely interesting broadcast, not only because short plays are so popular, but because it is presented by Clubwomen of Affiliated State Clubs. The title, too, is clever, in that it arouses curiosity, and appeals to the imagination to the extent that there is sure to be a large Club audience at the hour specified.

Newton Federation

Matters of importance to women in general and to Newton women in particular which are coming up in the new session of the State Legislature will be discussed at the monthly meeting of the Executive Board of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs on Tuesday, January 29th, in the Library of the Technical High School, at 2:30 p.m., under the direction of Mrs. Ellis Spear, Jr., Legislative chairman.

Mrs. Winona Pinkham will talk on Child Welfare Legislation, which is of importance at this time because Governor Allen will change the Commission. Delinquency, adoption, and illegitimacy will be discussed by Mrs. Pinkham. Miss Mabel Strong will speak concerning a proposed change in the law affecting continuation schools which would cut the time required from four hours to two hours. State supervision of privately operated homes for the aged will be another important question considered. A third speaker will be announced later.

The fifth in the course of six lectures for parents and teachers on the "Mental Health of the Normal Child," sponsored by three committees of the Newton Federation—Public Health, American Homes and Education—will be given on Thursday, January 31st, at 10 o'clock. The lectures are held in Room 21 of the Technical High School (Elm road entrance) and single tickets may be obtained by interested persons who neglected to secure Course tickets at 50 cents each. Dr. Augusta Bonner, director of the Judge Baker Foundation, and author of "Special Abilities and Disabilities," will speak on the same topic as names her book.

Dr. Bonner quite refreshingly believes that even though children do not respond overwhelmingly satisfactorily to "intelligence tests" they may be decidedly worthwhile because of some special abilities, and on the other hand, the cause of this seeming discrepancy with others who attain a high standing may be some particular disability rather than a general lack. It will be encouraging to mothers and teachers of such "problems" to hear her deductions and advice.

The Annual Midwinter Meeting which follows custom of being in the nature of legislative work is announced by the Newton Federation as Citizenship Day. This will be Tuesday, February 5th, at Central Congregational Church, Newtonville, with the Newtonville Woman's Club Entertaining.

The morning session opens at 10:30 o'clock, called to order by the president, Mrs. J. Porter Russell, at 10:40. "Newton's City Government in Action" will be explained by Mr. Sinclair Weeks, president of the Newton Board of Aldermen.

At 11:30 a.m. "A Challenge to the Woman Voter" will be the subject of a talk by Mrs. Helen King Cheesman, chairman of the Department of Foreign Relations of the Rhode Island Federation of Women's Clubs.

This will be followed at 12:15 p.m. by a talk on "What is Newton Doing to Train its Future Citizens?", by Mr. Horace Kidder, head of the Department of Social Studies of the Newton High School.

At 1:00 p.m., luncheon will be served. A Question Period opens at 2 o'clock, conducted by Mrs. True Worth White, secretary of political Education, Massachusetts League of Women Voters. Clubwomen have opportunity to bring all troublesome questions and they may ask them from the floor or drop them in the box.

Thereafter the afternoon session at 2:30 p.m., opens pleasantly with music by the Glen Club of the Newtonville Woman's Club.

A 2:45 p.m. an address entitled "Meet your State Constitution," will be given by Prof. Brewer G. Whitmore, Professor of Government at Tufts College; and at 3:15 p.m. a second address, entitled "The State's Business," will be given by Hon. John C. Hull, Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives during 1927-1928.

This program, arranged by the Civic Committee of the Newton Federation, Mrs. E. P. Upham, chairman, and the Newton League of Women Voters, should give much valuable information to all who wish to attend, whether Clubwomen or others, men or women.

Newton Highlands Woman's Club

On the 30th the Gymnasium Class which is so enjoying their activities meets for the second lesson in the Work Shop of the Newton Highlands Woman's Club, at 9:30 a.m. And at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, members who are garden enthusiasts will have a wonderful time talking over plans for that garden that is to be planted in the Spring which is to be quite the loveliest ever. The Conservation Committee, of which Mrs. Harris P. Gray is chairman, has arranged some meetings for Club members interested in gardening to exchange ideas and experiences, problems and successes alike. Such interesting, homely familiarities as exchange of treasured seeds, bulbs and plants, discussion of seed catalogues—is there anything more fascinating?—visits to flower shows and successful gardens for inspiration, and even the aim of a Flower Show of their own, are among the possibilities of enjoyment in the meetings and their outcome. The Conservation Committee has planned a most pleasing bit of work in these meetings.

Something new in Exhibits on Arts and Crafts for which the Newton Highlands Woman's Club has become noted, is their special Exhibit coming on February 1st and 2nd, in the Workshop of "Craftsmen at Work." From 10 a.m. to 12 noon, and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, Club members will have the opportunity to see the following—and it is sure to be intimately interesting, Mrs. Frank D. Warren, in block printing; Mrs. Ward L. Cornell, in batik; Mrs. Harry Lamphere in tied and dyed work; Mrs. Emil F. Haberstroh in needlework; Mrs. Thomas Ginn in needlepoint; Mrs. Eleanor B. Widger in Italian cut-work; Mrs. W. Herbert Stetson in pottery; and Mrs. Henry E. Wry in gesso. Besides these Club exhibitors, there will be two workers from the Massachusetts Division of Blind Craft; one who will weave on the loom, and one who will do cane seating. The Art Committee, Mrs. Ernest J. Weaver, chairman, is in charge of the Exhibit.

Social Science Club

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday, January 30th, at 10 o'clock, in the Hunnewell Club parlors, Miss Mary Lewis Spear will read a paper on "Women's Achievements." Mrs. George E. Merrill and Miss Florence A. Graves will be hostesses.

Auburndale Woman's Club and Auburndale Junior Woman's Club

A cabaret to be given by the Auburndale Junior Woman's Club has many surprises for the Senior Club. The girls will give their entertainment on Junior Day, January 31st at the Club House, after the regular meeting of the Woman's Club.

Mrs. J. Warren Bucknam is in charge. Mrs. Harvard Weston and Mrs. John Holmes are coaching the performers. The Misses Helen Durmand, Doris Eliot, Polly Godfrey, Barbara Blackley, Helen Perkins, Dorothy Foss, Ruth Ufford, Priscilla Soule, Katharine Braithwaite, Roxanne Christopher, Shirley Williams, Dorothy DeWitt, Constance Gal, Ruth Johannesson, and Helen Bowley.

Waban Woman's Club

The fourth and last class in Massachusetts Legislation, sponsored by the Legislative Committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Harold E. Fernald, for the information of members of the Waban Woman's Club, meets on Thursday, January 31st, at the home of Mrs. Philip L. Warren, a former member of the Board of Aldermen.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

men Club president, at 86 Waban avenue, at 10:30 a. m. Mrs. True Worth White, executive secretary of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, will speak at that time on "Woman's Responsibility to the State."

Committees of this Club have been presenting some very fine features for Club members this year, but the result of a new venture of the Club is especially worthy of report at this time. Heretofore the program for the coming Club year has been drawn up by the Executive Board, working largely through its various chairmen and also acting upon suggestions from any member of the Club. The duties of the Board are manifold, and time is not always available for sufficient investigation of proposed talent. Sometimes what has been taken on hear-say has proved unsatisfactory, and it was accordingly deemed wise to appoint a committee whose duties would be as follows:

1.—To gather material from as many Year Books of nearby Clubs as possible and from all other sources.

2.—To meet frequently in order to make careful selection of what seemed best.

3.—For as many of the group as could (always two at least) to attend the selected afternoon or evening, so as to have first hand judgment to offer.

4.—To make the best tentative program possible.

When the year's program is made up, it is presented to the Executive Board for consideration.

Nearly every week some of the Committee are working on prospects. Other Clubs have been cordial in welcoming the Waban members to their meetings so that the dues have been varied and pleasant.

The Program Committee this year has felt repaid by the enthusiasm with which their Club programs have so far been received.

Newton Centre Woman's Club

Prof. Kirsch Lake is the speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club, January 31st. There will be a business meeting at 2:30 p. m. followed by the lecture by Prof. Lake on "The Causes and Conditions of Progress." Prof. Lake has been Professor of Ecclesiastical History at Harvard since 1919, and he is the author of many books, including "Landmarks in the History of Early Christianity," "Immortality and the Modern Mind," and "Religion Yesterday and Tomorrow."

"The Village Follies" is the captivating title of the entertainment taking place on the nights of February 1st and 2nd in the Club House, presented as factotum, took charge of the meeting had been concluded, Susanne Dorn, Mrs. Cyrus T. Schirmer is chairman. Wisely the Committee is offering this feature for two evenings, knowing that the large number of Newton folks who will be eager to attend could not be accommodated on one evening. All manner of features will appeal to every taste.

And yet there is enough attraction in the opening number to constitute a whole evening's enjoyment. The stage will be arranged in an artistic setting, and singing and dancing numbers in colorful form, will be presented by some of Newton's young people. The song theme will be "I Can't Give You Anything But Love," and the whole scene will present a picture in rhythmic movement to delight the observer.

The interest in the first number will be repeated many times in the scenes through the entertainment, the whole performance working up to a dramatic climax, with Waltzing Girls, Green Dragons and popular songs, the whole under the management of Mr. Alan Hay, prominent in his connection with the Brookline "Amateurs." Mr. Hay's fine baritone voice will be heard a number of times throughout the evening.

Miss Sievelotti, formerly with the Briggott School for Dancing, will give two solo numbers, and Mr. George Squire will put on a local skit with amusing episodes. Bert Lowe's Orchestra will furnish music for cabaret and dancing later in the evening.

Tables may be reserved through Mrs. Cyrus T. Schirmer, and early reservations are advised for this most attractive offering, lest disappointment await the delinquent.

RECENT EVENTS

West Newton Community Service Club

Mr. William F. Clapp held spell-bound his audience, many of whom were young people, with his talk on animals and insects, at the January meeting of the Community Service Club.

He has a fascinating way of presenting his subject, and gave graphic descriptions of his own experiences with snakes, turtles and spiders. Mr. Clapp has done research work at Harvard University and has devoted twenty years to the study of natural history all over the world.

Mrs. Gurney urged her hearers not to grow old, in mentality, no matter how many birthdays had rolled over their heads, but to keep the heart young, and to try to look at problems with the standard of today, not that of yesterday.

Newton Highlands Woman's Club

Professor Sophie Chantal Hart, of Wellesley College, was intensely interesting and entertaining with her lecture before the Woman's Club of Newton Highlands on Tuesday, January 15th.

Her review of "Orlando" by Mrs. Virginia Wolf, was splendidly and thoroughly covered. She considered it unique book in that it covers a period of three hundred years, and that the character, Orlando, changes its sex to a woman in the 19th century and that it is filled with brilliancy and satire.

The review of the narrative poem and blank verse: "John Brown's Body" by Stephen Vincent Benét, was next taken up, and she stated that it is written in a fine episodic fashion; picturing the rank and file of the common people; a brilliant picture of all the officers of the Civil War. A sense of the home is strongly portrayed, marvelously vivid and humane, especially of Abraham Lincoln.

"John Brown's Body" she considered compared with Homer writings containing much fine and true poetry,

It was interesting to see painters whose work is so individual and personal and different one from the other, showing together. It was evidence that there are many ways of seeing nature and of painting it, which are good. It would be a great misfortune if all men saw and painted alike.

In the excitement this is, that there are these different points of view.

Who can see how another shall paint?

As to the public, there is the same difference of taste. Some accept and enjoy one thing, some another. This makes it all very interesting perhaps disturbing.

What is true is that these five artists enjoy and respect each other's work.

Interesting was "The Morning in Magnolia," of Marion Monks Chase, of fresh greens and wide stretches. Charles Hopkinson has caught fleetness and action in his "Yacht Race," Carl Cutler executed "Gray Days" and "Over the Tree Tops" in the characteristic style of contrasts in color and shapes that was most satisfying.

Harley Perkins' "Ergemoggin Reach" and "Cerro de Cielo, Nogales" showed his perception of Nature whether in Maine or Mexico, a perception unconventionalized, colorful and alive.

Especially charming were the subjects and technique of Charles Hovey Pepper. Several were pictures of Venice on the French Riviera. A grape arbor or low red houses or a winding road on a precipitous mountain, rich in colors of turquoise and amethyst, fresh and crisp in treatment, not ultra modern but still with that awareness that characterizes this group of painters.

POLICE NEWS

In the Newton court last Friday William Hunter of 1337 Beacon street, Brookline, was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. Hunter was arrested by Patrolmen Donaghue and T. Burke after his car had collided with another automobile opposite 710 Commonwealth avenue, Newton Centre. His case was continued until January 25. In court the same day Leo Earle, 43 Arlington street, Brighton, was fined $10 for speeding and $25 for refusing to stop when signaled to do so by a police officer. Thomas Green of Dorchester was fined $10 for speeding; Paul Mercuri, 18 Sun street, Waltham, was fined $5 for driving without proper lights.

In the Newton court on Saturday Monica Berry of 2 Wyoming road, Newtonville, was given a suspended sentence of 30 days to the House of Correction for stealing two quarts of milk from the doorstep of a store at 274 California street, Nonantum. Conrad Larose, owner of the market had complained to the police that someone was stealing milk from the store entrance before it opened mornings. Patrolman John Murphy was watching early Saturday morning and caught Berry purloining the lacteal fluid. In court the same day William Reed of 118 West Newton street, Boston, was fined $10 for speeding, and John Fanning, 94 Auburn street, West Newton, was fined $50 for allowing gambling at his house on the Lord's Day and $5 for being present when the police raided the place and found a crap game in progress.

Angelo Farino of 17 Murphy court, Nonantum, was sentenced to spend six months in jail by Judge Bacon in the Newton court Monday. The reason for Farino being assigned to the Middlesex County house of correction at East Cambridge for so long a period was because he kicked Patrolman Walter Jenkins in the face when the latter was escorting him to Police Headquarters Saturday afternoon in the police wagon. Farino had been arrested by Patrolman "Jud" Sartwell for drunkenness and Jenkins was acting as wagon officer. Jenkins face was badly cut and bruised as a result of the "mule" attack used by Angelo. Jenkins was off duty for several days as a result of his injuries.

RICE PLAYERS AT COMMUNITY THEATRE, NEWTON

The Graphic learns with great pleasure that the Newton Community Theatre, famed for its entertainment, has arranged for a series of six dramatic performances by the Phidelah Rice Players whom the people of Newton and vicinity learned to know and appreciate last season, both for the charming personnel of the players and also for the character and quality of the work which they did. If the response is sufficient, the management hopes to keep them as Newton's permanent stock company.

Phidelah Rice the organizer of this group of players, is one of the foremost impersonators, actors and producers in the country and his name stands as your guarantee that every play produced will be high grade. Mr. Rice feels that the public is now ready for the spoken drama, drama which demands first of all sincerity, beauty of imagination and power.

On Wednesday afternoon and evening the Rice Players will offer the three act comedy "Go Getters." The plot centers around the activities of Bob Manion, a young newspaper editor, who is fighting to boost the business conditions of his somnolent home town. The part of the editor is played by George William Smith, whose adaptability to a variety of roles, strongly contrasted, mark him an unusual artist. The action of the story is fast, breezy and complicated. Each member of the cast will be seen in a role well suited to his particular ability and the play is clean and interesting up to the minute every minute.

"Go Getters" is confidently expected to be one of the big hits of the season. All of your old favorites will be with the company in their first presentation. Geraldyn True, whose fine intelligence, industry and devotion to detail enable her to make convincing any role she may undertake. John E. Hines, who impresses one most strongly with his integrity of purpose, the blending of himself into the character he is portraying. Jessie Rogers, who is the latest member of the cast is a distinct addition with her striking personality. Clinton Sundberg, a juvenile who is not to be surpassed. Elizabeth Hunt, whose youth, dainty grace and spontaneity lend themselves readily to the part of ingenue. Wallace Acton, whose power lies in his ability to make his audience laugh and Donald Sprague is the able director. You will find all these old friends in a good fast comedy "Go Getters," at the Newton Community Theatre on next Wednesday afternoon and evening January 30th.

CHOIR LEADER TO BE ENTERTAINED

The St. Olaf Choir and its distinguished leader, Dr. F. Mellins Christiansen, about to visit Boston for a concert at Symphony Hall, next Tuesday, will have a cordial and friendly reception on their arrival. An entertainment is being planned to be given in the Brasburn Country Club to Dr. and Mrs. Christiansen, together with members of the famous choral organization. Most active in these arrangements is Mrs. Strabo Claggett, Chairman of the entertainment committee, who will likewise receive them at her house. Mrs. Claggett is an ex-member of the Choir, having belonged to its quartet in the season of 1913-14, when they made their memorable tour of Norway.

NEWTON LODGE OF ELKS

The Entertainment Committee of Newton Lodge will put on the annual show for the service men at the Bedford Hospital on Friday evening, February 1st.

Thursday night, February 14 the Past Exalted Rulers of Newton Lodge will conduct the initiatory work for the lodge and an entertainment will be provided after the meeting.

ABOUT TOWN

By Edw. H. Powers

"Tex" Rickard was an unusual man. Any man who was married three times and who makes generous provision in his will for his first wife's mother is much more liberal than the ordinary male human.

The Harvard Dental School has acquired an 11 foot (or should it be feet) tooth, presented to it by Dr. Adelbert Fernald of Elmhurst road, Newton. This big tusk, or incisor, which weighs 300 pounds was unearthed in Alaska, is supposed to be at least 50,000 years old and is probably one of a pair worn by some mastodon. According to Dr. Fernald the tooth was originally at least 13 feet long. If that mastodon had been browsing around the Klondike region and the 13 foot tooth had a cavity in it, just think of the gold filling it might have acquired.

The railroad companies are objecting to the enormous amounts which they would have to spend should they be compelled to abolish all grade crossings on principal highways. We don't blame them. Steam railroad right of ways are well guarded now and most autoists who get killed at grade crossings are themselves to blame. Before the railroads are compelled to go to more expense protecting autoists, why not compel the bus companies, whose vehicles travel on trunk line highways from 40 to 60 miles an hour, to provide their private right of ways?

The "news" in the Boston papers about the Civil Service tests, or considerations which are being given to 13 applicants for the position of Postmaster at Boston amuses anyone who is conversant with the workings of the Postoffice Department of the United States. From an experience of 17 years in the postoffice department we hold the opinion that the determining factor, and the sole factor in the selection of the next postmaster of Boston is—political influence.

The Postoffice Department of this country is one of the biggest, if not the biggest business in the U. S. A. In almost any other line of business the men who supervise are those who have acquired an intimate knowledge of the details of their particular business by working up from the ranks. But in the postoffice department postmaster generals and postmasters are men who, when appointed, almost invariably had not previously been employed in postal work and who know little or nothing of its details. Until postmasters are selected from the ranks of experienced postal employees the postal service of this country will not function as economically or efficiently as it ought to, or as it is alleged to.

In our opinion, the money spent for the purchase and installation of the traffic signal on Adams street at its Washington street end has been largely wasted. Locating the signal where it has been placed will accomplish next to nothing in safeguarding traffic at this point. The writer drives around the corner of these two streets several times each day and knows from actual observation that very few autoists driving from Adams street onto Washington street operate other than with reasonable care. The writer also knows, from experience, that during the heavy travel periods of the day and during the earlier hours at night one who attempts to turn into Adams street from Washington street, when making a left turn, does so at considerable peril because of the speed at which automobiles are operated along Washington street.

Within the past couple of years five elderly persons have been killed on Washington street by automobiles while walking to or from services at the Church of Our Lady, located at the corner of Washington and Adams streets. The new traffic signal referred to will not make Washington street near this corner any safer for churchgoers because it will not tend to slow down automobile traffic on this street. In fact it will tend, if anything, to cause autoists to pass Adams street at higher rates of speed than heretofore because they will assume that the new signal will cause automobiles coming along Adams street to stop, thus giving automobiles on Washington street the right of way and rendering a slackening of speed unnecessary. The proper place for the signal is in the middle of Washington street where it would serve to slow traffic on this thoroughfare and thus protect not only pedestrians, but also autoists making a left turn from Washington street into Adams street. It is on Washington street, not Adams street that the fatalities have occurred, and it is on Washington street that the signal should be located.

As a matter of fact, the only sure way to make Washington street safe is to have this street properly lighted along its whole length, certainly from Commonwealth avenue to the Brighton line. The need of this improvement has long been noted but while less travelled streets in the city have been provided with modern electric lights, Washington street continues to be inadequately lighted with old type lamps, all too few in number. Before this year is out Washington street should be as well lighted as is Lowell avenue.

The same objection that is raised against the traffic signal mentioned in the preceding paragraphs may be raised against the signal recently placed on Thornton street at Pearl street. The Lincoln school is located at this corner and small children are menaced by the automobiles which speed along Pearl street. Residents of the neighborhood petitioned for a signal to be placed at this point expecting that it would be so placed as to cause speeding autoists on Pearl street to slow down. The signal at the end of Thornton street is of little value for this purpose. Other cities have warning signals suspended over streets where it is not practical because of lack of room to place them in the centre of a street. There is no good reason why Newton could not have signals so placed on narrow

IN CELEBRATION OF TIDE WATER'S FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Fifty years of Pioneering and Achievement

The original Tide Water Company was organized in 1878. It is among the oldest in the industry. It laid the first pipe line across the Allegheny Mountains. It carried the first pipe line to Atlantic tide water. Always it has pioneered... in producing, in refining, in selling. And so prudent, so far-seeing has been its direction that Tide Water today stands as one of the most powerful and successful oil companies in the entire world.

Today Tide Water owns, or controls, its own sources of supply. It operates a great fleet of tank steamers to every corner of the world. The equipment at the Tide Water Refinery at Bayonne is of the finest and most advanced type. Leading technical colleges send their students and teachers to study Tide Water methods, machines, and craftsmanship.

Tide Water is particularly proud to be able to commemorate the Fiftieth Anniversary of the company... with the finest motor fuel in its history... Hi-Test TYDOL, a true premium gasoline, at no premium in price!

MADE BY THE MANUFACTURERS OF VEEDOL MOTOR OIL... THE OIL USED IN THE GRAF ZEPPELIN streets, even though a public service corporation is averse to this method.

Within the past year laws were enacted by the Legislature to bring about a uniformity in traffic signals and to place them under the control of the Massachusetts Public Works Department. Heretofore signals located on Newton streets were placed where the Chief of Police and the Street Commissioner decided. The signals referred to in the foregoing paragraphs, as well as all traffic signals erected in the future, must, according to the new statute be located on sites approved by a representative of the Public Works Department. It seems to be the practice of the Public Works Department to indent signals on secondary streets rather than to have them placed out on, or over primary, or through streets. This practice is logical in some cases. In other cases, such as those mentioned here, it is not. While it is common sense to have uniform traffic signals throughout the State, it is not common sense to deprive competent local officials of the right to decide where traffic signals should be placed. They are better acquainted with local conditions than is some employee of the Public Works Department, who, while he may be expert in the general theory of traffic control, certainly is not so well qualified to cope with traffic problems in a city as are experienced and capable local police and street department heads.

"Laddie Boy," the famous Airedale formerly the pet of the late President Harding, and owned since the death of the President by Harry Barker of Eliot avenue, West Newton, died on Monday. Mr. Barker, who was a member of the Secret Service was closely associated with the late President was given the dog by Mrs. Harding and the Airedale has romped the streets of Newtonville and West Newton since 1923. The dog was 10 years old.

KIWANIS CLUB

At the regular meeting of Newton Kiwanis Club held at the Auburndale Club on January 22nd, Kiwanis Anniversary week was observed with an official visit from Lieutenant Governor Harry Marvel who delivered an inspiring address on Kiwanis objectives and gave some practical advice on the development of club efficiency. Lieutenant Governor Marvel's address was followed by a question period and many interesting phases of Kiwanis activities were discussed in question and answer form. The Newton Kiwanis Club directors have voted to join with the Rotary Club and the Newton Chamber of Commerce in underwriting the expense incidental to the contest between the High School Bands and Orchestras of Massachusetts which is scheduled to be held in Newton sometime in May of this year.

Horace Jones, who is well known as the publisher of "Blue Books" of Newton, Brookline, Cape Cod and other de-lux residential sections, is back in this city after a prolonged absence during which he was busy compiling a new book telling "who's who" on the famous neck of land which extends from Buzzards Bay to Provincetown. Horace is better acquainted with Cape Cod than is "Joe" Lincoln, only Mr. Lincoln's books tell about the native Cape Codders and Mr. Jones' books tell about the summer residents.

"Laddie Boy," the famous Airedale formerly the pet of the late President Harding, and owned since the death of the President by Harry Barker of Eliot avenue, West Newton, died on Monday. Mr. Barker, who was a member of the Secret Service was closely associated with the late President was given the dog by Mrs. Harding and the Airedale has romped the streets of Newtonville and West Newton since 1923. The dog was 10 years old.

GIRL SCOUTS

This is the time of the year when, possibly, the general public may forget there are Girl Scouts, until they meet some hurrying along the streets to troop meeting in their green uniforms and gay colored ties, busily discussing the plans for the day. For now is the busiest time of the year for the individual troop, though there are no Rallies or spectacular events taking place. Instead tests of every sort are being passed with flying colors and almost every week sees a Tenderfoot proudly wearing the Girl Scout uniform for the first time.

Next Monday, January 28th, the troop at the Peabody Home for Crippled Children, which has been inactive for two years, will begin its meetings again. Mrs. Fessenden of Newton Centre will be the Captain; she will have as Scouts five girls who were in the troop before and three who were Brownies then and can now be Scouts; there will also be a small group of girls to do Brownie work.

A course in Home Hygiene began at Headquarters, Tuesday, January 22, given by Miss Norcross, a Red Cross nurse; this course will continue for 15 weeks, and the girls will be prepared for 5 Merit Badges at its close. There are 16 girls taking the course; they are Florence Greene, Allison Thorogood, Helen Boyd, Anne Kendall, and Barbara Hockridge of Troop 13, Newton Centre; Willetta Mosser, Troop 14, Waban; Natalie Suvalle of Troop 10, Newtonville; I. F. Turgeon, Walnut Terrace, Newtonville; Liberty Motor Mart, 1203 Washington Street, West Newton; A. W. Parquette, 2107 Commonwealth Avenue, Auburndale; D. B. Clark Co., 863 Washington Street, Newtonville.

After the business meeting, Miss

Helen M. Norcross, Instructor in

Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick for the local chapter of Red Cross explained the purpose of the classes

she was forming. These classes which are taught personal hygiene, prevention of sickness, recognition of symptoms, taking of pulse etc., are an outgrowth of classes formed during the World War among women who had to take the places of trained nurses released for service. Miss

Norcross is the first paid worker of the Newton Chapter and with four classes started and several more in view in but two months' work in our city, her success is assured.

Mrs. Ruth Chapin, General Secretary of the Welfare Bureau, reported that the big problems the past year had been the medical one and that of unemployment the result of the latter being particularly evident in the lack of nourishing food and needed clothing in the home. Generosity during the holiday season makes it possible for the Bureau to bring cheer to many homes in varied ways. There are always new babies on the list which climbs the scale to an old veteran of ninety-seven.
